Preservation by fermentation is one of the oldest food technologies and yet it continues to play an important role in meat preservation in many parts of the world. These processes can be relatively simple with minimal microbial involvement or more complex involving defined ingredients and starter cultures with controlled environmental conditions. Most meat fermentations rely on the use of salt as an ingredient, sometimes with the addition of nitrate, nitrite, and spices. In some cases, the meat may be smoked, and as with some cheese fermentations, fermented meats may be ripened by moulds and yeasts. The preservation of meats by fermentation depends on the interaction of a number of environmental and microbiological factors, including the pH, water activity, redox potential, and the presence of preservatives and a competitive microflora. The subject of fermented meats is an important but relatively specialised area of microbiology and food technology. Few books have specifically addressed this subject, and the topic has usually been dealt with in reviews and research papers, with a significant proportion of these being published in languages other than English. As far as we are aware, this volume is the first to bring together a selection of key topics relating to the production of fermented meats and their chemical and microbiological properties. The book begins with a general chapter on the properties of meat.

Irene's Peranakan Recipes Irene Yeo, Elaine Yeo, 2006

Peranakan is the term given to descendants of early Chinese migrants who settled in Penang, Malacca, Indonesia, and Singapore, and married the native Malays. Peranakan or Nonya cuisine combines the best of Chinese, Malay, and other Asian influences to offer a unique fusion of exotic food. The food is aromatic, spicy, and herbal. Peranakan cuisine also includes a wide range of desserts that are popular in this region. Irene was born to a quintessentially Teochew family and married into a traditional Peranakan family. Cooking wasn't always her strong suit, and she had to enrol in cooking classes after her marriage. Then, through trial and error, swapping recipes with friends, gleaned cooking tips from neighbours and friends, and tapping on her husband's discerning taste buds, Irene's culinary genie emerged. As the years simmered and broiled, Irene gained confidence and started her own cooking classes. She taught at classes organised by the Social Development Unit, the Welfare Club of Tan Tock Seng Hospital, and other church groups. With all these classes, she was able to fine-tune her recipes even further. Writing a cookbook had always been on Irene's mind, but she passed away before she could complete it. This book is compiled by her daughter, Elaine Yeo. Irene's Peranakan Recipes is part of Epigram Books' award-winning Heritage Cookbook series, which showcases the best of Singapore's major cuisines through authentic family recipes.

Early American Herb Recipes Alice Cooke Brown, 2012-03-08 For early American households the herb garden was an all purpose medicine chest. Herbs were used to treat apoplexy, lily of the valley, asthma, burdock, horehound, boils, onion, tuberculosis, chickweed, coltsfoot, palpitations, saffron, valerian, jaundice, speedwell, nettles, toad, flax, toothache, dittander, hemorrhage, yarrow, hypochondria, mustard, viper grass, wrinkles, cowslip, juice, cancers, bean leaf, juice, and various other ailments. But herbs were used for a host of other purposes as well and in this fascinating book readers will find a wealth of information on the uses of herbs by homemakers of the past including more than 500 authentic recipes given exactly as they appeared in their original sources. Selected from such early American cookbook classics as Miss Leslie's Directions for Cookery, Mary Randolph's The Virginia Housewife, Lydia Child's The American Frugal Housewife and other rare publications, the recipes cover the use of herbs for medicinal, culinary, cosmetic, and other purposes. Readers will discover not only how herbs were used in making vegetable and meat dishes, gravies and sauces, cakes, pies, soups, and beverages, but also how our ancestors employed them in making dyes, furniture polish, insecticides, spot removers, perfumes, hair tonics, soaps, tooth powders, and numerous other products. While some formulas are completely fantastic, others such as a sunburn ointment made from hog's lard and elder flowers were based on long experience and produced excellent results. More than 100 fine nineteenth century engravings of herbs add to the charm of this enchanting volume, an invaluable reference and guide for plant lovers and herb enthusiasts that will delight and astound the twentieth century reader.
