Shadow Woman A Novel:

Shadow Woman Linda Howard, 2013-01-01 Lizette Henry wakes up one morning and doesn't recognise the reflection staring back at her in the mirror. She isn't suffering from amnesia; she remembers who she is and what she did the day before her parents where she grew up everything. But who she is is not who she sees. Alarmed, she begins searching her house for something anything that will match what she remembers. There is nothing. And yet there is nothing in her life that seems abnormal except herself. She could be crazy but her instincts are telling her this isn't the case. Some women might make an appointment with a psychiatrist but Zette isn't some woman. Deep inside she knows she isn't the face in the mirror and that she has to find out the truth before it's too late. Shadow Women Thérèse Bonvouloir Bayol, 2006 Critical Theory and the Novel David Bruce Suchoff, 1994 A study of the historical origins of cultural criticism in the novel since the mid 19th century using the critical theory of the Frankfurt School to declare the critical force of mass culture as crucial to the making of the modern novel. Discusses how mass audiences and politics presented problems to major novelists and how they responded in their writings and lives. Paper edition, 1995. Annotation copyright by Book News Inc, Portland, OR.

Violent Women and Sensation Fiction A. Mangham, 2015-12-11 This book explores ideas of violent femininity across generic and disciplinary boundaries during the nineteenth century. It aims to highlight how medical, legal and literary narratives shared notions of the volatile nature of women. Mangham traces intersections between notorious legal trials, theories of female insanity and sensation novels. Jean Rhys and the Novel As Women's Text Nancy R.

Harrison, 2017-10-10 Is a woman's writing different from a man's? Many scholars and readers think so even though there has been little examination of the way women's novels enact the theories that women theorists have posited. In Jean Rhys and the Novel as Women's Text Nancy Harrison makes an important contribution to the exchange of ideas on the writing practice of women and to the scholarship on Jean Rhys. Harrison determines what the form of a well-made women's novel discloses about the conditions of women's communication and the literary production that emerges from them. Devoting the first part of her book to theory and general commentary on Rhys's approach to writing, she then offers perceptive readings of Voyage in the Dark, an early Rhys novel, and Wide Sargasso Sea, Rhys's masterpiece written twenty-seven years later. She shows how Rhys uses the terms of a man's discourse then introduces a woman's or several women's discourse as a compelling counterpoint that in time becomes prominent and gives each novel its thematic impact. In presenting a continuing dialogue with the dominant language and at the same time making explicit the place of a woman's own language, Rhys gives us a paradigm for a new and basically moral text. Greiner, 1993 Donald J Greiner s provocative new study evaluates the fiction of ten contemporary female novelists to ask questions about gender relations in American fiction Looking closely at the reaction of female writers to what Greiner describes as a central paradigm of American literature men bonding in the wilderness in an attempt to escape women and the social restrictions they represent Greiner contends that female novelists have not only adopted the venerable model but also adapted it so that women venture into the wilderness while excluding men from the quest Greiner first shows how such contemporary white male novelists as Frederick Busch John Irving and Larry Woiwode modify the literary model established by Cooper Melville and Twain to include women in the bonding process He then argues that recent female novelists are not so eager to allow males into the wilderness or to bond with them Rather than facilitate a closing of the gender gap many contemporary female writers insist on separating the sexes Greiner frames his analysis with discussions of prominent feminist literary theorists and feminist psychologists including Carolyn Heilbrun Rachel Brownstein Nancy Chodorow Janice Raymond and Judith Kegan Gardiner From close readings of recent novels by Gloria Naylor Marianne Wiggins Joan Didion Diane Johnson Marilynne Robinson Mona Simpson Hilma Wolitzer Meg Wolitzer Joan Chase and Lisa Alther Greiner finds three significant differences in the way contemporary female novelists employ the quest plot the patriarchal text is not repudiated but revised to accommodate female characters who readily accept the traditional masculine call to the quest once outside the bounds of society female bonds do not always hold males are excluded from the bonding process To contrast the gender exclusivity favored by contemporary female writers Greiner ends his study with a discussion of bonding as portrayed by contemporary male novelist Douglas Ungar

 Stanley Gardner 1947 by Alva Johnston Different Worlds of Discourse Nanxiu Qian, Grace Fong, Richard Smith, 2008-06-30
 During the late Qing reform era 1895 1912 women for the first time in Chinese history emerged in public space in collective groups They assumed new social and educational roles and engaged in intense debates about the place of women in China s present and future These debates found expression in new media including periodicals and pictorials which not only harnessed the power of existing cultural forms but also encouraged experimentation with a variety of new literary genres and styles works increasingly produced by and for Chinese women Different Worlds of Discourse explores the reform period from three interrelated and comparatively neglected perspectives the construction of gender roles the development of literary genres and the emergence of new forms of print media Emergence of new women in the novels of Shashi Deshpande and Anita Desai Dr. Rachana Yadav, 2018-12-15 Since ancient time s Patriarchal hegemony on socio cultural institutions has established the general notion about woman as a shadow figure to a male concierge be he a father a husband or a son It was also a granted notion that reader writer and even critic of all literature can only be male because this notion assumes the exclusion of female voice from the institution of literary expression shunning her as an inferior sex The purpose of all Patriarchal conspiracy is to retain power and possessive right over womenfolk To make women believe that there is such a thing as essence of femaleness called femininity serves the purpose of Patriarchy This speaks of the Male chauvinistic conspiracy and prudish notion of the male dominance in the world for exploitation of womenfolk British Experimental Women's Fiction, 1945—1975 Andrew Radford, Hannah Van Hove, 2021-08-23 This book scrutinizes a range of relatively overlooked post WWII British women writers who sought to demonstrate that narrative prose fiction offered rich possibilities for aesthetic innovation What unites all the primary authors in this volume is a commitment to challenging the tenets of British mimetic realism as a literary and historical phenomenon This collection reassesses how British female novelists operated in relation to transnational vanguard networking clusters debates and tendencies both political and artistic The chapters collected in this volume enquire for example whether there is something fundamentally different or politically dissident about female experimental procedures and perspectives This book also investigates the processes of canon formation asking why in one way or another these authors have been sidelined or misconstrued by recent scholarship Ultimately it seeks to refine a new research archive on mid century British fiction by female novelists at least as diverse as recent and longer established work in the domain of modernist studies      Armada. A novel, etc Wilkie Collins, 1866
