Smieja,2011-07-20 Globalisation and African Languages links African language studies to the concept of globalisation which increasingly undergoes critical review Hence African linguists of various provenience can make valuable contributions to this debate In cultural matters which by definition include language there is often a sense that globalisation leads to a major trend of homogenisation which results in a reduction of diversity on the one hand and on the other in new themes being incorporated into global cultural patterns However often conflicting and overlapping particularistic interests exist which have a constructive as well as destructive potential This aspect leads directly to the first of three sections of this volume LANGUAGE USE AND ATTITUDES which addresses some of the burning issues in sociolinguistic research Since this research area is tightly linked to the educational domain these important issues are addressed in articles that comprise the second section of this volume LANGUAGE POLICY AND EDUCATION The third section of the volume presents articles dealing with LANGUAGE DESCRIPTION AND CLASSIFICATION demonstrating which parts of different language systems are affected through contact under historical and modern conditions The contributions of all the well known scholars in this volume show that globalisation is a two way street and to ensure that all sides benefit in a reciprocal manner means the impacts have to be monitored globally regionally nationally and locally By disseminating and emphasising these linguistic findings as part of the global cultural heritage African language studies may offer urgently needed new perspectives towards a rapidly changing world

Critical toponymy Peter E Raper, Herman Beyer, Matthias Brenzinger, Theodorus du Plessis, 2019-03-01 Critical Toponymy Place names in political historical and commercial landscapes contains a selection of double blind peer reviewed papers from the 4th International Symposium on Place Names that took place 18-20 September 2017 in Windhoek Namibia These papers present current thinking on how the critical turn in social sciences is manifested in toponymic research not only locally but also internationally As such it includes research on place names from South Africa Namibia Zimbabwe Austria Slovenia Central America and even the former Czechoslovakia The contributions show that the etymology of place names are never purely linguistic social political commercial and other factors influence the giving use and adaptations of these linguistic and cultural artefacts Furthermore given their high symbolic content place names also serve as political and commercial currency Place names are therefore important symbolic markers in preserving or changing cultural identities and in marking or facilitating socio political changes and relations Critical Toponymy showcases the many ways in which the representational potential of place names can be deployed in different contexts Scholars as well as practitioners in toponymy and sociolinguistics will find this an illuminating read
