Tale Of The Unknown Island:

The Tale of the Unknown Island José Saramago, 2000-10-05 A dreamer petitions his king for a boat and gets more than he bargained for in this richly enigmatic short story by the Nobel Prize winning author Kirke A man went to knock at the king's door and said Give me a boat The king's house had many other doors but this was the door for petitions But the king spent all his time sitting at the door for favors favors being offered to the king you understand whenever he heard someone knocking at the door for petitions he would pretend not to hear So begins this beautifully illustrated and deceptively simple fable Why the petitioner required a boat where he was bound for and who volunteered to crew for him the reader will soon discover In a departure from his linguistically dense and sprawling historical novels Jose Saramago presents a philosophic love story worthy of Swift or Voltaire The Unknown Island: a Tale of Adventure in the Seychelles, Etc afterwards COMFORT

MARCHANT (Bessie), 1916 Romantic Dialogues and Afterlives Monika Coghén, Anna Paluchowska-Messing, 2020 Romantic writers often asserted their individuality but this assertion tended to take the form of positioning themselves in relation to other authors and literary texts Thus they implicitly acknowledged the rich network of broadly understood poetic dialogue as an important and potent source for their own creativity When in 1816 John Keats wrote Great spirits now on earth are sojourning he celebrated the originality of his contemporaries and the historical significance of his times pointing to deep interest in the hum of mighty works in all the fields of human activity to which the nations ought to listen Keats's sonnet suggests not only stimulating exchanges between poets artists and social thinkers in the same language but also the idea of transnational appreciation and dialogue The volume takes up this idea and explores the dialogues of Romantic authors within the wide scope of European and American cultures Essays by scholars from Germany Britain Bulgaria Poland Canada and the United States of America examine Romantic writers responses to their contemporaries explore their dialogues with the culture of the past and their interactions across the arts and sciences They also scrutinize the Romantics' far reaching influence on later writers and artists and thus extend the network of artistic exchange to modern times The volume offers a rich tapestry of interconnections that span across time and space interlace languages and cultures and link Romantic writers and artists with their predecessors and successors across Europe and America The essays in the collection invite the reader to join ongoing dialogues between writers and their audiences of the past and present Ecologies of

Affect Tonya K. Davidson, Ondine Park, Rob Shields, 2013-06-01 Ecologies of Affect offers a synthetic introduction to the felt dynamics of cities and the character of places The contributors capture the significance of affects including desire nostalgia memory and hope in forming the identity and tone of places The critical intervention this collection of essays makes is an active consistent engagement with the virtualities that produce and refract our idealized attachments to place Contributors show how place images and attempts to build communities are rather than abstractions fundamentally tied to and revolve around such intangibles We understand nostalgia desire and hope as virtual that is even though they are not material they are nevertheless real and must be accounted for In this book the authors take up affect emotion and emplacement and consider them in relation to one another and how they work to produce and are produced by certain temporal and spatial dimensions The aim of the book is to inspire readers to consider space and place beyond their material properties and attend to the imaginary places and ideals that underpin and produce material places and social spaces This collection will be useful to practitioners and students seeking to understand the power of affect and the importance of virtualities within contemporary societies where intangible goods have taken on an increasing value Floating Islands Richard J.

