Power Politics Environmental Activism In South Los Angeles:

Power Politics Karen Brodtkin, 2009-08-05 In the late 1990s when California's deregulation of the production and sale of electric power created massive energy shortages a group of environmental justice activists blocked construction of a power plant in their working class Mexican and Central American neighborhoods Why did they choose this battle And how did the largely high school student activists come to prevail in the face of statewide political opinion Power Politics is a rich and readable study of a grassroots campaign where longtime labor and environmental allies found themselves on opposite sides of a conflict that pitted good jobs against good air Karen Brodtkin analyzes how those issues came to be opposed and in doing so unpacks the racial and class dynamics that shape Americans' grasp of labor and environmental issues Power Politics activists stood at the forefront of a movement that is building broad based environmental coalitions and placing social justice at the heart of a new and robust vision

Boyle Heights George J. Sánchez, 2022-07-12 The radical history of a dynamic multiracial American neighborhood When I think of the future of the United States and the history that matters in this country I often think of Boyle Heights George J. Sánchez The vision for America's cross cultural future lies beyond the multicultural myth of the great melting pot That idea of diversity often imagined ethnically distinct urban districts the Little Italys Koreatowns and Jewish quarters of American cities built up over generations and occupying spaces that excluded one another But the neighborhood of Boyle Heights shows us something altogether different a dynamic multiracial community that has forged solidarity through a history of social and political upheaval Boyle Heights is an in depth history of the Los Angeles neighborhood showcasing the potent experiences of its residents from early contact between Spanish colonizers and native Californians to the internment of Japanese Americans during World War II the hunt for hidden Communists among the Jewish population negotiating citizenship and belonging among Latino migrants and Mexican American residents and beyond Through each period and every struggle the residents of Boyle Heights have maintained remarkable solidarity across racial and ethnic lines acting as a unified polyglot community even as their tribulations have become more explicitly racial in nature Boyle Heights is immigrant America embodied and it can serve as the true beacon on a hill toward which the country can strive in a time when racial solidarity and civic resistance have never been in greater need

Replumbing the City Sayd Randle, 2025 Moving between shower drains aqueducts rain gardens and even kitchen sinks Replumbing the City traces the enormous urban waterscape of Los Angeles in a state of flux For more than a century the city of Los Angeles has relied on faraway water for the vast majority of its municipal supply but climate change is making these distant sources much less dependable To adapt Angelenos including city engineers advocates at NGOs and residents are developing new water supplies within the space of the city Sayd Randle's ethnography examines the labor of replumbing LA's sprawling water system detailing how a desire to sustain unlimited and uninterrupted water provision for paying customers is reshaping the urban environment and its management Tracking how such projects redistribute the work of water management the book explores thorny questions of how the labor of climate adaptation should be mobilized and valued

Beyond Nature's Housekeepers Nancy C. Unger, 2012-10-05 From pre Columbian times to the environmental justice movements of the present women and men frequently responded to the environment and environmental issues in profoundly different ways Although both environmental history and women s history are flourishing fields explorations of the synergy produced by the interplay between environment and sex sexuality and gender are just beginning Offering more than biographies of great women in environmental history Beyond Nature s Housekeepers examines the intersections that shaped women s unique environmental concerns and activism and that framed the way the larger culture responded Women featured include Native Americans colonists enslaved field workers pioneers homemakers municipal housekeepers immigrants hunters nature writers soil conservationists scientists migrant laborers nuclear protestors and environmental justice activists As women they fared thought and acted in ways complicated by social political and economic norms as well as issues of sexuality and childbearing Nancy C Unger reveals how women have played a unique role for better and sometimes for worse in the shaping of the American environment

The New Suburbia Becky M. Nicolaides, 2024 The New Suburbia explores how the suburbs transformed from bastions of the white middle class in the postwar years into diverse communities after 1970 In the new suburbia white advantage persisted but it existed alongside rising inequality ethnic and racial diversity and new household configurations It focuses on Los Angeles at the vanguard of these trends

