Govindaraju, A.R. Rao, 2013-03-09 R S GOVINDARAJU and ARAMACHANDRA RAO School of Civil Engineering Purdue University West Lafayette IN USA Background and Motivation The basic notion of artificial neural networks ANNs as we understand them today was perhaps first formalized by McCulloch and Pitts 1943 in their model of an artificial neuron Research in this field remained somewhat dormant in the early years perhaps because of the limited capabilities of this method and because there was no clear indication of its potential uses However interest in this area picked up momentum in a dramatic fashion with the works of Hopfield 1982 and Rumelhart et al 1986 Not only did these studies place artificial neural networks on a firmer mathematical footing but also opened the door to a host of potential applications for this computational tool Consequently neural network computing has progressed rapidly along all fronts theoretical development of different learning algorithms computing capabilities and applications to diverse areas from neurophysiology to the stock market Initial studies on artificial neural networks were prompted by a desire to have computers mimic human learning As a result the jargon associated with the technical literature on this subject is replete with expressions such as excitation and inhibition of neurons strength of synaptic connections learning rates training and network experience ANNs have also been referred to as neurocomputers by people who want to preserve this analogy ASCE Manuals and Reports on Engineering Practice ,1962 Calendar London School of Economics and Political Science, 1965
