

Spirit precision-engineering. Serious fishermen count on it.

If you like to fish like I do, chances are you count on day-in, day-out performance and dependability from an outboard.

Now, Spirit offers us outboard power that's engineered with precision to do what we want without temperamental behavior. And, I like that.

Precision. That's the Spirit success story in a nutshell. Take the cover off a new Spirit and you'll see a neat, uncluttered powerhead that's easy to service. A rugged starter. Nothing less than a proven Mikuni carburetion system to assure quick starting and smooth running. Quality fittings, hoses, nuts 'n' bolts.

And, where new ideas have been added, they contribute a real benefit. Oil-injection on the Spirit 85 is a dramatic example. Lubricant is precision-metered to the engine from a separate reservoir at the exact oil-gas ratio required for every speed.

Good-bye to over-oiling and under-oiling. Good-bye to the mess of pouring oil into the gas tank.

Up and down the Spirit horsepower range, you'll find important items like thru-hub exhaust from 20-hp up. Like power trim and tilt, standard on the 85 and optional on the 50 and 65.

There's a rugged shock absorbing prop system to minimize drive pin hassles. And CD ignition on engine sizes where it's needed. What you won't find are any unnecessary frills or gimmicks.

Finally, Spirit insisted on tank-testing and running each engine before it leaves the factory because you shouldn't have to test drive an engine after you buy. This helps make Spirit's full year limited warranty good for me. And good for you.

People like us are catching on to Spirit value at a price lower than you'd expect.
