Black American Students in An Affluent Suburb John U. Ogbu,2003-02-26 John Ogbu has studied minority education from a comparative perspective for over 30 years The study reported in this book jointly sponsored by the community and the school district in Shaker Heights Ohio focuses on the academic performance of Black American students Not only do these students perform less well than White students at every social class level but also less well than immigrant minority students including Black immigrant students Furthermore both middle class Black students in suburban school districts as well as poor Black students in inner city schools are not doing well Ogbu s analysis draws on data from observations formal and informal interviews and statistical and other data He offers strong empirical evidence to support the cross class existence of the problem The book is organized in four parts Part I provides a description of the twin problems the study addresses the gap between Black and White students in school performance and the low academic engagement of Black students a review of conventional explanations an alternative perspective and the framework for the study Part II is an analysis of societal and school factors contributing to the problem including race relations Pygmalion or internalized White beliefs and expectations levelling or tracking the roles of teachers counselors and discipline Community factors the focus of this study are discussed in Part III These include the educational impact of opportunity structure collective identity cultural and language or dialect frame of reference in schooling peer pressures and the role of the family This research focus does not mean exonerating the system and blaming minorities nor does it mean neglecting school and society factors Rather Ogbu argues the role of community forces should be incorporated into the discussion of the academic achievement gap by researchers theoreticians policymakers educators and minorities themselves who genuinely want to improve the academic achievement of African American children and other minorities In Part IV Ogbu presents a summary of the study s findings on community forces and offers recommendations some of which are for the school system and some for the Black community Black American Students in an Affluent Suburb A Study of Academic Disengagement is an important book for a wide range of researchers professionals and students particularly in the areas of Black education minority education comparative and international education sociology of education educational anthropology educational policy teacher education and applied anthropology

Research in Education ,1974 Religion Index One ,1985 African-American Teens Discuss Their Schooling Experiences Gail L. Thompson,2002-01-30 For decades researchers and policymakers have grappled with the issue of the underachievement of African American students An age old problem has been that these students on average lag behind their peers of other racial ethnic groups in math science and reading Recently California like some other states has implemented a high stakes standardized testing program that has revealed that when test scores are disaggregated along racial ethnic lines the scores of African American students continue to trail those of their peers The study described in this book was undertaken in an effort to uncover schooling practices that are advantageous or detrimental to the achievement of African American students The study was based on interviews and questionnaire results from nearly 300 African American high school seniors Most of these students resided in a region that had a low college attendance rate and a high child poverty rate The students were given an opportunity to discuss numerous issues pertaining to their schooling experiences including teacher attitudes and expectations the curriculum homework practices the quality of services provided by their high school counselors racism at school school safety parental involvement and their early reading habits and attitudes about reading In addition to quantitative results most chapters include detailed narratives describing the elementary and secondary schooling experiences of the interviewees
