On 1 May 1960 Bombay Province was bifurcated into the two new provinces of Gujarat and Maharashtra amidst scenes of great public fanfare and acclaim This decision marked the culmination of a lengthy campaign for the creation of Samyukta united Maharashtra in western India which had first been raised by some Marathi speakers during the interwar years and then persistently demanded by Marathi speaking politicians ever since the mid 1940s In the context of an impending independence some of its proponents had envisaged Maharashtra as an autonomous domain encompassing a community of Marathi speakers which would be constructed around exclusivist notions of belonging and majoritarian democratic frames. As a result, linguistic reorganisation was also quickly considered to be a threat posing questions for others about the extent to which they belonged to this imagined space. This book delivers ground-breaking perspectives upon nascent conceptions and workings of citizenship and democracy during the colonial/postcolonial transition. It examines how processes of democratisation and provincialisation during the interwar years contributed to demands and concerns and offers a broadened and imaginative outlook on India's partition. Drawing upon a novel body of archival research, the book ultimately suggests Pakistan might also be considered as just one paradigmatic example of a range of coterminous calls for regional autonomy and statehood informed by a majoritarian democratic logic that had an extensive contemporary circulation. It will be of interest to academics in the fields of South Asian history in general and the Partition in particular as well as to those interested in British colonialism and postcolonial studies.

Interrogating and Innovating Comparative and International Education Research, 2019-12-16

Conversations related to epistemology and methodology have been present in comparative and international education (CIE) since the field's inception. How CIE phenomena are studied, the questions asked, the tools used and ideas about knowledge and reality that they reflect shape the nature of the knowledge produced, the valuing of that knowledge and the implications for practice in diverse societies. This book is part of a growing conversation in which the ways that standardized practices in CIE research have functioned to reproduce problematic hierarchies, silences and exclusions of diverse peoples, societies, knowledges and realities. Argued is that there must be recognition and understanding of the negative consequences of hegemonic onto epistemologies and methodologies in CIE dominantly sourced in European social science traditions that continue to shape and influence the design, implementation and dissemination application of CIE research knowledge. Yet while critical reflection is necessary it alone is insufficient to realize the transformative change called for as students researchers practitioners and policymakers we must hear and heed calls for concrete action to challenge resist and transform the status quo in the field and work to further realize a more ethical and inclusive CIE Interrogating and Innovating Comparative and International Research presents a series of conceptual and empirically based essays that critically explore and problematize the dominance of Eurocentric epistemological and methodological traditions in CIE research As an action oriented volume the contributions do not end with critique rather suggestions are made and orientations modelled from different perspectives about the possibilities for change in CIE Contributors are Emily Anderson Supriya Baily Gerardo L Blanco Alisha Braun Erik Jon Byker Meagan Call Cummings Brendan J DeCoster D Brent Edwards Jr Sothy Eng Ameena Ghaffar Kucher Jeremy Gombin Sperling Kelly Grace Radhika Iyengar Huma Kidwai L Minh H ng Caroline Manion Patricia S Parker Leigh Patel Timothy D Reedy Karen Ross Betsy Scotto Lavino Payal P Shah Derrick Tu and Matthew A Witenstein

The Migration-Development Regime Rina Agarwala,2022 A sweeping history of how India has used its poor and elite emigrants to further Indian development and how Indian emigrants have reacted resisted and re shaped India s development in response How can states and migrants themselves explain the causes and effects of global migration The Migration Development Regime introduces a novel analytical framework to help answer this question in India the world s largest emigrant exporter and the world s largest remittance receiving country Drawing on an archival analysis of Indian government documents an original data base of Indian migrants transnational organizations and over 200 interviews with poor and elite Indian emigrants recruiters and government officials this book exposes the vital role the Indian state from the colonial era to the present day has long played in forging and legitimizing class inequalities within India through the management of international emigration It also exposes how poor and elite emigrants have differentially resisted and re shaped state emigration practices over time By taking a long and class based view this book recasts contemporary migration not simply as a problematic function of neoliberalism or as a development panacea for sending countries but as a dynamic historical process that sending states and migrants have long used to shape local development In doing so it re defines the primary problems of global migration exposes the material and ideological impact that migration has on sending state development and isolates what is truly novel about contemporary migration
