Sharing Our Worlds Joy Hendry, 2008-04 Women today are being instructed on how they can raise their self-esteem, love their inner child, survive their toxic families, overcome codependency and experience a revolution from within. By holding up the ideal of a pure and happy inner core, psychotherapists refuse to acknowledge that a certain degree of unhappiness or dissatisfaction is a routine part of life and not necessarily a cause for therapy. Lesbians specifically are now guided to define themselves according to their frailties, inadequacies and insecurities. An incisive critique of contemporary feminist psychology and therapy, Changing our Minds argues not just that the current practice of psychology is flawed, but that the whole idea of psychology runs counter to many

tenets of lesbian feminist politics Recognizing that many lesbians do feel unhappy and experience a range of problems that detract from their well being Changing Our Minds makes positive prescriptive suggestions for non psychological ways of understanding and dealing with emotional distress Written in a lively and engaging style Changing our Minds is required reading for anyone who has ever been in therapy or is close to someone who has and for lesbians feminists psychologists psychotherapists students of psychology and women s studies and anyone with an interest in the development of lesbian feminist theory ethics and practice Sharing Our Worlds (Second Edition) Joy Hendry,2008-04 Sharing Our Worlds offers the perfect introduction to cultural and social anthropology for anyone approaching the subject for the first time Hendry introduces classic theoretical ideas of the key founders of cultural and social anthropology placing them in their historical and geographical context Carefully structured so that one chapter builds on the next Sharing Our Worlds covers the core topics in an even handed and illuminating manner introducing the reader to divergent views on all the most basic subjects food hygiene gift exchange rites of passage symbolism religion politics and the environment and raising awareness of the emotional value people place on those views Covering a wide array of countries it brings the subject of cultural and social anthropology right into the neighborhood of the reader wherever they are in the world Written in a refreshingly accessible style Sharing Our Worlds offers a compelling introduction to an enigmatic and exciting subject drawing out its relevance and value for the complex multicultural world in which we live Other People's Worlds Joy Hendry,1999-03-01 Other People s Worlds offers the perfect introduction to cultural and social anthropology for anyone approaching the subject for the first time Hendry introduces classic theoretical ideas of the key founders of cultural and social anthropology placing them in their historical and geographical context Carefully structured so that one chapter builds on the next Other People s Worlds covers the core topics in an even handed and illuminating manner introducing the reader to divergent views on all the most basic subjects food hygiene gift exchange rites of passage symbolism religion politics and the environment and raising awareness of the emotional value people place on those views Covering a wide array of countries it brings the subject of cultural and social anthropology right into the neighborhood of the reader wherever they are in the world Combining an abundance of references and further readings for the serious student with an immensely readable and engaging writing style Other People s Worlds offers a compelling introduction to an enigmatic and exciting subject drawing out its relevance and value for the complex multicultural world in which we live The Potential for Anthropology and Urban Community Engagement Jill Florence Lackey,Rick Petrie,2024-07-01 The relationship between anthropology departments and their surrounding urban communities has been traditional limited by a number of factors The Potential for Anthropology and Urban Community Engagement pushes past these limitations developing a firm foundation from which applied anthropology can support grassroots research and lasting community programs Using two partnering Milwaukee organizations as examples this volume explores the need in urban neighborhoods for practicing anthropologists how a high volume of asset building

Japanese Tree Burial Sébastien Penmellen Boret, 2014-02-18 Tree burial a new form of disposal for the cremated remains of the dead was created in 1999 by Chisaka Genpo the head priest of a Zen Buddhist temple in northern Japan Instead of a conventional family gravestone perpetuating the continuity of a household and its identity tree burial uses vast woodlands as cemeteries with each burial spot marked by a tree and a small wooden tablet inscribed with the name of the deceased Tree burial is gaining popularity and is a highly effective means of promoting the rehabilitation of Japanese forestland critically damaged by post war government mismanagement This book based on extensive original research explores the phenomenon of tree burial tracing its development discussing the factors which motivate Japanese people to choose tree burial and examining the impact of tree burial on traditional views of death memorialisation and the afterlife The author argues that non traditional non ancestral modes of burial have become a means of negotiating new social orders and that this symbiosis of environmentalism and memorialisation corroborates the idea that graveyards are not only places for the containment of human remains and the memorialisation of the dead but spaces where people re construct challenge and find new senses of belonging to the wider society in which they live Throughout the book demonstrates how the new practice fits with developing ideas of ecology with the individual s corporality nourishing the earth and thus re entering the cycle of life in nature

