Prentice Hall World History Version:

The New World History Ross E. Dunn, Laura J. Mitchell, Kerry Ward, 2016-08-23 The New World History is a comprehensive volume of essays selected to enrich world history teaching and scholarship in this rapidly expanding field. The forty-four articles in this book take stock of the history, evolving literature, and current trajectories of new world history. These essays, together with the editors' introductions to thematic chapters, encourage educators and students to reflect critically on the development of the field and to explore concepts, approaches, and insights valuable to their own work. The selections are organized in ten chapters that survey the history of the movement, the seminal ideas of founding thinkers, and today's practitioners; changing concepts of world historical space and time; comparative methods; environmental history; the big history movement; globalization debates over the meaning of Western power; and ongoing questions about the intellectual premises and assumptions that have shaped the field.

The New Politics of the Textbook Heather Hickman, Brad J. Porfilio, 2012-10-13 In an age of unprecedented corporate and political control over life inside of educational institutions, this book provides a needed intervention to investigate how the economic and political elite use traditional artifacts in K-16 schools to perpetuate their interests at the expense of minoritized social groups. The contributors provide a comprehensive examination of how textbooks, the most dominant cultural force in which corporations and political leaders impact the schooling curricula, shape students' thoughts and behavior, perpetuate power in dominant groups, and trivialize social groups who are oppressed on the structural axes of race, class, gender, sexuality, and disability. Several contributors also generate critical insight in how power shapes the production of textbooks and evaluate whether textbooks still perpetuate dominant Western narratives that normalize and privilege patriotism, militarism, consumerism, White supremacy, heterosexism, rugged individualism, technology, and a positivistic conception of the world. Finally, the book highlights several textbooks that challenge readers to rethink their stereotypical views of the Other, to reflect upon the constitutive forces causing oppression in schools and in the wider society, and to reflect upon how to challenge corporate and political dominance over knowledge production.

The Patchwork of World History in Texas High Schools Stephen Jackson, 2022-11-30 This book traces the historical development of the World History course as it has been taught in high school classrooms in Texas, a populous and nationally influential state over the last hundred years. Arguing that the course is a result of a patchwork of competing groups and ideas that have intersected over the past century, with each new framework patched over but never completely erased or replaced, the author crucially examines themes of imperialism, Eurocentrism, and nationalism in both textbooks and the curriculum more broadly. The first part of the book presents an overview of the World History course supported by numerical analysis of textbook content and public documents, while the second focuses on the depiction of non-Western peoples and persistent narratives of Eurocentrism and nationalism. It ultimately offers that a more global, accurate, and balanced curriculum is possible despite the tension between the ideas of professional world historians who often de-center the nation.

state in their quest for a truly global approach to the subject and the historical core rationale of state sponsored education in the United States to produce loyal citizens Offering a new conceptual understanding of how colonial themes in World History curriculum have been dealt with in the past and are now engaged with in contemporary times it provides essential context for scholars and educators with interests in the history of education curriculum studies and the teaching of World History in the United States University Bulletin University of California (System),1970 The Teaching of History in Primary Schools Hilary Cooper,2014-05-22 Updated in response to the 2000 revision of the National Curriculum this text explores ways in which curriculum balance and coherence can be achieved and a rich and exciting primary history curriculum retained while not underestimating the demands of literacy numeracy and ICT Photographic Possibilities Robert Hirsch,2009 A reliable source of techniques and ideas for the use of alternative and contemporary photographic processes that photographers have come to depend on Professional photographers and advanced students seeking to increase their skills will discover modern and classic methods of creating and manipulating images The Global Atlantic Christoph Strobel,2015-02-11 The Global Atlantic provides a concise lively overview of the complex and diverse history of the greater Atlantic region from 1400 to 1900 During this period the lands around the Atlantic basin Europe Africa and the Americas became deeply interconnected in networks of trade cultural exchange and geopolitics that reshaped these regions and the world beyond In this accessible and engaging text Christoph Strobel integrates the Atlantic into world history showing that the Atlantic oceanic system was always interlinked with the rest of globe From the Mediterranean origins of slave worked sugar plantations to the Chinese demand for silver from American mines The Global Atlantic discusses key examples of these connections with clarity enabling students to understand how existing ideas and incentives shaped the emerging Global Atlantic and how these Atlantic systems in turn created the world we live in today Encyclopedia of Library and Information Science, Second Edition - Miriam Drake,2003-05-20 A revitalized version of the popular classic the Encyclopedia of Library and Information Science Second Edition targets new and dynamic movements in the distribution acquisition and development of print and online media compiling articles from more than 450 information specialists on topics including program planning in the digital era recruitment information management advances in digital technology and encoding intellectual property and hardware software database selection and design competitive intelligence electronic records preservation decision support systems ethical issues in information online library instruction telecommuting and digital library projects Teaching World History: A Resource Book Heidi Roupp,2015-03-04 A resource book for teachers of world history at all levels The text contains individual sections on art gender religion philosophy literature trade and technology Lesson plans reading and multi media recommendations and suggestions for classroom activities are also provided The Field Douglas Booth,2007-05-07 2006 North American Society for Sports History Book of the Year The literature on sport history is now well established taking in a wide range of themes and covering every activity from aerobics to zorbing
