The Economics of Business Valuation Patrick Anderson, 2013-04-10 For decades the market asset and income approaches to business valuation have taken center stage in the assessment of the firm This book brings to light an expanded valuation toolkit consisting of nine well defined valuation principles hailing from the fields of economics finance accounting taxation and management It ultimately argues that the value functional approach to business valuation avoids most of the shortcomings of its competitors and more correctly matches the actual motivations and information set held by stakeholders Much of what we know about corporate finance and mathematical finance derives from a narrow subset of firms publicly traded corporations The value functional approach can be readily applied to both large firms and companies that do not issue publicly traded stocks and bonds cannot borrow without constraints and often rely upon entrepreneurs to both finance and manage their operations With historical side notes from an international set of sources and real world exemplars that run throughout the text this book is a future facing resource for scholars in economics and finance as well as the academically minded valuation practitioner

Intelligence in Economics and Management Phillip Ein-Dor, 2012-12-06 In the past decades several researchers have developed statistical models for the prediction of corporate bankruptcy e g Altman 1968 and Bilderbeek 1983 A model for predicting corporate bankruptcy aims to describe the relation between bankruptcy and a number of explanatory financial ratios. These ratios can be calculated from the information contained in a company's annual report. The aim is to obtain a method for timely prediction of bankruptcy, a so-called early warning system. More recently, this subject has attracted the attention of researchers in the area of machine learning, e.g. Shaw and Gentry 1990, Fletcher and Goss 1993, and Tam and Kiang 1992. This research is usually directed at the comparison of machine learning methods such as induction of classification trees and neural networks with the standard statistical methods of linear discriminant analysis and logistic regression. In earlier research, Feelders et al. 1994 performed a similar comparative analysis. The methods used were linear discriminant analysis, decision trees, and neural networks. We used a data set which contained 139 annual reports of Dutch industrial and trading companies. The experiments showed that the estimated prediction error of both the decision tree and neural network were below the estimated error of the linear discriminant. Thus, it seems that we can gain by replacing the traditionally used linear discriminant by a more flexible classification method to predict corporate bankruptcy. The data set used in these experiments was very small, however.
