Modern Chemical Technology and Emission Control M.B. Hocking,2012-12-06 This text of applied chemistry considers the interface between chemistry and chemical engineering using examples of some of the important process in dustries Integrated with this is detailed consideration of measures which may be taken for avoidance or control of potential emissions This new emphasis in applied chemistry has been developed through eight years of experience gained from working in industry in research development and environment al control fields plus twelve years of teaching here using this approach It is aimed primarily towards science and engineering students as well as to envi ronmentalists and practising professionals with responsibilities or an interest in this interface By providing the appropriate process information back to back with emis sions and control data the potential for process fine tuning is improved for both raw material efficiency and emission control objectives This approach also emphasizes integral process changes rather than add on units for emis sion control Add on units have their place when rapid action on an urgent emission problem is required or when control simply is not feasible by pro cess integral changes alone Obviously fundamental process changes for emission containment are best conceived at the design stage However at whatever stage process modifications are installed this approach to control should appeal to the industrialist in particular in that something more sub stantial than decreased emissions may be gained

Philosophy of Chemistry Jaap Brakel, 2000 This book addresses themes in the newly emerging discipline of philosophy of chemistry in particular issues in connection with discussions in general philosophy of science on natural kinds reduction and ceteris paribus laws The philosophical issue addressed in all chapters is the relation between on the one hand the manifest image the daily practice or common sense life form and on the other the scientific image both of which claim to be the final arbiter of everything With respect to chemistry the question raised is this Where does this branch of science fit in with the manifest or scientific image Most philosophers and chemists probably would reply unhesitatingly the scientific image The aim of this book is to raise doubts about that self evidence It is argued that chemistry is primarily the science of manifest substances whereas micro or submicro scientific talk though important useful and insightful does not change what matters namely the properties of manifest substances These manifest substances their properties and uses cannot be reduced to talk of molecules or solutions of the Schrödinger equation If submicroscopic quantum mechanics were to be wrong it would not affect all or any microlevel chemical knowledge of molecules If molecular chemistry were to be wrong it wouldn't disqualify knowledge of say water not at the macrolevel e.g. its viscosity at 50 °C nor at the pre or protoscientific manifest level e.g. ice is frozen water
