The Routledge Companion to the Geography of International Business Gary Cook, Jennifer Johns, Frank McDonald, Jonathan Beaverstock, Naresh Pandit, 2018-05-08 The fields of Economic Geography and International Business share an interest in the same phenomena whilst each provides both a differing perspective and different research methods in attempting to understand those phenomena The Routledge Companion to the Geography of International Business explores the nature and scope of inter disciplinary work between Economic Geography and International Business in explaining the central issues in the international economy Contributions written by leading specialists in each field including some chapters written by inter disciplinary teams focus on the nature of multinational firms and their strategies where they choose to locate their activities how they create and manage international networks and the key relationships between multinationals and the places where they place their operations Topics covered include the internationalisation of service industries the influence of location on the competitiveness of firms and the economic dynamism of regions and where economic activity takes place and how knowledge goods and services flow between locations The book examines the areas for fruitful inter disciplinary work between International Business and Economic Geography and sets out a road map for future joint research and is an essential resource for students and practitioners of International Business and Economic Development

Sovereign Wealth Funds in Resource Economies Khalid Alsweilem, Malan Rietveld, 2017-10-17 Sovereign wealth funds SWFs have reached a transitional moment Created as a way to direct excess wealth toward economic development and long term financial returns some countries are now seeing a decline in revenue from sources such as oil Many SWFs are now facing a new challenge how to spend sustainably without depleting the funds Sovereign Wealth Funds in Resource Economies explains the fiscal rules and institutional structures that can make SWFs thrive providing a practical and theoretical guide to their optimal use in resource revenue management Khalid Alsweilem and Malan Rietveld put forward an institutional perspective of SWFs as quasi independent political and economic entities charged with managing national resource wealth examining both investment and disbursement strategies They advance a systematic rule based approach suggesting when to accumulate and when to begin countercyclical spending based on concrete case studies More than a mere financial portfolio SWFs must be embedded in a credible fiscal and institutional framework if they are to contribute to improved economic performance Alsweilem and Rietveld consider the variety of relationships that exist between SWFs and their governments exploring the legal and policy side of the institutional approach Their rule based description of SWFs since it allows tailoring and adjustment and invokes rules of thumb and best practices is intended to be widely applicable across the diverse spectrum of global SWFs Bringing together the practitioner perspective and scholarly expertise this book will be invaluable for global policy makers and scholars working with sovereign wealth funds

Where Do Cities Come From and Where Are They Going To? Modelling Past and Present Agglomerations to Understand Urban Ways of Life Francesca Fulminante, John William Hanson, Scott G. Ortman, Luis M. A. Bettencourt, 2021-01-25 Over the last decade there has been a surge of interest in urbanization and economic development sparked by the realization that making urban life sustainable is one of the greatest challenges facing us in the 21st century this is now one of the core sustainable development goals of the United Nations This has exerted considerable pressure on researchers to come up with more scientific ways of studying urbanism and economic activity over the long run which has resulted not only in the development of new theoretical frameworks but also in the collection of vast amounts of data from a range of settings This has led to the realization that although there are significant differences between settlements in different settings there are nonetheless important regularities and commonalities between a diverse group of settlements in range of geographical and historical contexts including both ancient and modern ones This suggests that a common feature of settlements is their ability to generate increased social connectivity greater division of labour and specialization and enhanced technological invention and innovation albeit with costs to levels of equality quality of life and standards of living as well as impacts on the environment which cannot be separated from the emergence of confederations and states and the creation of settlement systems hierarchies and networks We believe that this field of enquiry now stands at a critical juncture Although it is now feasible to talk about many aspects of ancient and modern urbanism with relative confidence such as the numbers of cities or their sizes much of the discussion of these themes within historical and archaeological circles has been on a discursive or qualitative level while it is often difficult to harmonize the different models that have been applied to date into a consistent empirical and theoretical framework A new approach to settlements throughout different contexts should now be within our grasp however thanks to both the ease with which information can be disseminated and the facilities that recent developments in IT offer us to model analyse and statistically test data
