

"A Story about ME"

Trenton, NJ

You'll never guess what my life was like as a child. I will also tell you about my life now and in the future. So let's get started!

I grew up in Garmichaela, PA. I was the first born child in my family but now I have two sisters, Sophia and Jocelyn. When I was little, I had to go to a daycare in Warrnsburgh so my parents could go to work. That's also where I met two of my best friends, Dylan and Caleb. My very first Christmas I got my dog that I still have to this day, and her name is Chanel.

Now I have her and a cat named Tucker. My life is great! I still live in Garmichaela. I play sports like baseball and football. I also have good grades in school.

Reflections: An Autobiography Dave Ferrari, 2013-11 This autobiography discusses the author's childhood, his entrance into politics and his attempts to prevent legislators from becoming lobbyists immediately upon leaving the Legislature and prevent government bureaucrats from being enriched by businesses they regulate, license, inspect or oversee as a government official. The book discloses the shocking details of elected officials voting for their own personal financial interests and opposing efforts to strengthen campaign finance laws, financial disclosure rules and restrictions on lobbyist gift giving. Eight states flunked the 2012 Center for Public Integrity assessment of transparency, accountability and anti-corruption mechanisms. Not a single state received an A grade and only five earned a B grade. Wyoming ranked 48th out of all 50 States. The risk for government corruption in the states is a nationwide epidemic mirroring the cronyism and perversion at the federal level, yet politicians and their special interests and supporters vehemently deny its existence. The book reveals details of the successful strategy in a gubernatorial political campaign that produced a winner in spite of the fact that his party's registered voters were outnumbered by 2.5 to 1. What did they do? How did they do it? Can the strategy be applied in other campaigns? Conflicts of interest, Influence peddling, Cronyism, Unethical behavior, Acceptance of gifts and favors, Graft and corruption.

The Ethics of Working Class Autobiography Elizabeth Bidinger, 2006-07-19 The ethical dimension of autobiography is emerging as an important area of study. Scholars now recognize that an autobiography must be read with an element of caution since it represents not so much the literal truth as the author's perception of people and events, a perspective sometimes unflattering to those portrayed. Focusing on the ethics of autobiography, this volume analyzes the works of four writers who spent much of their youth in working class circumstances yet became highly educated intellectual professionals. It examines the ways in which each author confronts his or her past and how the authors represent their working class family members. Texts discussed are Growing Up by Russell Baker (1982), Brothers and Keepers by John Edgar Wideman (1984), A Woman in Amber by Agate Nesaule (1995) and Clear Springs by Bobbie Ann Mason (1999). Each work recounts the author's struggle with a particular societal element such as gender, race, class division or region. While Baker's memoir provides an example of positive, balanced characterizations of working class relatives, the texts by Wideman, Nesaule and Mason illustrate the ethical pitfalls in portraying less powerful family members in one's life story. An overview of trends in working class autobiography and a brief survey regarding the critical reception of each work are included.

Autobiography Of A Face Lucy Grealy, 1994-09-27 A New York Times Notable Book. This harrowing, lyrical autobiographical memoir is a striking meditation on the distorting effects of our culture's preoccupation with physical beauty. Publishers Weekly: It took Lucy Grealy twenty years of living with a distorted self image and more than thirty reconstructive procedures before she could come to terms with her appearance after childhood cancer and surgery that left her jaw
