Advances in Parkinson's Disease Research: Exploring Biomarkers and Therapeutic Strategies for Halting Disease Progression Carmen Venegas, Anastasia Bougea, Yildiz Degirmenci, 2025-08-19

Parkinson s disease PD is the fastest growing neurodegenerative disorder being prevalent in 1% of people aged above 65 years PD is characterized by dopaminergic neurons and the accumulation of alpha synuclein syn rich protein in Lewy bodies

Although aging is the highest risk factor for developing PD the genetic predisposition and exposure to environmental factors such as herbicides or pesticides can induce oxidative stress DNA damage and neuronal death contributing to PD pathogenesis To date there is not a therapy to halt the disease Many studies have shown multiple altered pathways offering different approaches for developing an effective therapy however the current therapies are merely symptomatic and they include a substitution of dopamine by the administration of Levodopa the use of catechol O O methyltransferase inhibitors monoamine oxidase inhibitors or Dopamine agonist among others However these treatments can only relieve some of the symptoms they do not slow the progression of the disease and they have limited long term efficacy Runner's World ,1992

Holloszy, 1995 Nutrition Reviews Fredrick John Stare, 1963 Includes index Muscle Recovery After Exercise, Training and Competition: Physiological Indicators and Non-invasive Monitoring Techniques Alessandro Moura Zagatto, Fábio Yuzo Nakamura, Michael R. Esco, 2020-05-21 The desire to improve muscle function and prevent overuse injuries from exercise and throughout training has led to the development of various methods to aid recovery and track readiness to perform Ergogenic aids such as cold water immersion massage and dynamic recovery procedures may have positive effects but the results of the related research remain equivocal Furthermore novel interventions in this scenario like compression garments ice vests and photobiomodulation therapy are promising but need more evidence based data to support their effectiveness Similarly to properly monitor individual physical conditioning there is a growing interest toward unobtrusive measures to accurately represent physiological status during and or after exercise There are several techniques being used such as subjective ratings of well being heart rate monitoring hormonal and hematological profile assessments However more sensitive indexes like heart rate variability and muscle activation voluntary and or involuntary are arising as attractive alternatives that may delineate physical conditioning status and readiness to perform more precisely than the aforementioned measures The purpose of this Research Topic is to critically evaluate and summarize recent data from observational and intervention studies related to non invasive methods designed to promote recovery and objectively monitor training status Their association to physical performance and physiological recovery in athletes during training and competition is a major focus of this Topic
