English-Medium Instruction from an English as a Lingua Franca Perspective Kumiko Murata,2018-08-06 English is increasingly used as a lingua franca ELF in communicative situations the world over with the acceleration of globalisation This is in line with the increased introduction of English medium instruction EMI to higher education institutions in many parts of the world to further promote both students and faculty s mobility to make them competitive and employable in the globalised world and to make their institutions more attractive and reputable EMI and ELF however are rarely explicitly investigated together despite the fact that the spread of EMI cannot be separated from that of ELF This volume tackles the issue head on by focusing on EMI in higher education from an ELF perspective The volume includes contributions by Asian European Middle Eastern South American and Anglo American scholars It discusses language policies attitudes and identities analyses of classroom EMI practices case studies and finally pedagogical implications from an ELF perspective incorporating also theoretical and empirical issues in conducting EMI courses programmes The volume will be of great interest and use not only to those who are conducting research on ELF EMI CLIL language policy and related fields but also to classroom teachers and policy makers who are conducting and or planning to start EMI courses programmes in their institutions or countries all over the world , Selected Water Resources Abstracts ,1989 Landscapes of Human Evolution James Cole,John McNabb,Matt Grove,Rob Hosfield,2020-02-13 Fourteen papers are presented here in honour of John Gowlett John has a wide range of research interests primarily focused on the human genus Homo and is a world leader in understanding the cognitive and behavioural preconditions necessary for the emergence of complex behaviours such as language and art South African Pressclips ,1986 Selected Water Resources Abstracts ,1989 Geomorphology in the Anthropocene Andrew S. Viles,2016-10-10 A comprehensive treatment of the human role in modifying geomorphological forms and processes and their influence on the Earth s systems Democracy's Infrastructure Antina von Schnitzler,2016-10-25 In the past decade South Africa s miracle transition has been interrupted by waves of protests in relation to basic services such as water and electricity Less visibly the post apartheid period has witnessed widespread illicit acts involving infrastructure including the nonpayment of service charges the bypassing of metering devices and illegal connections to services Democracy s Infrastructure shows how such administrative links to the state became a central political terrain during the antiapartheid struggle and how this terrain persists in the post apartheid present Focusing on conflicts surrounding prepaid water meters Antina von Schnitzler examines the techno political forms through which democracy takes shape Von Schnitzler explores a controversial project to install prepaid water meters in Soweto one of many efforts to curb the nonpayment of service charges that began during the antiapartheid struggle and she traces how infrastructure payment and technical procedures become sites where citizenship is mediated and contested She follows engineers utility officials and local bureaucrats as they consider ways to prompt Sowetans to pay for water and she shows how local residents and activists wrestle with the constraints imposed by meters This investigation of democracy from the perspective of infrastructure reframes the conventional story of South Africa s transition foregrounding the less visible remainders of apartheid and challenging readers to think in more material terms about citizenship and activism in the postcolonial world Democracy s Infrastructure examines how seemingly mundane technological domains become charged territory for struggles over South Africa s political transformation

Thinking Freedom in Africa Michael Neocosmos,2016-12-01 Thinking Freedom in Africa conceives an emancipatory politics beginning from the axiom that people think Previous ways of conceiving the universal emancipation of humanity have in practice ended in failure Marxism anti colonial nationalism and neo liberalism all understand the achievement of universal emancipation through a form of state politics Marxism which had encapsulated the idea of freedom for most of the twentieth century was found wanting when it came to thinking emancipation because social interests and identities were understood as simply reflected in political subjectivity which could only lead to statist authoritarianism Neo liberalism and anti colonial nationalism have also both assumed that freedom is realizable through the state and have been equally authoritarian in their relations to those they have excluded on the African continent and elsewhere Thinking Freedom in Africa then conceives emancipatory politics beginning from the axiom that people think In other words the idea that anyone is capable of engaging in a collective thought practice which exceeds social place interests and identities and which thus begins to think a politics of universal humanity Using the work of thinkers such as Alain Badiou Jacques Ranci re Sylvain Lazarus Frantz Fanon and many others along with the inventive thought of people themselves in their experiences of struggle the author proceeds to analyse how Africans themselves with agency of their own have thought emancipation during various historical political sequences and to show how emancipation may be thought today in a manner appropriate to twenty first century conditions and concerns

Twentieth-Century South Africa Bill Freund,2018-10-25 The twentieth century has brought considerable political social and economic change for South Africa While many would choose to focus only on the issues of race segregation and apartheid this book tries to capture another facet its drive towards modernisation and industrialisation While considering the achievements and failures of that drive as well as how it related to ethnic and racial policy making Bill Freund makes the economic data come alive by highlighting people and places He proposes that South Africa in the twentieth century can actually be understood as a nascent developmental state with economic development acting as a key motivating factor As a unique history of South Africa in the twentieth century this will appeal to anyone interested in a new interpretation of modern South African economic development or those in development studies searching for striking historical examples
