The Old English Version of Bede's Historia Ecclesiastica Sharon M. Rowley, 2011 Pioneering examination of the Old English version of Bede's Historia ecclesiastica and its reception in the middle ages from a theoretically informed multi disciplinary perspective The first full length study of the Old English version of Bede's masterwork dealing with one of the most important texts to survive from Anglo Saxon England The subjects treated range from a detailed analysis of the manuscripts and the medieval use of them to a very satisfying conclusion that summarizes all the major issues related to the work giving a compelling summary of the value and importance of this independent creation Dr Rowley convincingly argues that the Old English version is not an inferior imitation of Bede's work but represents an intelligent reworking of the text for a later generation An exhaustive study and a major scholarly contribution

GEORGE HARDIN BROWN Professor of English emeritus Stanford University The Old English version of Bede's Historia ecclesiastica gentis anglorum is one of the earliest and most substantial surviving works of Old English prose Translated anonymously around the end of the ninth or beginning of the tenth century the text which is substantially shorter than Bede's original was well known and actively used in medieval England and was highly influential However despite its importance it has been little studied In this first book on the subject the author places the work in its manuscript context arguing that the text was an independent ecclesiastical translation thoughtfully revised for its new audience Rather than looking back on the age of Bede from the perspective of a king centralizing power and building a community by recalling a glorious English past the Old English version of Bede's Historia transforms its source to focus on local history key Anglo Saxon saints and their miracles The author argues that its reading reflects an ecclesiastical setting more than a political one with uses more hagiographical than royal and that rather than being used as a class book or crib it functioned as a resource for vernacular preaching as a corpus of vernacular saints lives for oral performance and episcopal authority Sharon M Rowley is Associate Professor of English at Christopher Newport University

Newman and

Justification T. L. Holtzen, 2024-01-09 Newman and Justification examines John Henry Newman's via media doctrine of the justifying presence in his Lectures on Justification. T. L. Holtzen contends that Newman put forth his via media doctrine of the justifying presence by employing a trinitarian grammar of divine inhabitation in which the Holy Spirit is the formal cause of justification as a solution to the Reformation debate over justification. Newman sets his via media of justification between the extremes of justification by mere imputation in popular Protestantism and that of justification by works righteousness in English Arminianism and Romanism. The word justification means both being declared and being made righteous because the eternal Word is spoken into the soul by the Holy Spirit in justification. Newman identifies this with the gift of righteousness in Romans 5:17 and calls it the doctrine of the justifying presence. The justifying presence is an imparted righteousness in distinction from both the Protestant notion of imputed and Roman Catholic idea of inherent righteousness. The justifying presence comes through the sacraments, creates faith in the human soul, and begins a renewal in good works, all of which in different ways justify. The divine inhabitation of the Holy Spirit in the soul is the formal cause of justification by causing a duplex iustitia of both Christ's imputed righteousness and by beginning an actual righteousness in renewal. Newman's via media doctrine of the justifying presence has great ecumenical promise because it shows how the trinitarian grammar of justification necessarily causes renewal through divine inhabitation. The Church of England Magazine, 1851 Report and speeches at the third annual meeting of the Church Pastoral Aid Society, May 8, 1838.

A Case for Mixed-audience with Reference to the Warning Passages in the Book of Hebrews C. Adrian Thomas, 2008. A Case for Mixed Audience with Reference to the Warning Passages in the Book of Hebrews discusses the nature of the warnings in Hebrews and how these warnings relate to the theological question of the eternal security of believers. The main argument is that these warnings are intended to target a particular segment of the author's community about whose appropriation of and subsequent attitude toward the Christian message he was deeply concerned. That is to say, while the book of Hebrews is addressed as a message of encouragement to the community as a whole, its warnings are aimed at a certain element in the community whose salvation is threatened by a possible dangerous course of action. The book implies that while the author is persuaded that the majority in the community are genuine believers, there are some about whose salvation he doubts; hence the case for a mixed audience. What is threatened, therefore, is not a salvation already possessed but the salvation of those in danger of coming up short. Theologically, the work falls within the sphere of the Calvinistic-Arminian debate regarding the assurance of salvation and the perseverance of the saints. It argues strongly for the Calvinistic position but does so within the confines of the discipline of biblical studies and lends extensive exegetical support to the Calvinistic position on the warning passages. The book is highly recommended for Bible College and seminary students and professors as well as pastors and lay leaders who must give answers to their parishioners on those tough warning passages in Hebrews. The Biblical Repository and Quarterly Observer, 1836. The Biblical Repository and Classical Review, 1836. Biblical Repository and Quarterly
