

Medicaid Fraud Advertising June 2016

Goals:

Create awareness of services provided by Attorney General Rutledge's Medicaid Fraud Control Unit and increase reporting of Medicaid fraud and abuse and neglect of individuals living in residential care in Arkansas, which will lead to increased investigations and convictions.

Strategies:

Utilize Search Engine Optimization to include a Google AdWords campaign with keywords that Arkansians may search for if there is a related problem in which they need help.

Review the current web page to determine options for enhancing the messages and visual aspects to ensure that it is userfriendly, easy to report issues and in an anonymous way, and more appealing, so that audiences will not click away right away.

Messages are also enforced in presentations, media relations, social media messages, printed materials and other external communication.

Output Objective:

- Create SEO campaign in July 2017 to test for three months.

Outcome Objectives:

- Garner 500 clicks and 500 impressions by Oct. 15.
- Get a minimum of 350 page views on combined senior pages by Oct. 15.

Audiences:

Law enforcement, residential care service providers and individuals who have family members in residential care in Arkansas.

Key messages:

All of these will include arkansasag.gov

And link to arkansasag.gov/protections/arkansas-lawyer/medicaid-fraud/

(moving reporting up and adding anonymous message; in new web design, feature report call-out box)

Sample ads would also include:

Protecting Arkansas families

Attorney General Leslie Rutledge

And test several headlines to include:

- Report Medicaid fraud
- Report nursing home neglect

trafficking organizations organized crime syndicates and even major hospital chains In License to Steal Malcolm K Sparrow shows how the industry s defenses which focus mostly on finding and correcting billing errors are no match for such well orchestrated attacks The maxim for thieves simply becomes bill your lies correctly Provided they do that fraud perpetrators with any degree of sophistication can steal millions of dollars with impunity testing payment systems carefully and then spreading fraudulent billings widely enough across patient and provider accounts to escape detection The kinds of highly automated quality controlled claims processing systems that pervade the industry present fraud perpetrators with their favorite kind of target rich fast paying transparent utterly predictable check printing systems with little threat of human intervention and with the U S Treasury on the end of the electronic line Sparrow picks apart the industry s response to the government s efforts to control this problem The provider associations well heeled and politically influential have vociferously opposed almost every recent enforcement initiative creating the unfortunate public impression that the entire health care industry is against effective fraud control A significant segment of the industry it seems regards fraud and abuse not as a problem but as a lucrative enterprise worth defending Meanwhile it remains a perfectly commonplace experience for patients or their relatives to examine a medical bill and discover that half of it never happened or that likewise if patients then complain they discover that no one seems to care or that no one has the resources to do anything about it Sparrow s research suggests that the growth of capitated managed care systems does not solve the problem as many in the industry had assumed but merely changes its form The managed care environment produces scams involving underutilization and the withholding of medical care schemes that are harder to uncover and investigate and much more dangerous to human health Having worked extensively with federal and state officials since the appearance of his first book on this subject Sparrow is in a unique position to evaluate recent law enforcement initiatives He admits the war on fraud is at least now engaged but it is far from won *Debates.
