Building and Remembering Chris Urwin, 2023-02-28 Building and Remembering is a multidisciplinary study of how memory works in relation to the material past Based on collaborative ethnoarchaeological research carried out in Orokolo Bay Papua New Guinea Chris Urwin explores oral traditions maintained and produced in relation to artifacts and stratigraphy He shows how cultivation and construction bring people from Orokolo Bay into regular contact with pottery sherds and thin layers of black sand Both the pottery and the sand are forms of material evidence that remind people of the movements and activities of their ancestors and they help sustain stories of origins and connections The sherds remind people of the layout of their ancestors' villages and of the annual maritime visits by Motu people who came from 400 km to the east The black sand evokes events of the distant past when their ancestors created the land through magic Villagers in Orokolo Bay have intimate knowledge of the contents of the subsurface and places where people work and dig more regularly are thought of as especially ancient Here people conduct their own form of archaeology as part of everyday life This book interweaves such community constructions of the past with the emergence of large coastal villages in Orokolo Bay and across a broader span of the south coast of Papua New Guinea The villages housed dense populations and hosted elaborate masked ceremonies that could span decades When Sir Albert Maori Kiki the former Deputy Prime Minister moved to Orokolo Bay in the mid 1930s he was mesmerized by the place which appeared like a modern metropolis buzzing with noise and activity Yet little is known of when these villages originated or how they developed In this book archaeological digs and radiocarbon dating are used to gain insight into how several Orokolo Bay sites developed focusing on the key origin and migration village of Popo Village elders share their understandings of ancestral places during surveys and through oral traditions People lived in Popo for some five hundred years moving to through and from the estates expanding and at times shifting the village to access the social and subsistence benefits of coastal village life

Responsive Judicial Review Rosalind Dixon,2023-01-18 Democratic dysfunction can arise in both at risk and well functioning constitutional systems It can threaten a system s responsiveness to both minority rights claims and majoritarian constitutional understandings Responsive Judicial Review aims to counter this dysfunction using examples from both the global north and global south including leading constitutional courts in the US UK Canada India South Africa and Colombia as well as select aspects of the constitutional jurisprudence of courts in Australia Fiji Hong Kong and Korea In this book Dixon argues that courts should adopt a sufficiently dialogic approach to countering relevant democratic blockages and look for ways to increase the actual and perceived legitimacy of their decisions through careful choices about their framing and the timing and selection of cases By orienting judicial choices about constitutional construction toward promoting democratic responsiveness or toward countering forms of democratic monopoly blind spots and burdens of inertia judicial review helps safeguard a constitutional system s responsiveness to democratic majority understandings The idea of responsive judicial review encourages courts to engage with their own distinct institutional position and potential limits on their own capacity and legitimacy Dixon further explores the ways that this translates into the embracing of a weakened approach to judicial finality compared to the traditional US model of judicial supremacy as well as a nuanced approach to the making of judicial implications a calibrated approach to judicial scrutiny or judgments about proportionality and an embrace of weak strong rather than wholly weak or strong judicial remedies Not all courts will be equally well placed to engage in review of this kind or successful at doing so For responsive judicial review to succeed it must be sensitive to context specific limitations of this kind Nevertheless the idea of responsive judicial review is explicitly normative and aspirational it aims to provide a blueprint for how courts should think about the practice of judicial review as they strive to promote and protect democratic constitutional values

From Capital to Commons Hannes Gerhard,2024-11-12 A Choice Outstanding Academic Title in Economics 2023 In this stimulating analysis Hannes Gerhard outlines the potentials and challenges of a technology enabled commons focused transition out of capitalism The book shows that openness and cooperation are more beneficial in today's economies and societies than competition and profit seeking. Driven by this conviction, Gerhardt identifies key imperatives for overcoming capitalism: democratizing our digital, material, and financial economies; maintaining a robust political mobilization. Using clear examples, he explores tactical openings through the lens of compeerism, a newly constructed framework that highlights the latent counter-capitalist possibilities but also limits of our emerging technological landscape. This is an accessible contribution to counter-capitalist discourse that is both inspiring and pragmatic for academics and activists alike.

Urban Disaster Resilience David Sanderson, Jerold Kayden, Julia Leis, 2016-04-14

Accelerating urbanization worldwide means more urban-centered disasters. Floods, earthquakes, storms, and conflicts affecting densely populated areas produce significant losses in lives, livelihoods, and the built environment, especially in comparison to rural areas. Drawing directly from the experiences of urban disasters in the Philippines, Chile, India, Thailand, Iraq, Haiti, and Nepal, among other countries, Urban Disaster Resilience brings to light new collaborations and techniques for addressing the challenges of urban disasters in the coming years. Chapters range from country-specific case studies to more synthetic frameworks in order to promote innovative thinking and practical solutions. Edited by David Sanderson, Jerold S. Kayden, and Julia Leis, this book is a crucial read for humanitarian and disaster specialists, urban planners and designers, architects, landscape architects, housing and economic development professionals, real estate developers, private business managers, and students interested in the subject, whether based in non-governmental organizations, local, state, or national governments, international agencies, private firms, or the academy.