Forging Two Nations Insights on Sudan and South Sudan Grawert, Elke, 2014-03-16 Most of the papers in this book were presented during the 9th International South Sudan and Sudan Studies Conference of the Sudan Studies Association USA and the Sudan Studies Society UK 150 scholars from numerous academic disciplines experts in conflict transformation and development staff of non governmental organisations NGOs former and current senior officers from ministries and military institutions from Sudan South Sudan and seventeen further countries participated in the conference They engaged in vivid discussions on historical and recent cleavages in the societies of Sudan and South Sudan inequality and exclusion in numerous variations and on rapid social change accompanied by urbanisation and land conflicts The severe economic crisis following the separation and the importance of creating political solutions instead of using technical approaches to work on the multitude of challenges affecting each of the two countries and the interrelations between them were also scrutinised. The participants intensely exchanged views and experiences on the difficulties and successes in taking responsibility rather than being dependent on foreign assistance. Discussions revealed strong potentials in both societies to overcome such problems to initiate processes of reconciliation and to consolidate peace. They shed light on the complex processes of nation building and the creation of meaningful constitutions. This book attempts to capture at least some of this multitude of insights and aspects that had shaped the conference.

The Rise and Fall of Urban Economies Michael Storper, Thomas Kemeny, Naji Makarem, Taner Osman, 2015-09-02. Today the Bay Area is home to the most successful knowledge economy in America while Los Angeles has fallen progressively further behind its neighbor to the north and a number of other American metropolises. Yet in 1970 experts would have predicted that L A would outpace San Francisco in population income economic power and influence. The usual factors used to explain urban growth luck immigration local economic policies and the pool of skilled labor do not account for the contrast between the two cities and their fates. So what does The Rise and Fall of Urban Economies challenge? Many of the conventional notions about economic development and sheds new light on its workings. The authors argue that it is essential to understand the interactions of three major components economic specialization human capital formation and institutional factors to determine how well a regional economy will cope with new opportunities and challenges. Drawing on economics sociology political science and geography they argue that the economic development of metropolitan regions hinges on previously underexplored capacities for organizational change in firms networks of people and networks of leaders. By studying San Francisco and Los Angeles in unprecedented levels of depth this book extracts lessons for the field of economic development studies and urban regions around the world.

At Home in the World Kathleen A. Cairns, 2021-05. At Home in the World examines the extraordinary and largely unheralded role women played in forging the modern environmental movement specifically in California.

Community Practice and Urban Youth Melvin Delgado, 2015-10-30. Community Practice and Urban Youth is for graduate level students in fields that offer youth studies and community practice courses. Practitioners in these fields too will find the book particularly useful in furthering the integration of social justice as a conceptual and philosophical foundation. The use of food environmental justice and immigrant rights and the book's focus on service learning and civic engagement.

involving these three topics offers an innovative approach for courses

Refusing Death Nadia Y. Kim, 2021-06-01 The industrial port belt of Los Angeles is home to eleven of the top twenty oil refineries in California the largest ports in the country and those racist monuments we call freeways In this uncelebrated corner of La La Land through which most of America's goods transit pollution is literally killing the residents In response a grassroots movement for environmental justice has grown predominated by Asian and undocumented Latin immigrant women who are transforming our political landscape yet we know very little about these change makers In Refusing Death Nadia Y Kim tells their stories finding that the women are influential because of their ability to remap politics community and citizenship in the face of the country's nativist racism and system of class injustice defined not just by disproportionate environmental pollution but also by neglected schools surveillance and deportation and political marginalization The women are highly conscious of how these harms are an assault on their bodies and emotions and of their resulting reliance on a state they prefer to avoid and ignore In spite of such challenges and contradictions however they have developed creative unconventional and loving ways to support and protect one another They challenge the state's betrayal demand respect and ultimately refuse death

