

The background is a vibrant yellow-orange color. It features a repeating pattern of small, stylized human figures in various poses, some holding spears or shields. Two large, curved, colorful bands, resembling traditional Indigenous Australian art motifs, frame the central text area. These bands are decorated with red, blue, and white patterns, including circles and wavy lines. A thick, brown, rope-like border encloses the central text area.

Paradigms in Cartography Pablo Iván Azócar Fernández, Manfred Ferdinand Buchroithner, 2013-08-04 In this book the main trends concepts and directions in cartography and mapping in modernism and post modernism are reviewed Philosophical and epistemological issues are analysed in cartography from positivist empiricist neo positivist and post structuralist stances In general in cartography technological aspects have been considered as well as theoretical issues The aim is to highlight the epistemological and philosophical viewpoint during the development of the discipline Some main philosophers who have been influential for contemporary thinking such as Immanuel Kant Ludwig Wittgenstein Karl Popper and Bertrand Russell are considered None of these philosophers wrote about cartography directly excepting Kant but their philosophies are related to cartography and mapping issues The book also analyses the concept of paradigm or paradigm shift coined by Thomas Kuhn who applied it to the history of science Different cartographic trends that have arisen since the second half of the twentieth century are analysed according to this important concept which is implicit inside the scientific or disciplinary communities Further the authors analyse the position of cartography in the context of the sciences and other disciplines adopting a positivistic point of view Additionally they review current trends in cartography and mapping in the context of information and communication technologies in a post modernistic or post structuralistic framework Thus since the 1980s and 1990s new mapping concepts have arisen which challenge the discipline's traditional map conceptions

Tribes and Territories in the 21st Century Paul Trowler, Murray Saunders, Veronica

Bamber,2012-01-25 The tribes and territories metaphor for the cultures of academic disciplines and their roots in different knowledge characteristics has been used by those interested in university life and work since the early 1990s This book draws together research data and theory to show how higher education has gone through major change since then and how social theory has evolved in parallel Together these changes mean there is a need to re theorise academic life in a way which reflects changed contexts in universities in the twenty first century and so a need for new metaphors Using a social practice approach the editors and contributors argue that disciplines are alive and well but that in a turbulent environment where many other forces conditioning academic practices exist their influence is generally weaker than before However the social practice approach adopted in the book highlights how this influence is contextually contingent how disciplines are deployed in different ways for different purposes and with varying degrees of purchase This important book pulls together the latest thinking on the subject and offers a new framework for conceptualising the influences on academic practices in universities It brings together a distinguished group of scholars from across the world to address questions such as Have disciplines been displaced by inter disciplinarity having outlived their usefulness Have other forces acting on the academy pushed disciplines into the background as factors shaping the practices of academics and students there How significant are disciplinary differences in teaching and research practices What is their significance in other areas of work in universities This timely book addresses a pressing concern in modern education and will be of great interest to university professionals managers and policy makers in the field of higher education Methods for the Ethnography of Communication Judith

Kaplan-Weinger,2024-12-06 Methods for the Ethnography of Communication is a guide to conducting ethnographic research in classroom and community settings that introduces students to the field of ethnography of communication and takes them through the recursive and nonlinear cycle of ethnographic research This brand new edition includes the most up to date research with the authors introducing the innovative CULTURES framework to provide a helpful structure for moving through the complex process of collecting and analyzing ethnographic data and address the larger how to questions that students struggle with during ethnographic research Exercises and activities help students make the connection between communicative events acts and situations and ways of studying them ethnographically Integrating a primary focus on language in use within an ethnographic framework makes this book an invaluable core text for courses on ethnography of communication and related areas in a variety of disciplines Side by Side?
