

I'M A LITTLE DOLPHIN

BY: LITTLE LEARNING CORNER

I'm a little dolphin
splashing in the sea.
I jump through the waves,
and eat little fish.
When I am happy,
I will click and squeal.
Come swim with me,
in the waves of the sea.

Perception in the Poetry of D.H. Lawrence Jillian De Vries-Mason, 1982 The richness and intensity of perception that distinguish Lawrence's best poems are not a coincidence

This work sets out to trace the steady development and elaboration of the sensory element from tentative beginnings to the highly perceptual and visionary achievement of Lawrence's later poetry a development which is paralleled by and closely linked to the gradual mastery of poetical form Poetry and its Contexts in Eleventh-century Byzantium Floris

Bernard, Kristoffel Demoen, 2016-04-22 Byzantine poetry of the eleventh century is fascinating yet underexplored terrain It presents a lively view on contemporary society is often permeated with wit and elegance and is concerned with a wide variety of subjects Only now are we beginning to perceive the possibilities that this poetry offers for our knowledge of Byzantine culture in general for the intellectual history of Byzantium and for the evolution of poetry itself It is moreover sometimes in the most neglected texts that the most fascinating discoveries can be made This book the first collaborative book length study on the topic takes an important step to fill this gap It brings together specialists of the period who delve into this poetry with different but complementary objectives in mind covering the links between art and text linguistic evolutions social functionality contemporary reading attitudes and the like The authors aim to give the production of 11th century verse a place in the Byzantine genre system and in the historic evolution of Byzantine poetry and metrics As a result this book will to use the expression of two important poets of the period offer a small taste of what can be gained from the serious study of this period
