Time Series in Psychology R. A.M. Gregson, 2014-05-22 First published in 1983 Psychological data are segments of life histories as such they are ordered sequences of observations and by definition time series Yet they are often anything but well behaved what regularities and invariances they have are buried from all but the most persistent investigator The most common methods of representing quantitative results in psychology are frozen outside time thus they deliberately average out much of the sequential structure that holds any sparse clues to the nature of processes within the organism This review whose simple aim is to bring together in an illuminating juxtaposition on basic results in both time series analysis and in experimental psychology thus cuts across traditions within psychology Theoretical Approaches to Multi-Cultural Positive Psychological Interventions Llewellyn Ellardus Van Zyl, Sebastiaan Rothmann Sr., 2019-06-11 This volume provides theoretical perspectives on and approaches to the development or enhancement of positive psychological capacities within various multi cultural professional and organizational contexts Specifically it presents theoretical frameworks for the identification development and optimization of positive psychological capacities through a contemporary multi cultural and multi disciplinary lens In recent years the applicability of positive psychological intervention PPI techniques has transposed the boundaries of clinical practice into a wide array of complementary domains such as law education business and even design sciences such as architecture These interventions target the enhancement of positive psychological capacities e g strength identification and use high performance learning appreciative design job crafting in order to not only improve individual functioning well being and the treatment of various forms of psychopathology but also to enhance team functioning performance organizational growth and community development Despite its importance very little research has been done on the design of PPIs applicable to multi cultural contexts The contributions to this volume provide insights into this hitherto neglected area of research Study SA, 2006 Journal of Psychology in Africa, 2009 Proceedings of the International Conference on Information Engineering and Applications (IEA) 2012 Zhicai Zhong, 2013-03-28 Information engineering and applications is the field of study concerned with constructing information computing intelligent systems mathematical models numerical solution techniques and using computers and other electronic devices to analyze and solve natural scientific social scientific and engineering problems Information engineering is an important underpinning for techniques used in information and computational science and there are many unresolved problems worth studying The Proceedings of the 2nd International Conference on Information Engineering and Applications IEA 2012 which was held in Chongqing China from October 26 28 2012 discusses the most innovative research and developments including technical challenges and social legal political and economic issues A forum for engineers and scientists in academia industry and government the Proceedings of the 2nd International Conference on Information Engineering and Applications presents ideas results works in progress and experience in all aspects of information engineering and applications Psychological

Theories from a Structuralist Point of View Hans Westmeyer, 2012-12-06 Metatheoretical and more generally methodological analyses of psychological problems and theories have a long tradition however their impact on scientific practice especially on the clarification and testing of existing psychological theories and the formulation of new ones has so far been less than spectacular The increased interest in theoretical psychology visible during the past ten or twenty years is associated with the hope that a change of this situation will gradually be effected Thus in their preface to the proceedings of the founding conference of The International Society for Theoretical Psychology Baker et al 1987 pp Vf 1 take up 2 once more the objectives of a theoretical psychology formulated by Koch already in 1951 a Education in the methodology and logic of science b Analysis of methodological or foundational problems that are more or less unique to psychology c Internal systematization of suggestive but formally defective theoretical formulations d Intertranslation and differential analysis of conflicting theoretical formulations e Construction of new theory Reflecting on possible reasons for the relative inefficacy so far of methodological and metatheoretical analyses in psychology it seems to me that the following two have been of prime importance 1 Many of the existing analyses are at best tenuously connected to concrete existing psychological theories i e they deal with their subject matter in a too abstract detached way This detracts from the persuasive power which their results might otherwise have and impedes the realization of these results within scientific practice Human Motivation

David C. McClelland, 1988-01-29 Human Motivation originally published in 1987 offers a broad overview of theory and research from the perspective of a distinguished psychologist whose creative empirical studies of human motives span forty years David McClelland describes methods for measuring motives the development of motives out of natural incentives and the relationship of motives to emotions to values and to performance under a variety of conditions He examines four major motive systems achievement power affiliation and avoidance reviewing and evaluating research on how these motive systems affect behaviour Scientific understanding of motives and their interaction he argues contributes to understanding of such diverse and important phenomena as the rise and fall of civilisations the underlying causes of war the rate of economic development the nature of leadership the reasons for authoritarian or democratic governing styles the determinants of success in management and the factors responsible for health and illness Students and instructors alike will find this book an exciting and readable presentation of the psychology of human motivation The Routledge International Handbook of Health Psychology Robbert Sanderman, Karen Morgan, 2025-01-29 This state of the art handbook provides authoritative up to date coverage of health psychology topics offering an excellent in depth view of the field Leading experts provide essential insights into the discipline of health psychology its roots future directions and the networks and organisations involved Structured into eight parts the book starts with defining health psychology including an important historical overview Subsequent sections examine theories and methodology health behaviour interpersonal relations and health chronic disease and interventions The concluding sections tackle the important areas of global health psychology and the future of Health

Psychology The editors and auditors include leading experts in the field as well as early career researchers from over 20 countries across the world Global representation was a key goal in selecting authors While familiar areas receive ample attention this book strives to put the field of health psychology in context As well as examining history it book spotlights global issues and explicitly mentions future developments and opportunities The role of health psychology in the COVID 19 pandemic is considered and there is discussion more broadly on how health psychology can contribute to addressing societal challenges including how to move forward sharing knowledge more firmly with policymakers This is an essential resource for scholars PhD students and research master students specialising in the field of health psychology

