The Status of Student Involvement in University Governance in Kenya Mulinge, Munyae M., Arasa, Josephine N., 2017-05-05 This book examines the concept of the democratization of governance in universities in Kenya with particular emphasis on students involvement in governance processes and decision making Data were collected from members of the student community utilizing a structured self administered questionnaire and from purposively selected key informants and focus group discussants drawn from Kenyatta University representing the public sector and the United States International University representing the private sector The guiding argument for the study was that shared governance one of the principles of good governance is critical in enabling the universities to deliver their visions and the missions effectively The results revealed that while in principle Kenyan universities have embraced democratic governance in which all stakeholders including students have a role to play in practice they continue to violate the core principles of good governance particularly shared governance Specifically students who are major stakeholders in university education are largely excluded from significant structures of governance thereby limiting their influence and participation Although their representation is mainly provided via student self governance organs unions associations and or councils their effectiveness is undermined considerably by the lack of trust and confidence of the student body and the unending manipulation by top university administrators and external political actors Student active involvement in decision making is mainly confined to lower levels such as the school faculty and departmental programme The authors call for a paradigm shift in the involvement of students in the governance of universities in ways that discourage the current culture of tokenism and political correctness that characterizes public and private universities in Kenya

Child and Adolescent Development Anne Stevenson, 2018-04-16 Global public health has improved vastly during the past 25 years and especially in the survival of infants and young children. However, many of these children, particularly in Africa, continue to live in poverty and in unhealthy, unsupportive environments and will not be able to meet their developmental potential. In other words, they will survive but not thrive. The UN's Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) stress sustainable development, not just survival, and disease reduction. The Global Strategy for Women's, Children's, and Adolescents' Health proposes a 'Survive' end to preventable deaths, 'Thrive' to ensure health and wellbeing, and 'Transform' to expand enabling environments. For children to thrive, they must make good developmental progress from birth until the end of adolescence. Addressing the social determinants of developmental problems, this volume offers a broad contextualised understanding of the factors that impact on children and adolescents in Africa. Unlike other works on the subject, it is Africa-wide in its scope, with case studies in Ethiopia, Kenya, Malawi, Nigeria, Rwanda, and South Africa. Covering mental health as well as physical and social development, it looks at policies and practice, culture and priorities for research, identifying challenges and proposing solutions.

Research Anthology on Vocational Education and Preparing Future Workers Management Association, Information Resources, 2022-04-08

Many students across the globe seek further education for future employment opportunities. Vocational schools offer direct training to develop the skills needed for employment. New emphasis has been placed on reskilling the workforce as technology has infiltrated all aspects of business. Teachers must be prepared to teach these new skill requirements to allow students to directly enter the workforce with the necessary competences intact. As the labor market and industry are changing, it is essential to stay current with the best teaching practices within vocational education courses to provide the future workforce with the proper tools and knowledge. The Research Anthology on Vocational Education and Preparing Future Workers discusses the development opportunities and challenges of vocational education courses and how to best prepare students for future employment. It presents the best practices in curriculum development for vocational education courses and analyzes student outcomes. Covering topics such as industry-academia collaboration, student satisfaction, and competency-based education, this major reference work is an essential resource for academic administration, pre-service teachers, educators of vocational education, libraries, employers, government officials, researchers, and academicians.

 Knowledge in East Africa Esther Mukewa Lisanza, Catherine Mwihi Ndungu, 2024-09-11 In Indigenous Languages and Indigenous Knowledge in East Africa Swahili Kikuyu and Kamba Esther Mukewa Lisanza and Catherine Mwihi Ndungu argue that African languages and indigenous knowledge forms are the tools which have made African communities such as Swahili Kikuyu and Kamba thrive for generations Using interviews and research data this book investigates the following questions what is the nature and role of multilingualism in East Africa what role do herbs and indigenous foods play in Swahili Kamba and Kikuyu communities how are the communities governed indigenously and what is the connection between indigenous languages and knowledge The findings presented within this study have demonstrated that multilingualism is a great resource in East Africa as many have prided themselves on their multilingual abilities within their education careers and cultures Although these languages have been identified as carriers of indigenous governance judiciary and herbal medicine that have survived for generations Lisanza and Ndungu advocate for policies and education systems to recenter these indigenous languages and their accompanying indigenous knowledge forms and practices once the older generations have passed on      Citizen Participation in Decision Making Njogu, Kimani, 2014-01-16 This book is a result of public dialogue forums in pursuit of accountable and transparent governance in Kenya organized by Twaweza Communications with the support of Ford Foundation From the convenings it was evident that the stability of Kenya will be driven by the extent to which citizens feel fully included in the development agenda Quite often political leaders view the role of citizens in governance as restricted primarily to their participation in the electoral process This narrow view has led to arrogance and total disregard of citizens after poll results are announced Under the new political dispensation heralded by the promulgation of the Constitution of Kenya on August 27 2010 this trend must change and the sovereignty of the people in theory and practice must be reinscribed The publication raises important issues worth serious reflection It also suggests ways in which citizens can better participate in their own transformation Case studies highlighted in the book exemplify the importance building the Kenyan nation by addressing patterns of exclusion and glaring inequalities The topics covered include multipartism natural resource governance gender politics of identity marginalization of Coastal Kenya youth empowerment and investing in knowledge economy among others The book is a valuable addition to our understanding of the root political and social anxieties in Kenya and how these could be ameliorated      Handbook of Climate Change and Biodiversity Walter Leal Filho, Jelena Barbir, Richard Preziosi, 2018-08-28 This book comprehensively describes essential research and projects on climate change and biodiversity Moreover it includes contributions on how to promote the climate agenda and biodiversity conservation at the local level Climate change as a whole and global warming in particular are known to have a negative impact on biodiversity in three main ways Firstly increases in temperatures are detrimental to a number of organisms especially those in sensitive habitats such as coral reefs and rainforests Secondly the pressures posed by a changing climate may lead to sets of responses in areas as varied as phenology range and physiology of living organisms often leading to changes in their lifecycles especially but not only in reproduction losses in productivity or even death In some cases the very survival of very sensitive species may be endangered Thirdly the impacts of climate change on biodiversity will be felt in the short term with regard to some species and ecosystems but also in the medium and long term in many biomes Indeed if left unchecked some of these impacts may be irreversible Many individual governments financial institutes and international donors are currently spending billions of dollars on projects addressing climate change and biodiversity but with little coordination Quite often the emphasis is on adaptation efforts with little emphasis on the connections between physio ecological changes and the lifecycles and metabolisms of fauna and flora or the influence of poor governance on biodiversity As such there is a recognized need to not only better understand the impacts of climate change on biodiversity but to also identify test and implement measures aimed at managing the many risks that climate change poses to fauna flora and micro organisms In particular the question of how to restore and protect ecosystems from the impact of climate change also has to be urgently addressed This book was written to address this need The respective papers explore matters related to the use of an ecosystem based approach to increase local adaptation capacity consider the significance of a protected areas network in preserving biodiversity in a changing northern European climate and assess the impacts of climate change on specific species including wild terrestrial animals The book also presents a variety of case studies such as the Yellowstone to Yukon Conservation Initiative the effects of climate change on the biodiversity of Aleppo pine forest in Senalba Algeria climate change and biodiversity response in the Niger Delta region and the effects of forest fires on the biodiversity and the soil characteristics of tropical peatlands in Indonesia This is a truly interdisciplinary publication and will benefit all scholars social movements practitioners and members of governmental agencies engaged in research and or executing projects on climate change and biodiversity around the world
