Rational choice in an uncertain world Robyn M. Dawes (Kagen, Jerome), 1988      Alone Together Milton C. Regan Jr., 1999-03-25 Contemporary marriage involves complex notions of both connection and freedom On the one hand spouses are members of a shared community while on the other they are discrete individuals with their own distinct interests Alone Together explores the ways in which law seeks to accommodate tensions between commitment and freedom in marriage Author Milton Regan suggests that only close attention to context can guide us in deciding what weight to assign to each dimension of spousal identity in a given setting This interdisciplinary work has relevance to family law family studies feminist legal theory and the debate between liberal and communitarian social theorists

Social Judgment and Decision Making Joachim I. Krueger, 2012-05-04 This volume brings together classic key concepts and innovative theoretical ideas in the psychology of judgment and decision making in social contexts The chapters of the first section address the basic psychological processes underlying judgment and decision making The guiding question is What information comes to mind and how is it transformed The second section poses the question of how social judgments and decisions are to be evaluated The chapters in this section present new quantitative models that help separate various forms of accuracy and bias The third section shows how judgments and decisions are shaped by ecological constraints These chapters show how many seemingly complex configurations of social information are tractable by relatively simple statistical heuristics The fourth section explores the relevance of research on judgment and decision making for specific tasks of personal or social relevance These chapters explore how individuals can efficiently select mates form and maintain friendship alliances judiciously integrate their attitudes with those of a group and help shape policies that are rational and morally sound The book is intended as an essential resource for senior undergraduates postgraduates researchers and practitioners

Theory and Practice in Policy Analysis M. Granger Morgan, 2017-10-12
Practitioners of policy analysis will better understand the tools of their trade and the broader contexts in which analysis contributes

Rationality and Social Responsibility Joachim I. Krueger, 2008-04-09 This volume brings together a diverse group of authors who have been associated with Robyn Dawes over the years The breadth of topics covered reflects Dawes s wide ranging impact on psychological theory and empirical practice The two themes of rationality and social responsibility are well developed in the book Dawes had always urged investigators to take seriously the question of how individuals can reconcile self interest i e rationality with the collective good i e social responsibility The area of judgment and decision making poses a similar challenge here rational judgment is the most responsible judgment because it minimizes errors To attain rationality in this domain individuals need to accept the limitations of their own intuitions This volume presents an up to date overview of how far psychological science has come in its struggle to reconcile what is true with what is good Each chapter is a stimulus for new research and a reminder not to forget the hard won lessons of the past in particular those taught by Robyn Dawes

European Financial Systems in the Global Economy Beate Reszat, 2005-06-24
European Financial Systems in the Global Economy provides an overview of sources of finance types of financial intermediation and financial systems in Europe and their relative importance in the world economy It describes market mechanisms and prices and gives a broad introduction to the relevant regional financial and monetary issues including those countries that will join the EU in the future and makes an ideal primer for those new to the world of finance

Public Policy in an Uncertain World Charles F. Manski, 2013-02-14 Manski argues that public policy is based on untrustworthy analysis Failing to account for uncertainty in an uncertain world policy analysis routinely misleads policy makers with expressions of certitude Manski critiques the status quo and offers an innovation to improve both how policy research is conducted and how it is used by policy makers

Fuzzy Rationality Kofi Kissi Dompere, 2009-07-22 Philosophy involves a criticism of scientific knowledge not from a point of view ultimately different from that of science but from a point of view less concerned with details and more concerned with the history of the body of special sciences Here as elsewhere while the older logic shut out possibilities and imprisoned imagination within the walls of the familiar the newer logic shows rather what may happen and refuses to decide as to what must happen Bertrand Russell At any particular stage in the development of humanity knowledge comes up against limits set by the necessarily limited character of the experience available and the existing means of obtaining knowledge But humanity advances by overcoming such limits New experience throws down the limits of old experience new techniques new means of obtaining knowledge throw down the limits of old techniques and old means of obtaining knowledge New limits then once again appear But there is no more reason to suppose these new limits absolute and final than there was to suppose the old ones absolute and final

Evolution and Design of Institutions

Christian Schubert, Georg Von Wangenheim, 2006-09-27 This book comprises nine papers approaching designed institutions and their interplay with spontaneous institutions from various angles While the evolution of spontaneous institutions is quite well understood in economic thinking the development of consciously designed institutions has been examined much less In new institutional economics public choice and law and economics the interaction between changing preferences and spontaneously evolving institutions on the one hand and the evolution of designed institutions as e g legal systems on the other hand has largely been ignored A number of top class international contributors have been assembled to study this phenomenon including Viktor Vanberg Bruno Frey Elinor Ostrom and Francesco Parisi

