This extract focuses on the reasons for Lenin's New Economic Policy.

In March 1921 Lenin announced the end of War Communism and the inauguration of a New Economic Policy. The NEP was based on the following:

Requisitions from peasants were ended and a fixed tax in kind (grain) was substituted – which by 1924 had become a money tax. Once this tax was paid, the peasant was free to do what he liked with what remained. He could use it himself, sell it to the state or sell it on the open market which was now made legal. Private enterprise was allowed in trade and small-scale industry. Compulsory labour ceased; labour armies were stopped; bonuses were introduced for extra work. The currency was back on a sound footing and a regular system of taxation was introduced. Large-scale industry (coal, iron, steel, oil, electricity, railways) remained state-owned.

1.3 Refer to Source C.

1.3.1 Explain in your own words how Lenin's New Economic Policy was implemented.

(3)

The New Economic Policy was a drastic adaptation to the war communist policy, which allowed for a free market, private trade and enterprise. Private trade was no longer illegal, or government centralised. People paid a portion of their goods or income in the form of tax and were permitted to sell the rest on the open market. This stimulated the economy and encouraged economic growth.

1.3.2 In what ways was the New Economic Policy different to Lenin's ideal of a communist state? Support your answer with evidence from the source.

(3)

A communist state is one in which all individuals are equal. Under the NEP certain individuals profited more than others, which is a distinctly capitalist feature. This automatically created a sense of inequality and reduced the government's power and influence.

1.3.3 What was Lenin's intention for the state in creating the New Economic Policy?

It was Lenin's intention to recover the economy and to suppress peasant unrest, while still providing for the needs of the government.

History Of Australia (Volumes 3 & 4) Manning Clark, 1999-09-13 Manning Clark's six volume history is one of the masterpieces of Australian writing It is also one of the most passionately debated visions of Australian history in which the struggle to realise an Australian nation is played out on an epic scale A History of Australia 1824-1888 takes the story of Australia through the momentous discovery of gold and the separation of Victoria from New South Wales to the centenary of the coming of European civilisation to Australia on 26 January 1888 The story is one of destruction as well as construction the destruction of the Aborigines and the construction of an essentially English bourgeois society and the taming of an alien and seemingly sterile land This is not a general Australian history it does not attempt to cover all aspects and it is not a definitive or quantitative analysis It is a work of art a living and breathing account of the remaking of a primitive continent history come alive

Couvares,1984-06-30 What forces transformed a community in which industrial workers and other citizens exercised a real measure of power over their lives into a metropolis whose inhabitants were utterly dependent on Big Steel How did a city that fervidly embraced the labor struggle of 1877 turn into the city which so fiercely repudiated the labor struggle of 1919 The Remaking of Pittsburgh is the history of this transformation The cultural dimensions of industrialization come to life as Couvares calls upon labor history urban history and the history of popular culture to depict the demise of the craftsman s empire and the birth of a cosmopolitan bourgeois society The book explores the impact of immigration on the shaping of modern Pittsburgh and the emergence of mass culture within the community In the midst of these processes of transformation the giant steel corporations were continually reshaping the life of the city      Me, Me, Me Jon Lawrence,2019-09-01 Many commentators tell us that in today s world everyday life has become selfish and atomised that individuals live only to consume But are they wrong In Me Me Me Jon Lawrence re tells the story of England since the Second World War through the eyes of ordinary people including his own parents to argue that in fact friendship family and place all remain central to our daily lives and whilst community has changed it is far from dead He shows how in the years after the Second World War people came increasingly to question custom and tradition as the pressure to conform to societal standards became intolerable And as soon as they could millions escaped the closed face to face communities of Victorian

Britain where everyone knew your business But this was not a rejection of community per se but an attempt to find another new way of living which was better suited to the modern world Community has become personal and voluntary based on genuine affection rather than proximity or need We have never been better connected or able to sustain the relationships that matter to us Me Me Me makes that case that it s time we valued and nurtured these new groups rather than lamenting the loss of more real forms of community it is all too easy to hold on to a nostalgic view of the past

Siblinghood and Sociability in Nineteenth-Century Ulster Shannon Devlin, 2025-01-28 This book is an innovative exploration of nineteenth century family life and society The first study of its kind it uses the sibling relationship as a window into Irish society in the past Employing a creative genealogical methodology Shannon Devlin pieces together the lives of twenty five sibling sets from Ulster allowing for an exploration of power emotion and gender in the family She considers families from both Catholic and Protestant backgrounds and in urban and rural contexts shedding new light on the Ulster middle classes during a century of rapid social and economic change Through its emphasis on horizontal family relationships the book uncovers the lived experiences of individuals and reveals how the family could help navigate the social hierarchies and gendered power structures underpinning middle class society It complicates our understanding of family dynamics household formation and cultural performances of sociability and offers an exciting new perspective on aspects of the lifecycle marriage practices inheritance family finances and Irish middle class mobility Exploring the influence of brothers and sisters on everyday life Siblinghood and Sociability in Nineteenth Century Ulster provides a unique insight into the ways in which family loyalties and obligations intersected with personal reputation aspiration and ambition