Anthropologists, Indigenous Scholars and the Research Endeavour Joy Hendry, Laara Fitznor, 2012 This collection offers the fruits of a stimulating workshop that sought to bridge the fraught relationship which sometimes continues between anthropologists and indigenous native aboriginal scholars despite areas of overlapping interest Participants from around the world share their views and opinions on subjects ranging from ideas for reconciliation the question of what might constitute a universal science indigenous heritage postcolonial museology the boundaries of the term indigeneity different senses as ways of knowing and the very issue of writing as a method of dissemination that divides and excludes readers from different backgrounds This book represents a landmark step in the process of replacing bridges with more equal patterns of intercultural cooperation and communication

Introductory Readings in Anthropology Hilary Callan, Brian Street, Simon Underdown, 2013-03 Anthropology seeks to understand the roots of our common humanity the diversity of cultures and world views and the organisation of social relations and practices As a method of inquiry it embraces an enormous range of topics and as a discipline it covers a multitude of fields and themes as shown in this selection of original writings As an accessible entry point for upper level students and first year undergraduates new to the study of anthropology this reader also offers guidance for teachers in exploring the subject s riches with their students That anthropology is an immensely expansive inquiry of study is demonstrated by the diversity of its topics from nature conservation campaigns to witchcraft beliefs from human evolution to fashion and style and from the repatriation of indigenous human remains to research on literacy There is no single story of anthropology Taken together these fundamental readings are evidence of a contemporary vibrant subject that has much to tell us about all the worlds in which we live

Rethinking Oral History and Tradition N^epia Mahuika, 2019-10-09 Indigenous peoples have our own ways of defining oral history For many oral sources are shaped and disseminated in multiple forms that are more culturally textured than just standard interview recordings For others indigenous oral histories are not merely fanciful or puerile myths or traditions but are viable and valid historical accounts that are crucial to native identities and the relationships between individual and collective narratives This book challenges popular definitions of oral history that have displaced and confined indigenous oral accounts as merely oral tradition It stands alongside other marginalized community voices that highlight the importance of feminist Black and gay oral history perspectives and is the first text dedicated to a specific indigenous articulation of the field Drawing on a Maori indigenous case study set in Aotearoa New Zealand this book advocates a rethinking of the discipline encouraging a broader conception of the way we do oral history how we might define its form and how its politics might move beyond a subsuming democratization to include nuanced decolonial possibilities The SAGE questions and no discipline is better placed to address them than anthropology. It does so by bringing to bear the wisdom and experience of people everywhere whatever their backgrounds and walks of life. In this passionately argued book Tim Ingold relates how a field of study once committed to ideals of progress collapsed amidst the ruins of war and colonialism only to be reborn as a discipline of hope destined to take centre stage in debating the most pressing intellectual, ethical and political issues of our time. He shows why anthropology matters to us all. Introducing Polity's Why It Matters series. In these short and lively books world leading thinkers make the case for the importance of their subjects and aim to inspire a new generation of students.

Culture, Communication and Nursing Philip Burnard, Paul Gill, 2014-01-14 Good communication is an essential part of delivering effective nursing care. Nursing students work in a variety of multicultural settings and therefore it is imperative that they fully understand their own cultural context and that of others. This text illustrates the important differences between cultures and how these differences can enhance practical nursing. Through the comprehensive use of case studies and interactive exercises the book invites students to reflect on their own knowledge and skills about culture so that they can learn to communicate in a more effective and culturally sensitive way. All theory is applied to nursing practice to demonstrate how situations can arise and be dealt with appropriately whilst working on clinical placement. This text is written for students studying the CFP at Year 1. Communication will be studied either as part of a Professional Issues module or Nursing Practice.

Deathscapes James D. Sidaway, 2016-05-13 Death is at once a universal and everyday but also an extraordinary experience in the lives of those affected. Death and bereavement are thereby intensified at and frequently contained within certain sites and regulated spaces such as the hospital, the cemetery and the mortuary. However, death also affects and unfolds in many other spaces: the home, public spaces and places of worship, sites of accident, tragedy and violence. Such spaces or Deathscapes are intensely private and personal places while often simultaneously being shared, collective sites of experience and remembrance, each place mediated through the intersections of emotion, body, belief, culture, society and the state. Bringing together geographers, sociologists, anthropologists, cultural studies academics and historians among others, this book focuses on the relationships between space, place and death, bereavement in western societies. Addressing three broad themes: the place of death, the place of final disposition and spaces of remembrance and representation, the chapters reflect a variety of scales ranging from the mapping of bereavement on the individual or in private domestic space through to sites of accident, battle, burial, cremation and remembrance in public space. The book also examines social and cultural changes in death and bereavement practices including personalisation and secularisation. Other social trends are addressed by chapters on green and garden burial, negotiating emotion in public/private space, remembrance of violence and disaster and virtual space. A meshing of material and more than representational approaches consider the nature, culture, economy and politics of Deathscapes: what are in effect some of the most significant places in human society.
