Reflections on the Complexities of the Covid-19 Pandemic Shadrack B. Ramokgadi, Mbekezeli C. Mkhize, 2022-12-31 This book offers an original and timeous snapshot of contemporary lines of argument from various authors in the Global South on the Covid 19 pandemic as a complex emergency at the height of the pandemic At the time of writing there were various levels of uncertainties from different countries citizens the public and private sectors industries and economies who were in disarray The book traces the origins of the Covid 19 pandemic in the province of Wuhan in China the challenges and the responses from a multiplicity of countries particularly from the Global South Of particular importance the book notes that vaccine uncertainty limiting the spread of the virus and loss of life and employment were some of the major challenges that these governments and citizens were confronted with Also the sizes of various economies lead to various challenges that the abovementioned governments shouldered The contributors shed light on various aspects related to the Covid 19 pandemic from various countries in the Global South and include but were not limited to securitised lockdowns the use of militaries and complete closures of national and sometimes fragile economies as well as overburdened health systems These are just some dire consequences of Covid 19 on the public and private sector industries and economy The book emphasises that despite myriad challenges reported there are various lessons that can be learnt in terms of how the countries responded to the pandemic and in terms of how future pandemics can be handled Finally this is an interesting piece of work wherein contributors as a collective seek to shed light with regards to the unique perspectives from the Global South and at the same time give some guidance related to their specific areas of focus

Silencing the Guns in Africa Antonio Garcia, Jacob Udo-Udo Jacob, 2025-03-14 The scholarship of this book is drawn from local and international experts by framing critically a number of discourses on matters of security conflict violence and peace on the African continent It is indeed a breath of fresh air to the scientific community largely because it contributes to the on going debates on security issues Dr Ntsikelelo Benjamin Breakfast Director of the Center for Security Peace and Conflict Resolution at Nelson Mandela University This book makes a deep contribution to scholarly literature on conflict studies peacekeeping and peacebuilding in Africa Written largely from the perspective of the applied social sciences it is empirically rich and offers refreshing insights into social behaviour in military contexts This is a timely contribution because current public discourse in South Africa is centred on the gains and missed opportunities of thirty years of democracy and new lenses are welcome Many of the chapters reflect South African experiences This is to be welcomed as it demonstrates that scholars and practitioners from the country are reflecting on the complexities of South African experiences of defence and security matters in contemporary times Dr Sandy Africa Director of Research at Mapungubwe Institute for Strategic Reflection MISTRA This volume brings together the voices of scholars and practitioners a diverse group of writers who are passionate about and committed to creating a safer more prosperous and peaceful Africa Each with their own specialism this work combines many different world views and approaches Conflict in Africa is an impossibly broad topic to cover in a single edited publication and so we focus on a select number of case studies expositions and themes

Challenging Medical Neutrality Daniel Messelken, Ana Elisa Barbar, 2024-10-16 In this volume the concept of medical neutrality which states that medical services should not be interfered with during armed conflicts and other emergencies is challenged based on the experience and expertise of the authors who come from diverse military humanitarian and academic backgrounds The principle of medical neutrality is grounded in International Humanitarian Law as well as in Human Rights Law and it can be justified by ethical rationales such as the principle of Humanity and ordinary medical ethics Health workers often understand medical neutrality as an obligation not to engage in anything else other than medical outcomes In this book a variety of problems and ethical issues in the application of medical neutrality in the professional practice of healthcare personnel are analyzed The contributors expand the debate around medical neutrality and aim at better informing policy and operational decisions regarding the application of medical ethics the protection of medical missions in conflict and the training of healthcare professionals to operate ethically and safely in volatile environments The volume is of great interest to academics practitioners policymakers and students who are looking for analyses and guidance regarding medical neutrality

Covid-19 in Africa: Governance and Containment Susan Arndt, Yacouba Banhoro, Taibat Lawanson, Enocent Msindo, Peter Simatei, 2023-08-30 Written amidst the ongoing Covid 19 pandemic this edited volume draws on the expertise of social scientists and humanities scholars to understand the several ramifications of Covid 19 in societies politics and the economies of Africa The contributors examine measures communicative practices and experiences that have guided the inter action of governments societies and citizens in this unpredictable moment Covid 19 tested governments disaster preparedness as well as exposed governments attitudes towards the poor and vulnerable In the same vein it also tested the agency of the generality of the African populace in the face of containment measures and how these impacted on everyday social cultural and economic practices of the ordinary peoples In this vein our concern is to understand the relationship between growing vulnerability on the one hand and ingenuity of agency on the other and how both were embodied narrated and discoursed by the African poor university students religious entities and middle classes and those that bore the major brunt of the lockdowns Lastly the Covid 19 pandemic impacted regional trade and other bilateral relations in Africa creating possibilities for regional entities such as ECOWAS and EAC to demonstrate their creativity or a lack of it in dealing with the pandemic The contributors thus examine the regional dimension of the crisis and particularly evaluate how covid 19 tested the resilience of multilateralism regional trade networks cross border informal economies and human movements The volume is thus a useful resource for scholars of Africa policy makers and those who want to understand Covid 19 in Africa It provides a multiplicity of perspectives of the pandemic and African responses at different levels of society economy and the political spectrum The continental focus of this volume gives room for broader comparative analyses Lastly this interdisciplinary work benefits from the input of medical historians anthropologists sociologists linguists political scientists literature scholars urban planners geographers and others

Multilingualism and the Public Sector in South Africa Munene Mwaniki, 2012-02-01 Multilingualism and the Public Sector in South Africa contributes to the discourse on language in South Africa with a specific focus on multilingualism and the public sector The book argues for and demonstrates the relevance of putting into place appropriate language policies to help the majority of the people of South Africa take an active part in nation building endeavours processes in which the public sector is key The discussion tackles the intricacies of the public sector from a constitutional legislative and policy human resource and organisational culture capital and infrastructure point of view and builds a case for the provision of multilingual services in the public sector as the benchmark of public sector service provision This is a very useful piece of work in terms of its contribution to the general field of language and development The author is arguing for and demonstrating the relevance of putting into place appropriate language policies to help a majority of the people of South Africa take an active part in nation building This can be done through many channels and the Public Sector is one of the key areas that need to take up this challenge Many people linguists included speak of the relevance of language and multilingualism but very few are able to illustrate it in an area of relevance such as the Public Sector This is research that will be of interest to specialists for sure but also to the layman simply interested in finding out more about the relevance of multilingualism to society not just in terms of social and cultural heritage but also in terms of its contribution to an improved economic output Paulin DJIT School of Humanities and Languages University of Western Sydney Australia