The Paradox of Violence in Venezuela David Smilde, Verónica Zubillaga, Rebecca Hanson, 2023-05-30 Crime and violence soared in twenty first century Venezuela even as poverty and inequality decreased contradicting the conventional wisdom that these are the underlying causes of violence The Paradox of Violence in Venezuela explains the rise of violence under both Hugo Chavez and Nicol's Maduro leftist presidents who made considerable investment in social programs and political inclusion Contributors argue that violence arose not from the frustration of inequality or the needs created by poverty but rather from the interrelated factors of a particular type of revolutionary governance extraordinary oil revenues a reliance on militarized policing and the persistence of concentrated disadvantage These factors led to dramatic but unequal economic growth massive institutional and social change and dysfunctional criminal justice policies that destabilized illicit markets and social networks leading to an increase in violent conflict resolution The Paradox of Violence in Venezuela reorients thinking about violence and its relationship to poverty inequality and the state Knowledge Beyond Colour Lines Monwabisi K. Ralarala, Salochana Lorraine Hassan, Rajani Naidoo, 2021-05-25 Knowledge remains timely in education The need for academics to contemplate its relevance worth use and everything in between deems a continuous intellectual project rather than a conundrum to be solved This book takes the South African context by the horns as it challenges the often dormant and traditionalist ways in which higher education spaces see knowledge Through original research and the voices of academics and students this book argues for repurposing knowledge generation knowledge sharing and critical pedagogy so that more inclusive teaching and learning environments can be both imagined and sustained The contentious tensionalities that this creates for LoLT and SoTL in particular are unlocked so as to trouble the South African higher education landscape with the intent to proffer alternative pathways for a knowledge beyond colour lines Prof Shan Simmonds PhD NWU This edited volume bristles with fresh scholarly approaches and insights of an emergent generation of engaged scholars grappling with the issues and problems of higher education in South Africa The issues dealt with here are varied and encompassing They are treated with intellectual delicacy and probing sensitivity articulacy informed data and bold conclusions They serve well Prof Kwesi Kwaa Prah Emeritus Professor of Sociology University of the Western Cape Founder of the Centre for Advanced Studies of African Society

Progress in Schizophrenia Research Janet E. Pletson, 2005 Schizophrenia is a chronic severe and disabling psychosis which is an impairment of thinking in which the interpretation of reality is abnormal Psychosis is a symptom of a disordered brain Approximately one percent of the population world wide develops schizophrenia during their lifetime Although schizophrenia affects men and women with equal frequency the disorder often appears earlier in men usually in the late teens or early twenties than in women who are generally affected in the twenties to early thirties People with schizophrenia often suffer symptoms such as hearing internal voices not heard by others or believing that other people are reading their minds controlling their thoughts or plotting to harm them The current evidence concerning the causes of schizophrenia is a mosaic It is quite clear that multiple factors are involved These include changes in the chemistry of the brain changes in the structure of the brain and genetic factors Viral infections and head injuries may also play a role New molecular tools and modern statistical analyses are allow focusing in on particular genes that might make people more susceptible to schizophrenia by affecting for example brain development or neurotransmitter systems governing brain functioning State of the art imaging techniques are being used to study the living brain They have recently revealed specific subtle abnormalities in the structure and function of the brains of patients with schizophrenia In other imaging studies early biochemical changes that may precede the onset of disease symptoms have been noted prompting examination of the neural circuits that are most likely to be involved in producing those symptoms This new book presents the newest in depth research from around the world on schizophrenia

Connectionist Models in Cognitive Psychology George Houghton, 2004-08-02 Connectionist Models in Cognitive Psychology is a state of the art review of neural network modelling in core areas of cognitive psychology including memory and learning language written and spoken cognitive development cognitive control attention and action The chapters discuss neural network models in a clear and accessible style with an emphasis on the relationship between the models and relevant experimental data drawn from experimental psychology neuropsychology and cognitive neuroscience These lucid high level contributions will serve as introductory articles for postgraduates and researchers whilst being of great use to undergraduates with an interest in the area of connectionist modelling Doctoral Education in South Africa Nico Cloete, Johann Mouton, 2015-12-08 Worldwide in Africa and in South Africa the importance of the doctorate has increased disproportionately in relation to its share of the overall graduate output over the past decade This heightened attention has not only been concerned with the traditional role of the PhD namely the provision of future academics rather it has focused on the increasingly important role that higher education and particularly high level skills is perceived to play in national development and the knowledge economy This book is unique in the area of research into doctoral studies because it draws on a large number of studies conducted by the Centre of Higher Education Trust CHET and the Centre for Research on Evaluation Science and Technology CREST as well as on studies from the rest of Africa and the world In addition to the historical studies new quantitative and qualitative research was undertaken to produce the evidence base for the analyses presented in the book The findings presented in Doctoral Education in South Africa pose anew at least six tough policy questions that the country has struggled with since 1994 and continues to struggle with if it wishes to gear up the system to meet the target of 5 000 new doctorates a year by 2030 Discourses framed around the single imperatives of growth efficiency transformation or quality will not however generate the kind of policy discourses required to resolve these tough policy questions effectively What is needed is a change in approach that accommodates multiple imperatives and allows for these to be addressed simultaneously
