Huang Di Nei Jing Su Wen Paul U. Unschuld, 2003-04-08 The Huang Di nei jing su wen known familiarly as the Su wen is a seminal text of ancient Chinese medicine yet until now there has been no comprehensive detailed analysis of its development and contents At last Paul U Unschuld offers entry into this still vital artifact of China s cultural and intellectual past Unschuld traces the history of the Su wen to its origins in the final centuries B C E when numerous authors wrote short medical essays to explain the foundations of human health and illness on the basis of the newly developed vessel theory He examines the meaning of the title and the way the work has been received throughout Chinese medical history both before and after the eleventh century when the text as it is known today emerged Unschuld s survey of the contents includes illuminating discussions of the yin yang and five agents doctrines the perception of the human body and its organs qi and blood pathogenic agents concepts of disease and diagnosis and a variety of therapies including the new technique of acupuncture An extensive appendix furthermore offers a detailed introduction to the complicated climatological theories of Wu yun liu qi five periods and six qi which were added to the Su wen by Wang Bing in the Tang era In an epilogue Unschuld writes about the break with tradition and innovative style of thought represented by the Su wen For the first time health care took the form of medicine in that it focused on environmental conditions climatic agents and behavior as causal in the emergence of disease and on the importance of natural laws in explaining illness Unschuld points out that much of what we surmise about the human organism is simply a projection reflecting dominant values and social goals and he constructs a hypothesis to explain the formation and acceptance of basic notions of health and disease in a given society Reading the Su wen he says not only offers a better understanding of the roots of Chinese medicine as an integrated aspect of Chinese civilization it also provides a much needed starting point for discussions of the differences and parallels between European and Chinese ways of dealing with illness and the risk of early death Antiquarianism, Language, and Medical Philology, 2015-01-27 Based on several research seminars the authors in this volume provide fresh perspectives of the intellectual and cultural history of East Asian medicine 1550 1800 They use new sources make new connections and re examine old assumptions thereby interrogating whether and why European medical modernity is an appropriate standard for delineating the modern fate of East Asia s medical classics The unique importance of early modern Europe in the history of modern medicine should not be used to gloss over the equally unique and thus different developments in East Asia Each paper offers an important contribution to understanding the dynamics of East Asian medicine namely the relationship between medical texts medical practice and practitioner identity Furthermore the essays in this volume are especially valuable for directing our attention to the movement of medical texts between different polities and cultures of early modern East Asia especially China and Japan Of particular interest are the interactions similarities and differences between medical thinkers across East Asia Contributors include Susan Burns Benjamin A Elman Asaf Goldschmidt Angela KC Leung Federico Marcon MAYANAGI Makoto Fabien Simonis Daniel Trambaiolo and Mathias Vigouroux
