Multilingualism from Manuscript to 3D
Matylda Włodarczyk, Jukka Tyrkkö, Elżbieta Adamczyk, 2023-01-24 This collection explores the links between multimodality and multilingualism charting the interplay between languages channels and forms of communication in multilingual written texts from historical manuscripts through to the new media of today and the non verbal associations they evoke The volume argues that features of written texts such as graphics layout boundary marking and typography are inseparable from verbal content Taken together the chapters adopt a systematic historical perspective to investigate this interplay over time and highlight the ways in which the two disciplines might further inform one another in the future as new technologies emerge The first half of the volume considers texts where semiotic resources are the sites of modes where multiple linguistic codes interact on the page and generate extralinguistic associations through visual features and spatial organisation The second half of the book looks at texts where this interface occurs not in the text but rather in the cultural practices involved in social materiality and text transmission Enhancing our understandings of multimodal resources in both historical and contemporary communication this book will be of interest to scholars in multimodality multilingualism historical communication discourse analysis and cultural studies Chapters 1 4 and 5 of this book are available for free in PDF format as Open Access from the individual product page at www.routledge.com Chapters 1 4 have been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license with Chapter 5 being made available under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 license

King, 2016-01-05 This Special Report comprehensively describes the stratigraphy and correlation of the Tertiary Paleogene Neogene rocks of NW Europe and the adjacent Atlantic Ocean and is the summation of fifty years of research on Tertiary sediments by Chris King. His book is essential reading for all geologists who deal with Tertiary rocks across NW Europe including those in the petroleum industry and geotechnical services as well as academic stratigraphers and palaeontologists. Introductory sections on chronostratigraphy, biostratigraphy and other methods of dating and correlation are followed by a regional summary of Tertiary sedimentary basins and their framework and an introduction to Tertiary igneous rocks. The third and largest segment comprises the regional stratigraphic summaries. Regions covered are the North Sea Basin, onshore areas of southern England and the eastern English Channel area, the North Atlantic margins including non-marine basins in the Irish Sea and elsewhere and the Paleogene igneous rocks of Scotland. Fighting at the Legal Boundaries Kenneth Watkin OMM, CD, QC, 2016-05-03 The international law governing armed conflict is at a crossroads as the formal framework of laws designed to control the exercise of self-defense and conduct of inter-state conflict finds itself confronted with violent 21st Century disputes of a very different character. Military practitioners who seek to stay within the bounds of international law often find themselves applying bodies of law: IHRL, IHL, ICL in an exclusionary fashion and adherence to those boundaries can lead to a formal and often rigid application of the law that does not adequately address contemporary security challenges. Fighting at the Legal Boundaries offers a holistic approach towards the application of the various constitutive parts of international law. The author focuses on the interaction between the applicable bodies of law by exploring whether their boundaries are improperly drawn or are being interpreted in too rigid a fashion. Emphasis is placed on the disconnect that can occur between theory and practice regarding how these legal regimes are applied and interact with one another. Through a number of case studies, Fighting at the Legal Boundaries explores how the threat posed by insurgents, terrorists and transnational criminal gangs often occurs not only at the point where these bodies of law interact but also in situations where there is significant overlap. In this regard, the exercise of the longstanding right of States to defend nationals, including the conduct of operations such as hostage rescue, can involve the application of human rights-based law enforcement norms to counter threats transcending the conflict spectrum. This book has five parts. Part I sets out the security, legal and operational challenges of contemporary conflict. Part II focuses on the interaction between the jus ad bellum, humanitarian law and human rights, including an analysis of the historical influences that shaped their application as separate bodies of law. Emphasis is placed on the influence the proper authority principle has had in the human rights-based approach being favored when dealing with criminal non-State actors during both international and non-international armed conflict Part III analyzes the threats of insurgency and terrorism and the state response This includes exploring their link to criminal activity and the phenomenon of transnational criminal organizations Part IV addresses the conduct of operations against non State actors that span the conflict spectrum from inter state warfare to international law enforcement Lastly Part V looks at the way ahead and discusses the approaches that can be applied to address the evolving diverse and unique security threats facing the international community

Policing and Boundaries in a Violent Society
Guy Lamb, 2022-01-31 This book explores how social and territorial boundaries have influenced the approaches and practices of the South Africa Police Service SAPS By means of a historical analysis of South Africa this book introduces a new concept police frontierism which illuminates the nature of the relationships between the police policing and boundaries and can potentially be used for future case study research Drawing on a wealth of research this book examines how social and territorial boundaries strongly influenced police practices and behaviour in South Africa and how social delineations amplify and distort existing police prejudices against those communities on the other side of the boundary Focusing on cases of high density police operations public order policing and the recent policing of the COVID 19 lockdown this book argues that poor economic conditions combined with an increased militarisation of the SAPS and a decline in public trust in the police will result in boundaries continuing to fundamentally inform police work in South Africa This book will be of interest to scholars and students interested in policing in post colonial societies characterised by high levels of violence as well as police work and police militarization
