September Consumer Studies Memorandum:

Consumerism in Twentieth-Century Britain Matthew Hilton, 2003-11-13 This book is the first comprehensive history of consumerism as an organised social and political movement Matthew Hilton offers a groundbreaking account of consumer movements ideologies and organisations in twentieth century Britain He argues that in organisations such as the Co operative movement and the Consumers Association individual concern with what and how we spend our wages led to forms of political engagement too often overlooked in existing accounts of twentieth century history He explores how the consumer and consumerism came to be regarded by many as a third force in society with the potential to free politics from the perceived stranglehold of the self interested actions of employers and trade unions Finally he recovers the visions of countless consumer activists who saw in consumption a genuine force for liberation for women the working class and new social movements as well as a set of ideas often deliberately excluded from more established political organisations

J. Schifferstein, Paul Hekkert, 2011-04-28 Product Experience brings together research that investigates how people experience products durable non durable or virtual In contrast to other books the present book takes a very broad possibly all inclusive perspective on how people experience products It thereby bridges gaps between several areas within psychology e g perception cognition emotion and links these areas to more applied areas of science such as product design human computer interaction and marketing The field of product experience research will include some of the research from four areas Arts Ergonomics Technology and Marketing Traditionally each of these four fields seems to have a natural emphasis on the human ergonomics and marketing the product technology or the experience arts However to fully understand human product experience we need to use different approaches and we need to build bridges between these various fields of expertise Most comprehensive collection of psychological research behind product design and usability Consistently addresses the 3 components of human product experience the human the product and the experience International contributions from experts in the field Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications,1994 Regulation of Cigarettes and Smokeless Tobacco Under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act United States. Food Is Love Katherine J. Parkin, 2011-06-03 Modern advertising has changed dramatically since the early twentieth century but when it comes to food Katherine Parkin writes the message has remained consistent Advertisers have historically promoted food in distinctly gendered terms returning repeatedly to themes that associated shopping and cooking with women Foremost among them was that regardless of the actual work involved women should serve food to demonstrate love for their families In identifying shopping and cooking as an expression of love ads helped to both establish and reinforce the belief that kitchen work was women s work even as women s participation in the labor force dramatically increased Alternately flattering her skills as a homemaker and preying on her insecurities advertisers suggested that using their products would give a woman irresistible sexual allure a happy marriage and healthy children Ads also promised that by buying and making the right foods a woman could help her family achieve social status maintain its racial or ethnic identity and assimilate into the American mainstream Advertisers clung tenaciously to this paradigm throughout great upheavals in the patterns of American work diet and gender roles To discover why Food Is Love draws on thousands of ads that appeared in the most popular magazines of the twentieth and early twenty first centuries including the Ladies Home Journal Good Housekeeping Ebony and the Saturday Evening Post The book also cites the records of one of the nation s preeminent advertising firms as well as the motivational research advertisers utilized to reach their customers
