4. Read an excerpt from John F. Kennedy's inauguration speech and use it to explain JFK's belief about Americans' personal responsibility and the key difference between him and the leaders that came before him. U9 L4 S1-3

John F. Kennedy believed that Americans' personal responsibility was to help and make the world a better place. Furthermore, that America, and Americans "shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend, oppose any foe to assure the survival and success of liberty." He also believes that we should all "ask not what your country can do for you," but instead "ask what you can do for your country." This can be seen in his establishment of the U.S. Agency for International Development to oversee foreign aid, as well as his founding of the Peace Corps where he recruited young people to work on humanitarian projects in Asia, Africa, and Latin America to increase food supplies there; as well as improve the health care and education system. This was to encourage the developing nations to align themselves with the United States rather than the Soviet Union, or China. His predecessors, on the other hand, enacted military power to persuade others to join them through showing them force.

5. How did the Cuban Missile Crisis impact the views of Kennedy's administration? U9 L4 S5

It showed Kennedy's confidence and calm in a high-pressure situation.