Australia is the planet's sole island continent. This book argues that the uniqueness of this geography has shaped Australian history and culture including its literature. Further, it shows how the fluctuating definition of the island continent throws new light on the relationship between islands and continents in the mapping of modernity. The book links the historical and geographical conditions of islands with their potent role in the imaginaries of European colonisation. It prises apart the tangled web of geography, fantasy, desire, and writing that has framed the Western understanding of islands, both their real and material conditions and their symbolic power from antiquity into globalised modernity. The book also traces how this spatial imaginary has shaped the modern man who is imagined as being the island's mirror. The interrelationship of the island fantasy, colonial expansion, and the literary construction of place and history created a new man, the dislocated and alienated subject of post-colonial modernity. This book looks at the contradictory images of islands from the allure of the desert island as a paradise where the world can be made anew to their roles as prisons as these ideas are made concrete at moments of British colonialism. It also considers alternatives to viewing islands as objects of possession in the archipelagic visions of island theorists and writers. It compares the European understandings of the first and last of the new worlds, the Caribbean archipelago and the Australian island continent, to calibrate the different ways these disparate geographies unified and fractured the concept of the planetary globe. In particular, it examines the role of the island in this process, specifically its capacity to figure a graspable globe in the mind. The book draws on the colonial archive and ranges across Australian literature from the first novel written and published in Australia by a convict on the island of Tasmania to both the ancient dreaming and the burgeoning literature of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders in the twenty-first century. It discusses Australian literature in an international context, drawing on the long traditions of literary islands across a range of cultures. The book's approach is theoretical and engages with contemporary philosophy which uses the island and the archipelago as a key metaphor. It is also historicist and includes considerable original historical research.

The Acute-Care Nurse

Practitioner Judy Rashotte, 2013-12-01. From the moment it was first proposed, the role of the nurse practitioner has been steeped in controversy. In the fields of both nursing and medicine, the idea that a nurse practitioner can to some degree serve as a replacement for the physician has sparked heated debates. Perhaps for that reason, despite the progress of the nurse practitioner movement, NPs have been reluctant to speak about themselves and their work, and their own vision of their role has thus remained largely invisible. Current research is dominated by instrumental and economic modes of discourse and tends to focus on the clinical activities associated with the role. Although information about demographics, educational preparation, position titles, reporting relationships, and costs of care contribute to our understanding, what was missing was an exploration of the lived experience of the nurse practitioner as a means to deepen that understanding as well as our appreciation for their role. The Acute Care Nurse Practitioner is based on in-depth interviews with twenty-six nurse practitioners working in acute care settings within tertiary care institutions all across Canada. Employing a hermeneutic approach Rashotte explores the perspectives from which NPs view their reality as they undergo a transformational journey of becoming a journey that is directed both outward into the world and inward into the self We learn how in their struggle to engage in a meaningful practice that fulfills their goals as nurses their purpose was hindered or achieved In large part the story unfolds in the voices of the NPs themselves but their words are complemented by descriptive passages and excerpts of poetry that construct an animated and powerful commentary on their journey Poised between two worlds NPs make a significant contribution to the work of their colleagues and to the care of patients and families The Acute Care Nurse Practitioner offers an experiential alternative to conventional discourse surrounding this health care provider s role A

Vanhoutte,2023-11-22 In a 1987 interview Jos Saramago eloquently expressed what could be considered his political philosophical manifesto Human beings should not content themselves with the role of mere observers They bear a responsibility to the world they must actively engage and intervene In 1998 the celebrated writer was honoured with the Nobel Prize for Literature So Saramago did not only as a human being and a citizen but also as an artist refuse to be a passive observer Despite his profound and always critical pessimism he tirelessly propelled both his public and artistic persona toward impactful actions and interventions showcasing an unwavering dedication to reshaping the world This volume seeks to delve into this facet of his legacy exploring it from diverse political and philosophical perspectives

Cartographic Strategies of Postmodernity Peta Mitchell,2013-01-11 The last fifty years have witnessed the growing pervasiveness of the figure of the map in critical theoretical and fictional discourse References to mapping and cartography are endemic in poststructuralist theory and similarly geographically and culturally diverse authors of twentieth century fiction seem fixated upon mapping While the map metaphor has been employed for centuries to highlight issues of textual representation and epistemology the map metaphor itself has undergone a transformation in the postmodern era This metamorphosis draws together poststructuralist conceptualizations of epistemology textuality cartography and metaphor and signals a shift away from modernist preoccupations with temporality and objectivity to a postmodern pragmatics of spatiality and subjectivity Cartographic Strategies of Postmodernity charts this metamorphosis of cartographic metaphor and argues that the ongoing reworking of the map metaphor renders it a formative and performative metaphor of postmodernity In