Fuzziness and Approximate Reasoning

K. K. Dompere, Kofi Kissi Dompere, 2009-03-25 This monograph is special in its orientation and contribution to current state of our understanding of decision choice process and knowledge production Its special orientation is to bring to the scientific community the discussions on the epistemic structure of the relationships among uncertainty expectations risk possibility probability and how the rules of fuzzy paradigm and the methods of fuzzy rationality bring new and different understanding to the relationships At the level of theory of knowledge it presents the structure and epistemic analysis of uncertainty expectations and risk in decision choice actions through the characteristics of substitution transformation and input output processes in categorial dynamics of actual potential duality The interactive effects of rationality and expectation are examined around belief prospect time and conditions of belief justification where the relationship between possibility and probability as a sequential link between potential and actual is analyzed to provide some understanding of the role of relative costs and benefits in defining risk in both nature and society The concepts of possibilistic and probabilistic beliefs are explicated in relation to rationality and the decision choice process where the analytical relationship between uncertainty and expectation formation is presented leading to the introduction of two types of uncertainty composed of fuzzy uncertainty and stochastic uncertainty

The Behavioral Foundations of Public Policy

Eldar Shafir, 2013-01-10 An interdisciplinary look at the behavioral roots of public policy from the field's leading experts In recent years remarkable progress has been made in behavioral research on a wide variety of topics from behavioral finance labor contracts philanthropy and the analysis of savings and poverty to eyewitness identification and sentencing decisions racism sexism health behaviors and voting Research findings have often been strikingly counterintuitive with serious implications for public policymaking In this book leading experts in psychology decision research policy analysis economics political science law medicine and philosophy explore major trends principles and general insights about human behavior in policy relevant settings Their work provides a deeper understanding of the many drivers cognitive social perceptual motivational and emotional that guide behaviors in everyday settings They give depth and insight into the methods of behavioral research and highlight how this knowledge might influence the implementation of public policy for the improvement of society This collection examines the policy relevance of behavioral science to our social and political lives to issues ranging from health environment and nutrition to dispute resolution implicit racism and false convictions The book illuminates the relationship between behavioral findings and economic analyses and calls attention to what policymakers might learn from this vast body of groundbreaking work Wide ranging investigation into people s motivations abilities attitudes and perceptions finds that they differ in profound ways from what is typically assumed The result is that public policy acquires even greater significance since rather than merely facilitating the conduct of human affairs policy actually shapes their trajectory The first interdisciplinary look at behaviorally informed policymaking Leading behavioral experts across the social sciences consider important policy problems A compendium of behavioral findings and their application to relevant policy domains

Politics and the Architecture of Choice Bryan D. Jones, 2001-05 Politics and the Architecture of Choice draws on work in political science economics cognitive science and psychology to offer an innovative theory of how people and organizations adapt to change and why these adaptations don t always work Our decision making capabilities Jones argues are both rational and adaptive But because our rationality is bounded and our adaptability limited our actions are not based simply on objective information from our environments Instead we overemphasize some factors and neglect others and our inherited limitations such as short term memory capacity all act to affect our judgment Jones shows how we compensate for and replicate these limitations in groups by linking the behavioral foundations of human nature to the operation of large scale organizations in modern society Situating his argument within the current debate over the rational choice model of human behavior Jones argues that we should begin with rationality as a standard and then study the uniquely human ways in which we deviate from it

Fiscal Policy, Taxation and the Financial System in an Increasingly Integrated Europe D.E. Fair, Christian de Boissieu, 2012-12-06 The papers collected in this volume are those presented at the sixteenth Colloquium arranged by the Societe Universitaire Europeenne de Re cherches Financieres SUERF which took place in Lisbon in May 1991 The Society is supported by a large number of central banks and commercial banks by other financial and business institutions and by personal subscriptions from academics and others interested in monetary and financial problems Since its establishment in 1963 it has developed as a forum for the exchange of information research results and ideas among academics and practitioners in these fields including central bank officials and civil servants responsible for formulating and applying monetary and financial policies national and international A major activity of SUERF is to organise and conduct Colloquia on subjects of topical interest to its members The titles places and dates of previous Colloquia for which volumes of the collected papers were published are noted on the last page of this volume Volumes were not produced for Colloquia held at Tarragona Spain in October 1970 under the title Monetary Policy and New Developments in Banking and at Strasbourg France in January 1972 under the title Aspects of European Monetary Union

Epistemic Foundations of Fuzziness K. K.

