Home and Hegemony Kathleen M. Adams, Sara Dickey, 2000 Original and provocative essays on the construction of identity and hegemony Babies and Bosses - Reconciling Work and Family Life A Synthesis of Findings for OECD Countries OECD, 2007-11-29 This book synthesises the finding of the 13 individual country reviews published previously and extends the scope to include other OECD countries examining tax benefit policies parental leave systems child care support and workplace practices Shopping for Shares Tracey Edwards, 2011-08-02 Have you ever thought about investing in the stock market but weren't sure where to start or what to buy Share investing is easier than you think Women are becoming increasingly financially savvy They want to improve their financial future and are looking to the stock market to help them achieve their goals Tracey Edwards is one of these savvy investors In this completely revised edition of the best selling Shopping for Shares she let you in on her investing secrets and step by step plan for researching and selecting the right companies at the right time so that you too can profit from the stock market Written in a no nonsense conversational style Shopping for Shares will show you how much money you need to start investing it's less than you think the psychology of making your first trade it doesn't have to be scary rules for trading in the short term or investing for the long term the best times to buy and sell what you should do when the market takes a downward turn how you can still invest if you don't have a lot of time a k a the lazy girl's guide to investing Labour Research , 1989 Ohio Bar , 1955 Jan 4 1965 includes Ohio Official Reports advance sheets What Determines Social Behavior? Investigating the Role of Emotions, Self-Centered Motives, and Social Norms Corrado Corradi-Dell'Acqua, Leonie Koban, Susanne Leiberg, Patrik Vuilleumier, Ernst Fehr, 2016-09-28 Human behavior and decision making is subject to social and motivational influences such as emotions norms and self other regarding preferences The identification of the neural and psychological mechanisms underlying these factors is a central issue in psychology behavioral economics and social neuroscience with important clinical social and even political implications However despite a continuously growing interest from the scientific community the processes underlying these factors as well as their ontogenetic and phylogenetic development have so far remained elusive In this Research Topic we collect articles that provide challenging insights and stimulate a fruitful controversy on the question of what determines social behavior Indeed over the last decades research has shown that introducing a social context to otherwise abstract tasks has diverse effects on social behavior On the one hand it may induce individuals to act irrationally for instance to refuse money but on the other hand it improves individuals reasoning in that formerly difficult abstract problems can be easily solved These lines of research led to distinct although not necessarily mutually exclusive models for socially driven behavioral changes For instance a popular theoretical framework interprets human behavior as a result of a conflict between cognition and emotion with the cognitive system promoting self interested choices and the emotional system triggered by the social context operating against them Other theories favor social norms and deontic heuristics in biasing

human reasoning and encouraging choices that are sometimes in conflict with one's interest. Few studies attempted to disentangle between these as well as other models. As a consequence, although insightful results arise from specific domains, tasks, a comprehensive theoretical framework is still missing. Furthermore, studies employing neuroimaging techniques have begun to shed some light on the neural substrates involved in social behavior, implicating consistently, although not exclusively, portions of the limbic system, the insular and the prefrontal cortex. In this context, a challenge for present research lies not only in further mapping the brain structures implicated in social behavior or in describing in detail the functional interaction between these structures but in showing how the implicated networks relate to different theoretical models. This is Research Topic hosted by members of the Swiss National Center of Competence in Research Affective Sciences: Emotions in Individual Behaviour and Social Processes. We collected contributions from the international community which extended the current knowledge about the psychological and neural structures underlying social behavior and decision making. In particular, we encouraged submissions from investigators arising from different domains: psychology, behavioral economics, affective sciences, etc., implementing different techniques: behavior, electrophysiology, neuroimaging, brain stimulations on different populations: neurotypical adults, children, brain damaged or psychiatric patients, etc. Animal studies are also included as the data reported are of high comparative value. Finally, we also welcomed submissions of meta-analytical articles, mini reviews and perspective papers which offer provocative and insightful interpretations of the recent literature in the field.

British Film Noir Guide Michael F. Keaney, 2011-01-05. This work presents 369 British films produced between 1937 and 1964 that embody many of the same filmic qualities as those black films made in the United States during the classic film noir era. This reference work makes a case for the inclusion of the British films in the film noir canon, which is still considered by some to be an exclusively American inventory. In the book's main section, the following information is presented for each film: a quote from the film, the title and release date, a rating based on the five star system, the production company, director, cinematographer, screenwriter, and main performers, and a plot synopsis with author commentary. Appendices categorize films by rating, release date, director, and cinematographer and also provide a noir and non-noir breakdown of the 47 films presented on the Edgar Wallace Mystery Theatre, a 1960s British television series that was also shown in the United States.

Babies and Bosses - Reconciling Work and Family Life (Volume 3) Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, 2002. This book is part of a series offering comparative studies of work and family reconciliation policies in different countries. Continuing the examination of the work-life balance and the challenges this poses for parents in the modern world, this particular volume focuses on the issues that affect families in New Zealand, Portugal, and Switzerland. As with the previous volumes, differing experiences exist, but the fundamental issues remain the same. An inability to tally the work-life balance has an impact on the general economic developments in society, but a reduction in the birth rates also has obvious implications on the future labour supply. It seems incumbent on policy makers to promote developments that enhance the work life balance further This study looks at the options available to the governments of these particular countries including tax benefit and childcare policies differing employment and workplace practices and the policy reform options which can reconcile work and family commitments Reports of cases argued and determined in the Court of Appeals of the state of New York ,1870 Reports of Cases Argued and Determined in the Court of Appeals of the State of New York New York (State).
