Poststructuralism International Relations Bringing The Political Back In:

Poststructuralism & International Relations Jenny Edkins, 1999 Offering an introduction to the major poststructuralist thinkers this text shows how Foucault Derrida Lacan and Žižek expose the depoliticization found in conventional international relations theory poststructuralists are concerned with the big questions of international politics it is precisely their work that analyzes the political and explains the processes of depoliticization and technologization

Poststructuralism and International Relations Jenny Edkins, 1999 Offering a sophisticated introduction to the major post structuralist thinkers this book shows how Foucault Derrida Lacan and Žižek expose the depoliticization found in conventional international relations theory Edkins argues that contrary to the opinions of their detractors the poststructuralists are concerned with the big questions of international politics it is precisely their work that analyzes the political and explains the processes of depoliticization and technologization Paying particular attention to notions of the subject and subjectivity in relation to the political and to the relationship between ideology and social reality Edkins explores in short why Foucault and others matter for international relations

Whose Hunger? Jenny Edkins, 2000 We see famine and look for the likely causes poor food distribution unstable regimes caprices of weather A technical problem we tell ourselves one that modern social and natural science will someday resolve To the contrary Jenny Edkins responds in this book Famine in the contemporary world is not the antithesis of modernity but its symptom A critical investigation of hunger famine and aid practices in international politics Whose Hunger shows how the forms and ideas of modernity frame our understanding of famine and consequently shape our responses

International Relations Theory Cynthia Weber, 2005 This innovative textbook introduces students to the main theories in international relations The 2nd edition includes new chapters on the clash of civilizations and Empire

Constructing Sovereignty between Politics and Law Tanja Aalberts, 2012-08-06 This book explores the interplay between sovereignty politics and law through different conceptualizations of sovereignty Despite developments such as European integration globalization and state failure sovereignty proves to be a resilient institution in contemporary international politics This book investigates both the continuity and change of sovereignty through an examination of the different ways it is understood sovereignty as an institution as identity as a language game and as subjectivity In this illuminating book Aalberts examines sovereign statehood as a political legal concept an institutional product of modern international society and seeks an interdisciplinary approach that combines international relations and international law This book traces the consequences of this origin for the conceptualization of sovereign statehood in modern academic discourse drawing on key jurisprudence and international treaties and provides a new framework to consider the international significance of sovereignty As an innovative approach to a critical institution Constructing Sovereignty between Politics and Law will be of interest to students and scholars of international relations international relations theory and international law

International Relations Theories Timothy Dunne, Milja Kurki, Steve

Smith,2013-01-03 Drawing on a wealth of expertise from an international team of contributors the second edition of International Relations Theories presents a diverse selection of theoretical positions Arguing that theory is central to explaining the dynamics of world politics editors Tim Dunne Milja Kurki and Steve Smith cover a wide variety of theoretical positions from the historically dominant traditions to powerful critical voices since the 1980s The editors have brought together a team of international contributors each specializing in a different theory The contributors explain the theoretical background to their positions before showing how and why their theories matter The book opens up space for analysis and debate allowing students to decide which theories they find most useful in explaining and understanding international relations

The Oxford Handbook of International Studies Pedagogy Heather A. Smith,Mark A. Boyer,David J. Hornsby,2024 This volume on international studies pedagogy helps us think purposefully about the worlds we teach to our students and it shows us why engaging in reflective practice about how and what we teach matters The Handbook also provides strategies to engage students in a variety of ways to reflect on and engage with the complexities of the world in which we live

Lacan, Deleuze and World Politics Andreja Zevnik,2016-02-26 This book aims to re think the way in which the subject is inscribed in the modern political and does so by exploring the potentiality of Lacano Deleuzian theoretical framework It concerns a different ontology and a non dualist understanding of political and legal existence by focusing on questions such as how to think alternative notions of political existence and what kind of political social and legal order do these come to create This investigation into political appearance of subjects through concepts of law body and life is led and influenced by the thought of Gilles Deleuze and Jacques Lacan as well as Alain Badiou Antonio Negri and Slavoj Žižek The book takes on various conceptualisations of life explores the relationship between law and life and develops an alternative notion of legal and political existence in particular in the context of rights On the back of Guantánamo's legal and political discourses this work aims to show why and how the problems of world politics or the limitations of human rights discourse require an engagement with questions such as what it means to exist as a human being what forms of life are politically recognised which are not and why this distinction By pointing to a different ontology for thinking and understanding global politics and demonstrating how a trans disciplinary and philosophical approaches can foster the debates in world politics this book will be of interest to postgraduates and scholars working on critical normative ideas in international politics critical security studies and critical legal studies

Production of Postcolonial India and Pakistan Ted Svensson, 2013-07-31 This work seeks to examine the event and concurrent transition that the inauguration of India and Pakistan as postcolonial states in August 1947 constituted and effectuated Analysing India and Pakistan together in a parallel and mutually dependant reading and utilizing primary data and archival materials Svensson offers new insights into the current literature seeking to conceptualise independence through partition and decolonisation in terms of novelty and as a restarting of time Through his analysis Svensson demonstrates the constitutive and inexorable entwinement of contingency and restoration of openness and closure in the establishment of the postcolonial state It is maintained that those involved in instituting the new state in a moment devoid of fixity and foundation anchor it in preceding beginnings The work concludes with the proposition that the novelty should not only be regarded as contained in the moment of transition It should also be seen as contained in the pledge in the promise and the gesturing towards a future community Distinct from most other studies on the partition and independence the book assumes the constitutive moment as the focal point offering a new approach to the study of partition in British India decolonisation and the institutional of the postcolonial state This work will be of great interest to students and scholars of international relations South Asian studies and political and postcolonial theory