Dompere, Kofi Kissi Dompere, 2009-03-13 This monograph is a treatment on optimal fuzzy rationality as an enveloping of decision choice rationalities where limited information vagueness ambiguities and inexactness are essential characteristics of our knowledge structure and reasoning processes The volume is devoted to a unified system of epistemic models and theories of decision choice behavior under total uncertainties composed of fuzzy and stochastic types The unified epistemic analysis of decision choice models and theories begins with the question of how best to integrate vagueness ambiguities limited information subjectivity and approximation into the decision choice process The answer to the question leads to the shifting of the classical paradigm of reasoning to fuzzy paradigm This is followed by discussions and establishment of the epistemic foundations of fuzzy mathematics where the nature and role of information and knowledge are explicated and represented The epistemic foundation allows total uncertainties that constrain decision choice activities knowledge enterprise logic and mathematical structures as our cognitive instruments to be discussed in reference to the phenomena of fuzzification defuzzification and fuzzy logic The discussions on these phenomena lead us to analyze and present models and theories on decision choice rationality and the needed mathematics for problem formulation reasoning and computations The epistemic structures of two number systems made up of classical numbers and fuzzy numbers are discussed in relation to their differences similarities and relative relevance to decision choice rationality The properties of the two number systems lead to the epistemic analysis of two mathematical systems that allow the partition of the mathematical space in support of decision choice space of knowledge and non knowledge production into four cognitively separate but interdependent cohorts whose properties are analyzed by the methods and techniques of category theory The four cohorts are identified as non fuzzy and non stochastic non fuzzy and stochastic both of which belong to the classical paradigm and classical mathematical space and fuzzy and non stochastic and fuzzy and stochastic cohorts both of which belong to the fuzzy paradigm and fuzzy mathematical space The differences in the epistemic foundations of the two mathematical systems are discussed The discussion leads to the establishment of the need for fuzzy mathematics and computing as a new system of reasoning in both exact and inexact sciences The mathematical structures of the cohorts are imposed on the decision choice process to allow a grouping of decision choice models and theories The corresponding classes of decision choice theories have the same characteristics as the logico mathematical cohorts relative to the assumed information knowledge structures The four groupings of models and theories on decision choice activities are then classified as 1 non fuzzy and non stochastic class with exact and full information knowledge structure no uncertainty 2 non fuzzy and stochastic class with exact and limited information knowledge structure stochastic uncertainty 3 fuzzy and non stochastic class with full and fuzzy information knowledge structure fuzzy uncertainty and 4 Fuzzy and stochastic class with fuzzy and limited information knowledge structure fuzzy and stochastic uncertainties All these different classes of decision choice problems have their corresponding rationalities which are fully discussed to present a unified logical system of theories on decision choice process The volume is concluded with epistemic discussions on the nature of contradictions and paradoxes viewed as logical decision choice problems in the classical paradigm and how these contradictions and paradoxes may be resolved through fuzzy paradigm and the methods and techniques of optimal fuzzy decision choice rationality The logical problem of sorites paradox with its resolution is given as an example Interested audience includes those working in the areas of economics decision choice theories philosophy of sciences epistemology mathematics computer science engineering cognitive psychology fuzzy mathematics and mathematics of fuzzy stochastic processes

Risk Management and Governance Terje Aven,Ortwin Renn,2010-09-27 Risk is a popular topic in many sciences in natural medical statistical engineering social economic and legal disciplines Yet no single discipline can grasp the full meaning of risk Investigating risk requires a multidisciplinary approach The authors coming from two very different disciplinary traditions meet this challenge by building bridges between the engineering the statistical and the social science perspectives The book provides a comprehensive accessible and concise guide to risk assessment management and governance A basic pillar for the book is the risk governance framework proposed by the International Risk Governance Council IRGC This framework offers a comprehensive means of integrating risk identification assessment management and communication The authors develop and explain new insights and add substance to the various elements of the framework The theoretical analysis is illustrated by several examples from different areas of applications

Evaluating Scientific Evidence Erica Beecher-Monas,2006-11-20 Scientific evidence is crucial in a burgeoning number of litigated cases legislative enactments regulatory decisions and scholarly arguments Evaluating Scientific Evidence explores the question of what counts as scientific knowledge a question that has become a focus of heated courtroom and scholarly debate not only in the United States but in other common law countries such as the United Kingdom Canada and Australia Controversies are rife over what is permissible use of genetic information whether chemical exposure causes disease whether future dangerousness of violent or sexual offenders can be predicted whether such time honored methods of criminal identification such as microscopic hair analysis for example have any better foundation than ancient divination rituals among other important topics This book examines the process of evaluating scientific evidence in both civil and criminal contexts and explains how decisions by nonscientists that embody scientific knowledge can be improved
