For the casual naturalist William Alphonso Murrill s name is associated with a plethora of new species of fungi his mysterious resignation from the New York Botanical Garden his disappearance from New York and rediscovery as a free spirit in Florida Pivotal were his years in New York City of course but the process through which he arrived there the people who acted to shape him and his activities while there leading to his life changing trauma have not been previously adequately summarized Three academic biologists were especially important to his development George Francis Atkinson at Cornell Lucien Marcus Underwood at Columbia and Nathaniel Lord Britton at The New York Botanical Garden Other individuals appeared omnipresent to the story John Torrey John Newberry and Seth Low the latter President of Columbia University and Mayor of New York City The Torrey Botanical Club played an important role in Murrill s integration in the city and the spread of his name to the wider biology community Edna the love of his life and his wife remains a mysterious personage The articulation of forces individuals and the times combined to produce an interesting man attempting to forge his own path as The

Naturalist Unlike most academics Murrill left several autobiographical publications often allegorical which furnish material on his developing years George Weber who spent considerable time with Murrill in advanced life penned a memorial from which valuable information has been gathered and Jim Kimbrough 2003 Murrill s successor as mycologist at the University of Florida wrote a more informal sketch of Murrill s last years This book serves as a comprehensive biography of William Alphonso Murrill s fascinating and mysterious life career

Women Architects at Work Mary Anne Hunting, Kevin D. Murphy, 2025-02-18 A comprehensive history of the women architects who left their enduring mark on American Modernism In the decades preceding World War II professional architecture schools enrolled increasing numbers of women but career success did not come easily Women Architects at Work tells the stories of the resilient and resourceful women who surmounted barriers of sexism racism and classism to take on crucial roles in the establishment and growth of Modernism across the United States Mary Anne Hunting and Kevin D Murphy describe how the Cambridge School of Architecture and Landscape Architecture in Massachusetts evolved for the professional education of women between 1916 and 1942 While alumnae such as Eleanor Agnes Raymond Victorine du Pont Homsey and Sarah Pillsbury Harkness achieved some notoriety others like Elizabeth Ann Campbell Knapp and Louisa Vaughan Conrad have been largely absent from histories of Modernism Hunting and Murphy describe how these innovative practitioners capitalized on social educational and professional ties to achieve success and used architecture to address social concerns including how modernist ideas could engage with community and the environment Some joined women led architectural firms while others partnered with men or contributed to Modernism as retailers of household furnishings writers and educators photographers and designers or fine artists With stunning illustrations Women Architects at Work offers new histories of recognized figures while recovering the stories of previously unsung women all of whom contributed to the modernization of American architecture and design
