an original and persuasive study Bert Bender demonstrates that it is this treatise on sexual selection rather than any of Darwin's earlier works on evolution that provoked the most immediate and vigorous response from American fiction writers. These authors embraced and incorporated Darwin's theories, insights, and language, creating an increasingly dark and violent view of sexual love in American realist literature. In The Descent of Love, Bender carefully rereads the works of William Dean Howells, Henry James, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Sarah Orne Jewett, Kate Chopin, Harold Frederic, Charles W. Chesnutt, Edith Wharton, and Ernest Hemingway, teasing from them a startling but utterly convincing preoccupation with questions of sexual selection. Competing for readership as novelists who best grasped the real nature of human love, these writers also participated in a heated social debate over racial and sexual differences and the nature of sex itself. Influenced more by The Descent of Man than by The Origin of Species, Bender's novelists built upon Darwin's anthropological and zoological materials to anatomize their characters' courtship behavior, returning consistently to concerns with physical beauty, natural dominance, and the power to select a mate. Bringing the resources of the history of science and intellectual history to this, the first full-length study of the impact of Darwin's theories in American literature, Bender revises accepted views of social Darwinism, American literary realism, and modernism in American literature, forever changing our perceptions of courtship and sexual interaction in American fiction from 1871 to 1926 and beyond.

Engendering Slavic Literatures Pamela Chester, Sibela Elizabeth S. Forrester, 1996 Engendering Slavic Literatures breaks new ground in its investigation of gender and feminist issues in Croatian, Polish, Russian, Serbian, and Ukrainian literary texts by both female and male writers. Drawing on psychoanalytic approaches, film theory, and lesbian and gender theory, the authors interrogate the received notions of Western gender studies to see which can be usefully applied to nineteenth and twentieth-century Slavic literary works. Motherhood and the relationships of mothers and daughters, the myths of selfhood that shape the autobiographies of Nadezhda Mandelstam, Marina Tsvetaeva, Lidiia Ginzburg, and Lev Tolstoy, Polish Catholicism, and sexuality, portrayals of landscape in verbal and visual art, and women writers' transgressive ventures into male bastions such as the love lyric and prose fiction are among the themes of this important and innovative volume.

Teaching Literacy for Love and Wisdom Jeffrey D. Wilhelm, Bruce Novak, 2015-04-17 This book lays out a new vision for the teaching of English, building on themes central to Wilhelm's influential You Gotta Be The Book. With portraits of teachers and students as well as practical strategies and advice, they provide a roadmap to educational transformation far beyond the field of English from publisher description.

Richardson,William Henry Chaloner,1996     Human Flourishing in a Technological World Jens Zimmermann,2023-08-23 Human Flourishing in a Technological World addresses the question of human identity and flourishing in the light of recent technological advances The chapters in Part I provide a philosophical theological evaluation of changing major anthropological assumptions that have guided human self understanding from antiquity to modernity How did we move from a religious and mostly embodied anthropology of the person to the idea that we can upload human consciousness to computing platforms How did we come to imagine that machines can actually be intelligent or even learn in human fashion Moreover what metaphysical changes explain our mostly uncritical embrace of a technological determination of being and thus of how reality works In Part II the focus turns to the practical implications of our changing understanding of what it means to be human Covering some of the most pressing current concerns about human flourishing these chapters deal with the impact of technology on education healthcare disability leisure and the nature of work communication aging death and the nature of wisdom for human flourishing in light of evolutionary biology The volume includes the text of a lecture by virtual reality engineer and computer scientist Jaron Lanier and a discussion between Lanier and other contributors
