Doing History Linda S. Levstik, Keith C. Barton, 2015-01-30 Now in its fifth edition Doing History offers a unique perspective on teaching and learning history in the elementary and middle grades Through case studies of teachers and students in diverse classrooms and from diverse backgrounds it shows children engaging in authentic historical investigations often in the context of an integrated social studies curriculum The premise is that children can engage in valid forms of historical inquiry collecting and analyzing data examining the perspectives of people in the past considering multiple interpretations and creating evidence based historical accounts Grounded in contemporary sociocultural theory and research the text features vignettes in each chapter showing communities of teachers and students doing history in environments rich in literature art writing discussion and debate The authors explain how the teaching demonstrated in the vignettes reflects basic principles of contemporary learning theory Doing History emphasizes diversity of perspectives in two ways readers encounter students from a variety of backgrounds and students themselves look at history from multiple perspectives It provides clear guidance in using multiple forms of assessment to evaluate the specifically historical aspects of children's learning

Developer Hegemony Erik Dietrich, It's been said that software is eating the planet The modern economy the world itself relies on technology Demand for the people who can produce it far outweighs the supply So why do developers occupy largely subordinate roles in the corporate structure Developer Hegemony explores the past present and future of the corporation and what it means for developers While it outlines problems with the modern corporate structure it's ultimately a play by play of how to leave the corporate carnival and control your own destiny And it's an emboldening specific vision of what software development looks like in the world of developer hegemony one where developers band together into partner firms of efficiency finally able to command the pay respect and freedom that s earned by solving problems no one else can Developers if you grow tired of being treated like geeks who can only be trusted to take orders and churn out code consider this your call to arms Bring about the autonomous future that s rightfully yours It s time for developer hegemony
