South Africa's Weapons of Mass Destruction Helen E. Purkitt, Stephen F. Burgess, 2005-05-11 South Africa's Weapons of Mass Destruction offers an in depth view of the secret development and voluntary disarmament of South Africa's nuclear biological and chemical weapons program Project Coast Helen E Purkitt and Stephen F Burgess explore how systems used for nuclear biological and chemical weapons in South Africa were acquired and established beyond the gaze of international and domestic political actors On the basis of archival evidence from Project Coast and their own extensive interviews with military and political officials Purkitt and Burgess consider what motivates countries to acquire and build such powerful weaponry and examine when and how decisions are made to dismantle a military arsenal voluntarily Questions such as how to destroy weapons safely and keep them from reappearing on international markets are considered along with comparative strategies for successful disarmament in other nation states South Africa Marina Ottaway, 2010-12-01 The unbanning of the African National Congress and the release of Nelson Mandela in February of 1990 cleared the way for negotiations toward a new post apartheid political order in South Africa But three years later the main parties have made little progress toward a compromise while violence escalates in the townships In this revealing study Marina Ottaway examines the new conflicts emerging in South Africa the factors influencing them and the probable outcome She shows that the black on white conflict that has made the country a pariah in the past has evolved into a much more complex state of affairs and explains that the transition is likely to take an unprecedented form Beginning with a brief history of the events since Mandela's release Ottaway provides a vivid account of the evolving conflict over apartheid She discusses the complexity of conflict resolution in a country where internal and external currents work against each other and where the struggle for power transcends any strides toward peace Ottaway thoroughly addresses the issues involved in South Africa's transition from apartheid She explains that the abolition of the pervasive system has more far reaching implications than originally thought South Africa explores the effects that the international climate of the 1990s has had on the country's transition Ottaway contends that the international community rejects apartheid but is unsympathetic to black demands for redistribution and has condemned the white government's vision of separate development but accepts ethnic nationalism as inevitable She describes the dramatic effects the new world order has had on South Africa and assesses what those changes will mean to the country's difficult transition State, 1995 Africa Air University (U.S.). The Rise And Fall Of Apartheid David Welsh, 2010-11-22 On his way into Parliament on 2 February 1990 FW de Klerk turned to his wife Marike and said referring to his forthcoming speech South Africa will never be the same again after this Did white South Africa crack or did its leadership yield sufficiently and just in time to avert a revolution The transformation has been called a miracle belying gloomy predictions of race war in which the white minority went into a laager and fought to the last drop of blood Why did it happen Professor Welsh views the topic against the backdrop of a long history of conflict spanning apartheid s rise and demise and the liberation movement s suppression and subsequent resurrection His view is that the movement away from apartheid to majority rule would have taken far longer and been much bloodier were it not for the changes undergone by Afrikaner nationalism itself There were turning points such as the Soweto uprising of 1976 but few believed that the transition from white domination to inclusive democracy would occur as soon and as relatively peacefully as it did In effect however a multitude of different factors led the ANC and the National Party to see that neither side could win the conflict on its own terms Utterly dissimilar in background culture beliefs and political style Nelson Mandela and FW de Klerk were an unlikely pair of liberators But both soon recognised that they were dependent on each other to steer the transformation process through to its conclusion      AF Press Clips ,1990-04      Nelson Mandela Crain Soudien,2017-03-22 The death of Nelson Mandela the great South African fighter for freedom in December 2013 prompted several colleagues within the World Council of Comparative Education Societies community to come together to think about the significance of his life and his work for education This book is the result of that coming together The contributing authors reflect on what his life the commitments he made and principally the values he took into the struggle for freedom in South Africa mean for education The point of departure for the book is that of honouring the man It begins with the argument that the values for which he stood namely the unconditional dignity of all human beings respect for difference and principally his lifelong commitment to justice have a special significance for how we as inhabitants of an increasingly connected and interdependent world conduct our personal lives our relationships with one another and with the material and living space which surrounds us It is an ecological approach As the world moves into a twenty first century where paradoxically we know so much and yet appear to understand so little and so find ourselves struggling to create social lives in which all of us can feel respected can offer respect to others and live lives free of fear and anxiety the values for which he stood have specific relevance for how we do the important job of teaching and what we put into it Mandela poses deeply provocative questions about the kinds of lives we seek for ourselves and for everybody else around us
