

- Note 2 The labour costs includes £15,000 of costs for work that has already been incurred. This is the cost of sending engineers to Poland to help with the negotiations.
- Note 3 This is 50% of the cost of a supervisor. It is estimated that the supervisor will spend about half his time on the contract. This cost does not include a £2,000 bonus for the supervisor if the contract is completed on time.
- Note 4 These costs have already been incurred.
- Note 5 This charge is equal to 10% of sales. This is levied on all contracts to cover general administrative costs.
- Note 6 Materials
40,000kg of material X at £1.5 per kg = £60,000
20,000kg of material Y at £2.50 per kg = £50,000
- Material X is used regularly by the company. There is 20,000kg in stock but the market price has just increased to £2 per kg.
Material Y is never used by the company. There is 30,000kg in stock that cost £2.50 per kg. To buy it today would cost £4 per kg. An alternative choice for the company is to sell it for scrap at £2.10 per kg.
- Note 7 Depreciation has been calculated at £5,000. However the management accountant discovers that this charge is for a machine that is currently not used. The management accountant has received an offer of £100,000 for the machine now but if the project goes ahead it will only be sold for £50,000 at the end of the project.

Additional information

The statement above does not include the cost of additional training if the contract goes ahead. The cost of the training has been estimated at £10,000.

Environmental Judicial Review R. J. Moules,2011-09-01 Judicial review of environmental decisions is an important and growing area of public law But although the general principles of judicial review have been clearly mapped out their application to the particular context of the environment is under explored This book therefore seeks to provide a detailed and critical account of environmental judicial review in both domestic and EU law Part I explains the central principles of environmental law such as the polluter pays principle and the precautionary principle and shows how they influence the application of public law standards of legality Part II considers the procedure for judicial review with particular emphasis on standing protective costs and the availability of interim relief Part III consists of a detailed examination of how each of the grounds for judicial review is applied in the environmental context It highlights the increased emphasis on consultation and public participation in environmental matters the degree of deference afforded by the courts to scientific and political judgments and the prevalence of hard edged questions of law Part IV focuses on EU law and examines direct and indirect actions before the EU courts preliminary references and state liability It also considers infraction proceedings brought by the EU Commission the role of individuals and NGOs in relation to such proceedings and the interrelationships between infraction proceedings and judicial review Finally Part V explains the complex regime governing access to environmental information
