Popular culture is invariably a vehicle for the dominant ideas of its age. Never was this more true than in the late 19th and early 20th centuries when it reflected the nationalist and imperialist ideologies current throughout Europe. This text examines the various media through which nationalist ideas were conveyed in late Victorian and Edwardian times in the theatre, ethnic shows, juvenile literature, education and the iconography of popular art. Several chapters look beyond World War I when the most popular media, cinema and broadcasting, continued to convey an essentially late 19th century world view while government agencies like the Empire Marketing Board sought to convince the public of the economic value of empire. Youth organizations which had propagated imperialist and militarist attitudes before the war struggled to adapt to the new internationalist climate. Delinquents and Debutantes Sherrie A. Inness, 1998-08-01
The contributors, including such leading scholars as Vicki L Ruiz, Jennifer Scanlon and Miriam Formanek Brunell, examine myriad ways in which a variety of discourses and activities from popular girls magazines and advertisements to babysitting and the Girl Scouts help form girls' experiences of what it means to be a girl and later a woman in our society. The essays address such topics as board games and the socialization of adolescent girls, dolls and political ideologies, Nancy Drew and the Filipina American experience, the queering of girls detective fiction and female juvenile delinquency to demonstrate how cultural discourses shape both the young and teenage girl in America Although girls culture has until now received comparatively little attention from scholars this work confirms that understanding the culture of girls is essential to understanding how gender works in our society Making a significant contribution to a long neglected area of social and cultural inquiry Delinquents and Debutantes will be of central interest to those in women s studies American studies history literature and cultural studies Administration Report of the Municipal Commissioner for Greater Bombay Municipal Corporation of Greater Bombay,1976 Scouting ,2008-05 Published by the Boy Scouts of America for all BSA registered adult volunteers and professionals Scouting magazine offers editorial content that is a mixture of information instruction and inspiration designed to strengthen readers abilities to better perform their leadership roles in Scouting and also to assist them as parents in strengthening families
