Competency-Based Recruitment and Qualifications Standards

The CSC aims to integrate competencies in human resource systems of government agencies, starting with recruitment. Thus, the Competency-Based Recruitment and Qualifications Standards (CBRQS) was born. With this program, the CSC recognizes that hiring and retaining the best employees will lay the foundation for developing high performing, competent, and credible civil servants.

A competency is often defined as a set of observable, measurable, and vital skills, knowledge, and attitudes that are translations of capabilities deemed essential for organizational success.

Qualification Standards + Competencies

The current recruitment system in the Philippine civil service is based on Qualification Standards (QS), a minimum set of requirements comprised of education, eligibility, training, and experience.

Subcommittee on Civil and Constitutional Rights,1979 Examining Practices United States Civil Service Commission,1972 Emotional Bureaucracy Rupert Hodder,2017-07-28 This study casts doubt on the classic model of bureaucracy and its relevance to developing areas In particular Hodder challenges the Weberian distinction between the role of emotion and a modern bureaucracy s impersonal and rational qualities He suggests that bureaucracies function differently and offers a different perspective The focus is the Philippines but Hodder s conclusions are applicable to other developing areas Two main themes are discussed The first explores the classic Weberian model of bureaucracy The second concerns ways of thinking about the social features of bureaucracy The focus is dimensions of bureaucracy that are less dependent upon structure What emerges is an innovative description of the social world of bureaucracy and its attributes Hodder observes that discussions with civil servants and politicians in developing countries suggest that deepening emotion a strengthening sense of the importance of social relationships and informality are vital to the emergence of professional and stable organizations Hodder believes it is possible to account for these social features of bureaucracy by understanding participants representations and practices While these ideas are discussed in the context of the Philippines they have wider relevance to other states especially those whose bureaucracies are characterized as weak and personalistic The author suggests that these characterizations and possible remedies may need to be reconsidered He argues that through informality and emotion effective and stable organizations can be built excessive formalism may exacerbate the problems that governments of developing countries are trying to solve The means to strengthen bureaucracies in developing countries are already available and rather than be ignored or suppressed need be identified and encouraged
