Macroeconomic Structure and Policy in Zimbabwe Ibrahim Elbadawi, Klaus Schmidt-Hebbel, 1991 A macroeconomic general equilibrium model for Zimbabwe

Trade in Zimbabwe Richard Newfarmer, Martha Denisse Pierola, 2015-05-26 In Zimbabwe trade has been a driver of economic growth rising incomes and progressive empowerment of Zimbabweans through rising standards of living and the promise of better jobs Since 1980 through good years and bad years increases in exports have been positively associated with increases in national income Zimbabwe's location and resource base together with a low cost but relatively well educated labor force have endowed it with a naturally high trade ratio built on a diversified base that facilitates using trade as an engine of growth While trade volumes have rebounded smartly from the deep recession of 2007-2008 these do not offset other worrisome longer term trends Export growth during the last decade has been lacklustre and failed to drive high growth Agricultural exports other than tobacco have lost their once dominant role in the region and are no longer a source of diversification Manufacturing has withered in a continuing secular decline Zimbabwe's export basket has become less diversified and more dependent on a narrow range of mineral and to a lesser extent agricultural products In short exports have become less diversified less technologically sophisticated and less labor intensive and ever more dependent on a few large mining activities to provide foreign exchange and employment This report traces the roots of this poor performance to several policy issues poor predictability of macroeconomic policy and economic governance has created an unfavorable climate for private investment and trade a tariff structure that dampens export profitability industrial policies indigenization policy in particular that undermine investor confidence and inhibits private investment and finally competition limiting policies toward services that limit connectivity of Zimbabweans and raise trade costs The good news arising from the study is that the remedies for these policy shortcomings lie in Zimbabwean hands If the government were to adopt reforms that reconfigure economy wide incentives and trade and industrial policies it could promote sustained growth economic diversification and empowerment of poor people

Economics and Ecology Edward B. Barbier, 2012-12-06 In the Summer of 1991 Bob Carling who was then Life Sciences Editor of Chapman Hall approached me over the possibility of producing an edited volume of works on economics and ecology As we discussed the matter further what became clear is that there is a growing literature on the frontiers of both disciplines that has involved economists borrowing from ecology and ecologists borrowing from economics We decided that this volume should try to provide a small cross section of that literature I was very much interested in editing this volume for several reasons First one of my principal interests in economics has been how the economic analysis of natural resource and environmental problems can benefit from the concepts and lessons learned from other disciplines in particular ecology I was grateful at having the opportunity to pull together a selection of readings that illustrate how the integration of the two disciplines can lead to fruitful analysis Second I was also aware that as Director of the London Environmental Economics Centre and as a Senior Researcher at the International Institute of Environment and Development I was fortunate to have worked with or to have known a number of economists and ecologists whose work would be ideal for this volume I was delighted that so many of my friends and colleagues were as enthusiastic about this project as I and agreed to participate

Urban Informality in South Africa and Zimbabwe Inocent Moyo, Trynos Gumbo, 2021-01-09 This book adds to the research of urban informality in the Global South with a specific focus on South Africa and Zimbabwe It addresses the agency and the potential transformative capacity of the phenomenon of urban informality in connection with Southern African cities and towns It adopts a political economy approach to analyse the evolution of informality in cities and its implications for urban planning It brings to bear how the South African and Zimbabwean historical and or ideological and contemporary political and economic trajectories have impacted on the ever changing nature of urban informality both spatially and structurally and or compositionally thus resulting in unique urban materialities which are aspects that have scarcely been studied or discussed in the extant literature This book therefore seeks to close the academic gap by dealing with the dearth of literature on spatial re locational discourses of urban informality The work positions urban informality as a resilient force with potency in terms of political mobilisation and re shaping urban spaces Though these are fundamental issues they have received comparatively little attention especially in literature that focuses on the Southern African region Accordingly undergraduate and post graduate students as well as academics in the fields of Urban Geography Political Science Development Studies Sociology Town and Regional Planning among others will find the range of topics and depth of coverage in this book particularly valuable Similarly practitioners and activists on issues of urban informality and urban governance will find the book very useful

The Hard Road to Reform Brian Raftopolos, 2013-02-17 The defeat of ZANU PF in the 2008 parliamentary election marked the end of one party rule in Zimbabwe The Global Political Agreement signed later that resulted in a Government of National Unity and the former ruling party was for the first time faced with the reality of sharing power The Hard Road to Reform presents a penetrating analysis of developments since the GNU was established reviewing recent political history from a range of perspectives political economic social and historical and featuring the best work of Zimbabwe s young scholars As Brian Raftopolos writes in his introduction the book is an attempt to analyse and assess both the hopes and frustrations of the last four years and to confront the harsh challenges that lie ahead
