Whales

Whales are amazing creatures that live in the ocean. They are the largest animals on Earth. There are many different types of whales, but they all have some things in common.

One thing that all whales have in common is that they are mammals. This means that they are warm-blooded, have lungs to breathe air, and give birth to live babies. Whales also have a layer of blubber, or fat, under their skin to keep them warm in the cold ocean water.

Whales come in all different sizes. The blue whale is the largest animal in the world, growing up to 100 feet long and weighing as much as 200 tons. That's as heavy as 33 elephants! The smallest whale is the dwarf sperm whale, which is only about 8 feet long.

Whales are known for their amazing abilities. They can dive to great depths in the ocean, holding their breath for a long time. Some whales can stay underwater for up to 90 minutes! They use echolocation to find their food and communicate with each other. Echolocation is like a built-in sonar system that helps them navigate in the dark ocean.

Whales eat different things depending on their species. Some whales, like the blue whale, eat tiny shrimp-like animals called krill. Other whales, like the killer whale, eat fish, seals, and even other whales! Whales have big appetites because they need a lot of energy to fuel their huge bodies.

Unfortunately, whales face many threats in the ocean. Pollution, climate change, and hunting have all taken a toll on whale populations. That's why it's important for us to protect these amazing animals and their ocean homes.

Next time you visit the beach, keep an eye out for whales swimming in the ocean. You might see their spouts of water as they come up to breathe. Whales are truly magnificent creatures that we should all work to protect.

From Environmental Action to Ecoterrorism? Gerry Nagtzaam,2017-01-27 This book scrutinizes the growth of the eco terrorism movement operating on a global scale focusing on the main groups and their more radical offshoots both historically and those currently active These include Earth First the Earth Liberation Front the Animal Liberation Front and the Sea Shepherd Conservation Society It critically examines how these groups form and how they have evolved their key personnel their strategies and tactics principles motivating philosophies and attitudes to violence Specifically the book seeks to understand whether such groups inevitably evolve from activists to militants to terrorists as the literature suggests Lastly it considers the future of such groups asking whether they will become more prominent as more people become ecologically aware and as global environmental conditions deteriorate or whether such groups have peaked as a force for environmental change

Marine Mammals Peter G.H. Evans,Juan Antonio Raga,2012-12-06 Interest in marine mammals has increased dramatically in the last few decades as evidenced by the number of books scientific papers and conferences devoted to these animals Nowadays a conference on marine mammals can attract between one and two thousand scientists from around the world This upsurge of interest has resulted in a body of knowledge which in many cases has identified major conservation problems facing particular species At the same time this knowledge and the associated activities of environmental organisations have served to introduce marine mammals to a receptive public to the extent that they are now perceived by many as the living icons of biodiversity conservation Much of the impetus for the current interest in marine mammal conservation comes from Save the Whale campaigns started in the 1960s by environmental groups around the world in response to declining whale populations after over exploitation by humans This public pressure led to an international moratorium on whaling recommended in 1972 by the United Nations Conference on the Human Environment in Stockholm Sweden and eventually adopted by the International Whaling Commission ten years later This moratorium largely holds sway to this day and further protective measures have included the delimitation of extensive areas of the Indian Ocean 1979 and Southern Ocean 1994 as whale sanctuaries

Red Leviathan Ryan Tucker Jones,2022-05-30 A revealing and authoritative history that shows how Soviet whalers secretly helped nearly destroy endangered whale populations while also contributing to the scientific understanding necessary for these creatures salvation The Soviet Union killed over six hundred thousand whales in the twentieth century many of them illegally and secretly That catch helped bring many whale species to near extinction by the 1970s and the impacts of this loss of life still ripple through today's oceans. In this new account based on formerly secret Soviet archives and interviews with ex-whalers, environmental historian Ryan Tucker Jones offers a complete history of the role the Soviet Union played in the whales' destruction. As other countries, especially the United States, Great Britain, Japan, and Norway expanded their pursuit of whales to all corners of the globe, Stalin determined that the Soviet Union needed to join the hunt. What followed was a spectacularly prodigious and often wasteful destruction of humpback, fin, sei, right, and sperm whales in the Antarctic and the North Pacific, done in knowing violation of the International Whaling Commission's rules. Cold War intrigue encouraged this destruction, but as Jones shows, there is a more complex history behind this tragic Soviet experiment. Jones compellingly describes the ultimate scientific irony: today's cetacean studies benefited from Soviet whaling, as Russian scientists on whaling vessels made key breakthroughs in understanding whale natural history and behavior. And in a final twist, Red Leviathan reveals how the Soviet public began turning against their own country's whaling industry, working in parallel with Western environmental organizations like Greenpeace to help end industrial whaling, not long before the world's whales might have disappeared altogether.
