It is highly important to note that, even though the concept of carrying capacity is well established, few studies attempt to incorporate it into the models. For the present study, the open standards of the Commission on Sustainable Development (2002) regarding the sustainability of natural resources (which states that people's use of natural resources should not exceed the ability of the earth to regenerate) provided some guidance. To this end, we used a population of 100,000 as the carrying capacity of the island.