Watchful Lives in the U.S.-Mexico Borderlands Catherine Whittaker, Eveline Dürr, Jonathan Alderman, Carolin Luiprecht, 2023-04-03 Watchfulness shapes many Chicanx and other People of Color's everyday lives in San Diego Experiencing racist discrimination can lead to becoming vigilant which frames their subjectivity Focusing particularly on Chicanxs we show how they seek to intervene against structural inequalities and threats in their lives such as by re-claiming space consciousness raising participating in protests and healing practices We argue that contestations surrounding belonging create particularly watchful selves and that this is a significant aspect of borderland lifeworlds more broadly The book advances the Anthropology of borders coloniality subjectivity and race as well as contributing to Chicano and Latino Studies and Urban Studies Pushing the boundaries of conventional approaches this book is methodologically innovative by including team fieldwork digital ethnography and illustrative work by a local artist It fills a gap in Security Studies by examining peer to peer vigilance beyond top down surveillance and bottom up sousveillance and expanding previous understandings of watchfulness as an ambivalent practice that can also express care and contribute to community building as well as representing a way of life

Social Justice and the Urban Obesity Crisis Melvin Delgado, 2013-04-30 A number of economic cultural and contextual factors are driving urban America's obesity crisis which can create chronic health conditions for those least able to manage them Considering urban obesity through a social justice lens this book is the first to help social workers and others develop targeted interventions for effective outcomes The text dissects the problem of urban obesity in populations of color from individual family group community and policy perspectives Beginning with a historical survey of urban obesity in communities of color anti obesity policies and programs and the role of social work in addressing this threat the volume follows with an analysis of the social ecological environmental and spatial aggravators of urban obesity such as the food industry's advertising strategies which promote unhealthy choices the failure of local markets to provide good food options the lack of safe exercise spaces and the paucity of health education Melvin Delgado reviews recent national obesity statistics explores the connection between food stamps and obesity and reveals the financial and social consequences of the epidemic for society as a whole He concludes with recommendations for effective health promotion programs such as youth focused interventions community gardens and community based food initiatives and a unique consideration of urban obesity in relation to acts of genocide and national defense

Futures after Progress Chloe Ahmann, 2024-05-14 A powerful ethnographic study of South Baltimore a place haunted by toxic pasts in its pursuit of better futures Factory fires chemical explosions and aerial pollutants have inexorably shaped South Baltimore into one of the most polluted places in the country In Futures after Progress anthropologist Chloe Ahmann explores the rise and fall of industrial lifeways on this edge of the city and the uncertainties that linger in their wake Writing from the community of Curtis Bay where two hundred years of technocratic hubris have carried lethal costs Ahmann also follows local efforts to realize a good future after industry and the rifts competing visions opened between neighbors Examining tensions between White and Black residents environmental activists and industrial enthusiasts local elders and younger generations Ahmann shows how this community has become a battleground for competing political futures whose stakes reverberate beyond its six square miles in a present after progress has lost steam And yet as one young resident explains that's not how the story ends Rigorous and moving Futures after Progress probes the deep roots of our ecological predicament offering insight into what lies ahead for a country beset by dreams deferred and a planet on the precipice of change

Reframing Assessment to Center Equity Gavin W. Henning, Gianina R. Baker, Natasha A. Jankowski, Anne E. Lundquist, Erick Montenegro, 2023-07-03 This book makes the case for assessment of student learning as a vehicle for equity in higher education The book proceeds through a framework of why what how and now what The opening chapters present the case for infusing equity into assessment arguing that assessment professionals can and should be activists in advancing equity given the historic and systemic use of assessment as an impediment to the educational access and attainment of historically marginalized populations The what chapters offer definitions of emerging terms discuss the narratives of equity in evidence of student learning present models and approaches to promoting equity and explore the relationship between knowledge systems and assessment practice The how chapters begin by progressively moving from the classroom to the program then beyond the program level to share examples from student affairs Subsequent chapters address the problem of equitable access to STEM fields culturally responsive practices within the context of community colleges the ongoing work of culturally situated assessment practices in Historically Black Colleges and Universities and the role of technology enabled assessment as a possible tool for equitable assessment The final two chapters in the book address the now what providing a way for assessment professional to develop individual awareness within their practice as a next step in the equity journey and a conceptual framework to anchor equity in their work
