Olin Wright, 2019-04-09 Democracy means rule by the people but in practice even the most robust democracies delegate most rule making to a political class The gap between the public and its representatives might seem unbridgeable in the modern world but Legislature by Lot examines an inspiring solution a legislature chosen through sortition the random selection of lay citizens It's a concept that has come to the attention of democratic reformers across the globe Proposals for such bodies are being debated in Australia Belgium Iceland the United Kingdom and many other countries Sortition promises to reduce corruption and create a truly representative legislature in one fell swoop In Legislature by Lot John Gastil and Erik Olin Wright make the case for pairing a sortition body with an elected chamber within a bicameral legislature Gastil is a leading deliberative democracy scholar and Wright a distinguished sociologist and editor of the Real Utopias series of which this is a part In this volume they bring together critics and advocates of sortition who have studied ancient Athens deliberative polling political theory social movements and civic innovation Without obscuring its limitations the contributors offer a wide variety of ideas for how to implement sortition and examine its potential for reshaping modern politics Legislature by Lot includes sixteen essays that respond to Gastil and Wright's detailed proposal Essays comparing sortition to contemporary reforms see it as a dramatic extension of deliberative minipublics which gather random samples of citizens to weigh public policy dilemmas without being empowered to enact legislation Another set of essays explores the democratic principles underlying sortition and elections and considers for example how a sortition body holds itself accountable to a public that did not elect it The third set of essays considers alternative paths to democratic reform which limit the powers of a sortition chamber or more quickly establish a pure sortition body With contributions by Arash Abizadeh Tom Arnold Terrill