International Relations in a Relational Universe Milja Kurki, 2020 Building a conversation between relational cosmology developed in natural sciences and critical social theory this book seeks to develop a new perspective on how to think relationally in and around the study of IR

Evaluating Progress in International Relations Annette Freyberg-Inan, Ewan Harrison, Patrick James, 2016-10-04 This edited volume offers a systematic evaluation of how knowledge is produced by scholarly research into International Relations The contributors explore three key questions To what extent is scientific progress and accumulation of knowledge possible What are the different accounts of how this process takes place And what are the dominant critiques of these understandings It is the first publication to survey the full range of perspectives available for evaluating scientific progress as well as dominant critiques of scientism In its second part the volume applies this range of perspectives to the research program on the democratic peace It shows what we gain by accommodating and enabling dialogue among the full range of epistemological approaches The contributors elaborate and defend the epistemological position of sociable pluralism as one that seeks to build bridges between soft positivism critical theory and critical realism The underlying idea is that if the differences between the various approaches used by different communities of researchers can be understood more clearly this will facilitate meaningful cross cutting communication dialogue and debate and thereby enable us to address real world problems more effectively This timely and original work will be of great interest to advanced level students and scholars dealing with philosophy of science and methodological questions in International Relations

Trauma and the Memory of Politics Jenny Edkins, 2003-07-31 In this interesting study Jenny Edkins explores how we remember traumatic events such as wars famines genocides and terrorism and questions the assumed role of commemorations as simply reinforcing state and nationhood Taking examples from the World Wars Vietnam the Holocaust Kosovo and September 11th Edkins offers a thorough discussion of practices of memory such as memorials museums remembrance ceremonies the diagnosis of post traumatic stress and the act of bearing witness She examines the implications of these commemorations in terms of language political power sovereignty and nationalism She argues that some forms of remembering do not ignore the horror of what happened but rather use memory to promote change and to challenge the political systems that produced the violence of wars and genocides in the first place This wide ranging study embraces literature history politics and international relations and makes a significant contribution to the study of memory

The Business of War James A. Tyner, 2017-11-30 Since the cessation of major combat operations in Iraq approximately 120 people either contract workers or private soldiers have been abducted with one third being executed The largest contingent of these workers has been provided by the Philippines Through a specific though not exclusive focus on the Philippines connection this book considers the myriad ways in which transnational labour migration intersects with the occupation of Iraq Also examining the role of the USA in the Middle East the book places the war on terror within the practices of neoliberalism but also links this with migration issues and argues that it is all part of a larger business of conflict

The Green State in Africa Carl Death, 2016-01-01 A provocative reassessment of the relationship between states and environmental politics in Africa From climate related risks such as crop failure and famine to longer term concerns about sustainable urbanization environmental justice and biodiversity conservation African states face a range of environmental issues As Carl Death demonstrates the ways in which they are addressing them have important political ramifications and challenge current understandings of green politics Death draws on almost a decade of research to reveal how central African environmental politics are to the transformation of African states

The New Famines Stephen Devereux, 2006-11-22 The recent occurrences of famine in Ethiopia and Southern Africa have propelled this key issue back into the public arena for the first time since 1984 as once again it becomes a priority not only for lesser developed countries but also for the international community Exploring the paradox that is the persistence of famine in the contemporary world this book looks at the way the nature of famine is changing in the face of globalization and shifting geo political forces The book challenges perceived wisdom about the causes of famine and analyzes the worst cases of recent years including close analysis of food scarcity in North Korea Ethiopia Sudan and Malawi and less well known cases in Madagascar Iraq and Bosnia With fresh conceptual frameworks and analytical tools major theoretical constructs which have previously been applied to analyze famines such as the democracy ends famine argument Sen s entitlement approach and the complex political emergency framework are confronted This volume assembles an international team of contributors including Marcus Noland Alex de Waal and Dan Maxwell an impressive roster which helps make this book an important resource for those in the fields of development studies and political economics

Queering Governance and International Law Caitlin Biddolph, 2025 International law is brought into existence by actors from a variety of perspectives international lawyers state representatives bureaucrats and organizations and as such international law is riddled with contradictions It is violent and violating reducing complex lives and histories to good lawful and bad criminal bodies subject to protection praise or punishment And yet it has potential to be a means of hope resistance and justice for victims survivors and oppressed communities In Queering Governance and International Law Caitlin Biddolph examines the international legal space through queer feminist and postcolonial lenses In doing so she queers governance and international law exposing the gendered and sexualized meanings behind legal concepts like violence and critiquing legal status quos so that more transformative liberatory and queerer paths to justice might be dreamt and manifested within and beyond international law Using as a case study the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia ICTY Biddolph traces the cis heteronormative underpinnings of legal violence and identifies ways that violence can be resisted and international law subverted to dismantle the very gendered and racial hierarchies it has reinforced
