Walking Baltimore Evan Balkan, 2013-02-18 Walking Baltimore includes Charm City's well known neighborhoods: Downtown, the Inner Harbor, Mount Vernon and Fells Point. But in the voice of its insider author, the book also covers lesser known and far flung corners, revealing what makes Baltimore such a wonderful and fascinating destination and hometown. Full of little known facts and trivia, this book shows how and why Baltimore was an essential player in the country's early history and continues to be influential today. Here is a city almost unparalleled in American history and it lives up to its modern reputation as a quirky come as you are and be what you'll be place. The zany Baltimore based film director John Waters of Hairspray fame summed it up best when he said: "It's as if every freak in the South was headed to New York City, ran out of gas in Baltimore and decided to stay."

The Discourse of Public Participation Media Joanna Thornborrow, 2014-11-20 The Discourse of Public Participation Media takes a fresh look at what ordinary people are doing on air, what they say and how and where they get to say it. Using techniques of discourse analysis to explore the construction of participant identities in a range of different public participation genres, Joanna Thornborrow argues that the role of the ordinary person in these media environments is frequently anything but. Tracing the development of discourses of public participation media, the book focusses particularly on the 1990s onwards when broadcasting was expanding rapidly, the rise of the TV talk show, increasing formats for public participation in broadcast debate and discussion, and the explosion of reality TV in the first decade of the 21st century. During this period, traditional broadcasting has also had to move with the times and incorporate mobile and web based communication technologies as new platforms for public access and participation: text and email as well as the telephone, and an audience that moves out of the studio and into the online spaces of chat rooms, comment forums and the twitterverse. This original study examines the shifting discourses of public engagement and participation resulting from these new forms of communication, making it an ideal companion for students of communication media and cultural studies.
