

Visual Thinking Strategies

Silent moment to look

Encourage students to look in all areas and build their endurance for observation time.

What's going on in this picture?

This is when students will infer. Accept all answers and do not judge with either praise or criticism in your words or tone of voice.

Summarize

Paraphrase their inference. Change the wording but not the meaning of what is said. Demonstrate proper sentence structure and vocabulary with language development.

What do you see that makes you say that?

Students citing evidence for their inference is a crucial step. Students are learning to make detailed observations, sorting out and applying what they know. Do not praise or criticize. Articulating thoughts leads to growth even when they make mistakes. Maintain a safe climate for risk taking.

What more can we find?

Keep students searching for more observations. Often students are used to finding "the right answer" and being "done"; this question teaches that inquiry and wonder never end.

Thank students for their participation.

Conclude the lesson by telling students what you particularly enjoyed. Encourage them to think of viewing art as an ongoing, open-ended process. Do not summarize what was stated as that has happened throughout the lesson.

Remember the VTS process is not fully internalized by students until they have experienced it 10-12 times.

Handbook of Research on Cross-Cultural Online Learning in Higher Education Keengwe, Jared, Kungu, Kenneth, 2019-04-01 Online learning has been touted as one way of reducing the cost of higher education while simultaneously addressing the increasing demand for educational opportunity and providing access to hitherto left out populations. Many universities are defying tradition by offering completely online degrees for global participants. As such, research is needed to improve the design of online and virtual learning environments to ensure that they are inclusive and culturally adaptive for the global education marketplace. The Handbook of Research on Cross Cultural Online Learning in Higher Education shares paradigms, perspectives, insights, challenges, and best practices for the instructional design and delivery of cross-cultural adult web-based learning experiences and examines adult learner characteristics and competencies critical for the design of these applications. The content within this publication covers trending topics including virtual learning, culturally adaptive environments, and online education and is intended for instructional designers, faculty, administrators, students, and researchers.

Natural History Dioramas - Traditional Exhibits for Current Educational Themes Annette Scheersoi, Sue Dale Tunnicliffe, 2018-11-14 This book presents the history of natural history dioramas in museums, their building, and science learning aspects as well as current developments and their place in the visitor experience. From the early 1900s, with the passage of time and changes in cultural norms in societies, this genre of exhibits evolved in response to the changes in entertainment expectations and expressed needs of museum visitors. The challenge has always been to provide meaningful, relevant experiences to visitors, and this is still the aim today. Dioramas are also increasingly valued as learning tools. Contributions in this book specifically focus on their educational potential. In practice, dioramas are used by a wide range of educational practitioners to assist learners in developing and understanding specific concepts such as climate change, evolution, or conservation issues. In this learning process, dioramas not only contribute to scientific understanding and cultural awareness but also reconnect wide audiences to the natural world and thereby contribute to the well-being of societies. In the simultaneously published book Natural History Dioramas: Traditional Exhibits for Current Educational Themes, the editors focus on socio-cultural issues and the potential of using dioramas to engage various audiences with and in contemporary debates and big issues which society and the natural environment are facing.

Art Education as a Radical Act Sara Torres-Vega, Wendy Woon, 2024-05-20 This comprehensive volume highlights and centers untold histories of education at the Museum of Modern

Art MoMA from 1937 to 2020 using the critical voices of artists scholars designers and educators Exploring these histories as transformative and paradigm shifting in museum education it elevates MoMA educators as vocal advocates for harnessing the educational power that museums inherently possess Divided into three interlinked parts the first sheds light on the early educational endeavors of the museum while analyzing the context of art education in the United States The second part focuses on the tenures of Victor D Amico and Betty Blayton utilizing the MoMA archives as a primary resource It includes essays by Ellen Winner Luis Camnitzer Susan E Cahan Michelle Millar Fisher HECTOR Jae Shin Damon Rich Gregory Sholette Carol Duncan Moreen Maser Nana Adusei Poku Carmen M rsch Rika Burnham Donna M Jones and Jos Ortiz The third part presents the perspectives of William Burback Philip Yenawine Patterson Sims Deborah F Schwartz and Wendy Woon as former MoMA Directors of Education in their own words and considers the forces that shaped their work This timely and unique exploration ultimately aims to trace and understand the fundamental and evolving concerns of a seemingly underexamined profession constantly striving to maintain relevance in an environment marked by institutional social and political uncertainty Exploring the radical acts undertaken to keep the museum true to its original promise it delineates the paradox whereby education is both central and invisible to the identity of MoMA and museums more broadly and re centers the conception of the museum as an educational institution It is designed for scholars researchers and post graduate students interested in arts education visual literacy museum studies and communication studies
