Humanity's Rise to Superdominance, the Global Ecological Crisis, and the Way Forward for Education Adam C. Scarfe, 2022-12-01 This book pinpoints the evolutionary connection between the global ecological crisis and transgenerational learning and education As Julian Huxley 1887 1975 described the cumulative passing down of knowledge skills and ideas by one generation to the next over eons of time which has been afforded by the advent of complex languages in the evolutionary past is chiefly responsible for humanity's planetary superdominance

However given that the drive of the human species to increase its control over the natural world has today run up against ecological limits there is an evolutionary existential choice to be made in relation to the ultimate purposes of formal education Should humanity double down on the anthropocentric humanist project of superdominance including the goals of unlimited economic growth development and scientific and technological progress Alternatively should a biocentric anti humanist and or postmodernist deconstruction of formal education take place Or should a holistic organicist orientation emphasizing biological wisdom help to shape its future As this book shows the answers to these philosophical questions on the parts of educators prospective teachers and learners will going forward play a key role in deciding the evolutionary trajectories of all life forms on the planet What is the Human Soul?. Universal philosophy and antihumanist theory Conclusion moral history and the twentieth century Memorialising the Holocaust in Human Rights Museums Katrin Antweiler, 2023-04-27 Honourable Mention in the Best First Book Award of the Memory Studies Association 2025 This book provides an analysis of the forms and functions of Holocaust memorialisation in human rights museums by asking about the impact of global memory politics on how we imagine the present and the future It compares three human rights museums and their respective emplotment of the Holocaust and seeks to illuminate how in this specific setting memory politics simultaneously function as future politics because they delineate a normative ideal of the citizen subject its set of values and aspirations for the future that of the historically aware human rights advocate More than an ethical practice engaging with the Holocaust is used as a means of asserting one's standing on the right side of history the memorialisation of the Holocaust has thus become a means of governmentality a way of governing contemporary citizen subjects The linking of public memory of the Holocaust with the human rights project is often presented as highly beneficial for all members of what is often called the global community Yet this book argues that this specific constellation of memory also has the ability to function as an exercise of power and thus runs the risk of reinforcing structural oppression With its novel theoretical approach this book not only contributes to Memory Studies but also connects Holocaust memory to Studies of Global Governmentality and the debate on decolonising memory politics Thomistic Tradition and Human Rights Carlos Isler Soto, 2023-09-22 The present book versos on the current discussion between authors writing within the Thomistic tradition on the issue of human rights and pretends to adjudicate that discussion The positions of authors who are critical of the notion of human rights like Michel Villey and Alasdair MacIntyre as well as that of those who try to justify their existence and explain their nature like Jacques Maritain John Finnis and others are carefully explained and evaluated This book is the first to deal in detail with this contemporary discussion and therefore represents an important contribution to the bibliography on the philosophy of human rights as well as to the bibliography on the Thomistic tradition The (De)Legitimization of Violence in Sacred and Human Contexts Muhammad Shafiq, Thomas Donlin-Smith, 2021-01-21 This book provides a multidisciplinary commentary on a wide range of religious traditions and their relationship to acts of violence Hate and violence occur at every level of human interaction as do peace and compassion Scholars of religion have a particular obligation to make sense out of this situation tracing its history and variables and drawing lessons for the future From the formative periods of the religious traditions to their application in the contemporary world the essays in this volume interrogate the views on violence found within the traditions and provide examples of religious practices that exacerbate or ameliorate situations of conflict Religion, Identity and Human Security Giorgio Shani, 2014-04-03 Religion Identity and Human Security seeks to demonstrate that a major source of human insecurity comes from the failure of states around the world to recognize the increasing cultural diversity of their populations which has resulted from globalization Shani begins by setting out the theoretical foundations dealing with the transformative effects of globalization on identity violence and security The second part of the volume then draws on different cases of sites of human insecurity around the globe to develop these ideas examining themes such as securitization of religious symbols retreat from multiculturalism rise of exclusivist ethno religious identities post 9 11 state religion colonization and the racialization of migration Highlighting that religion can be a source of both human security and insecurity in a globalizing world Shani offers a critical human security paradigm that seeks to de secularize the individual by recognizing the culturally contested and embedded nature of human identities The work argues that religion serves an important role in re embedding individuals deracinated from their communities by neo liberal globalization and will be of interest to students of International Relations Security Studies and Religion and Politics

The Politics of Human Rights Andrew Vincent, 2010-07-08 The Politics of Human Rights provides a systematic introductory overview of the nature and development of human rights At the same time it offers an engaging argument about human rights and their relationship with politics The author argues that human rights have only a slight relation to natural rights and they are historically novel In large part they are a post 1945 reaction to genocide which is in turn linked directly to the lethal potentialities of the nation state He suggests that an understanding of human rights should nonetheless focus primarily on politics and that there are no universally agreed moral or religious standards to uphold them they exist rather in the context of social recognition within a political association A consequence of this is that the 1948 Universal Declaration is a political not a legal or moral document Vincent goes on to show that human rights are essentially reliant upon the self limitation capacity of the civil state With the development of this state certain standards of civil behaviour have become for a sector of humanity slowly and painfully more customary He shows that these standards of civility have extended to a broader society of states At their best human rights are an ideal civil state vocabulary The author explains that we comprehend both our own humanity and human rights through our recognition relations with other humans principally via citizenship of a civil state Vincent concludes that the paradox of human rights is that they are upheld to a degree by the civil state but the point of such rights is to protect against another dimension of this same tradition the nation state Human rights are essentially part of a struggle at the core of the state tradition
