Pour Un Autre Tourisme En Afrique De Louest:

Pour un autre tourisme en Afrique de l'Ouest Nathalie CASANOVAS, 2014-01-01 Cet ouvrage traite de l'apport du tourisme en Afrique de l'Ouest. Le but est de contribuer à analyser les conditions d'un mieux vivre des populations pauvres par de nouvelles formes de tourisms alternatifs et par l'expérimentation de démarches professionnalisées de tourisme solidaire. Enfin, c'est un tourisme sur mesure en équilibre que cet ouvrage propose d'étudier, l'aide d'un processus innovant de mesure du point de vue des trois piliers du développement durable.

La grande chasse en Afrique de l'Ouest : quelle contribution à la conservation?, Cahiers de l'Afrique de l'Ouest Dynamiques de l'urbanisation africaine 2022

Le rayonnement économique des villes africaines OECD, United Nations Economic Commission for Africa, African Development Bank, 2022-10-31 Ce rapport apporte un éclairage nouveau sur les économies urbaines africaines d'une portée et d'une précision unique. Sur la base de données recueillies auprès de plus de 4 millions d'individus et d'entreprises issus de 2 600 villes de 34 pays africains, le rapport montre que l'urbanisation contribue à l'amélioration des résultats économiques et du niveau de vie.

Lieux de mémoire, patrimoine et histoire en Afrique de l'Ouest Magloire Somé, Lassina Simporé, 2014-06-16 A travers la patrimonialisation des sites et monuments historiques l'étude des lieux de mémoire s'est imposée comme un champ de recherche, sinon comme une sorte de laboratoire qui mobilise depuis deux décennies en Afrique archéologues, historiens et anthropologues. L'étude du patrimoine se fait en relation étroite avec celle de la mémoire de l'histoire du peuplement et de la rencontre des cultures, aussi bien précoloniales que coloniales. En prenant comme point focal de la réflexion les Ruines de Loropéni inscrites en 2009 sur la liste du Patrimoine mondial de l'humanité, ce livre pointe tout particulièrement la recherche des origines de monuments de pierre en ruines occupant dans le Sud-ouest du Burkina Faso un espace de plus de 8 000 km². Il entend susciter des investigations plus approfondies pour lever entièrement le voile du mystère qui a jusqu'entouré ces ruines. Pour mieux cerner leur histoire et leur fonction sociale et politique, suppose le livre, interroge au-delà de l'histoire du peuplement de l'Ouest africain l'étude du patrimoine culturel africain sous le double angle du matériel et de l'immatériel du naturel et de l'humain en symbiose. Il soulève la question des enjeux de revendication des legs du passé par des communautés qui manipulent la mémoire et réinventent souvent leur propre histoire. Le livre soulève enfin la problématique de la conservation, de la sauvegarde et de la protection du patrimoine culturel souvent menacé par les projets de développement économique.

Présentation d'Aruba Gilad James, PhD, Aruba est une petite île du sud de la mer des Caraïbes située juste au large des côtes du Venezuela C'est un pays constitutif du Royaume des Pays Bas et ses langues officielles sont le néerlandais et le papiamentu. La capitale et la plus grande ville de l'île est Oranjestad. Aruba est connue pour ses plages de sable blanc, ses eaux cristallines et son climat chaud. Le tourisme est la principale industrie de l'île, représentant près de 90 % de son économie. Les activités populaires pour les visiteurs d'Aruba incluent les sports nautiques tels que la plongée avec tuba et la plongée sous-marine, ainsi que les boutiques, les restaurants et la vie nocturne. L'île possède également plusieurs parcs nationaux et réserves naturelles où les visiteurs peuvent découvrir la diversité de la flore et de la faune de l'île. Malgré sa petite taille, Aruba possède un riche patrimoine culturel avec un mélange unique d'influences hollandaises, caribéennes et sud-américaines.

Net et terrain Michèle Cros, Quentin Mégret, 2011. L'anthropologie de la nature ne concerne plus seulement des groupes sociaux localisés et prisums homogènes. Elle s'intéresse aussi aux réseaux, aux ramifications complexes et aux changes globalisés que révèle Internet. Pour étudier les représentations que les humains se font de leur environnement et rediscuter la distinction entre nature et culture, il est désormais nécessaire d'articuler expériences de terrain et enquêtes sur le Net. Tout en mobilisant des données collectées au cours de plusieurs jours en Afrique, les auteurs de cet ouvrage reconsidèrent les techniques d'investigation ethnographique en anthropologie de la nature. Les imaginaires de la sauvagerie dans le rap gabonais Alice Aterianus ou dans la pratique du safari Maxime Michaud mobilisent des images qui circulent la fois dans les discours locaux et sur Internet. Les blogs de voyages rendent compte des illusions provoquées par les visites des zoos d'Afrique de l'Ouest Julien Bondaz. Le classement au patrimoine mondial de l'UNESCO des ruines de Loropéni au Burkina Faso témoigne de la variété des représentations de la nature lorsque l'on passe du site classé aux sites en ligne. Bertrand Royer. L'étude de l'exploitation forestière au Gabon Etienne Bourel ou de l'exploration minière au Burkina Faso. Quentin Mégret met en évidence les différents niveaux d'analyse des processus de globalisation de l'observation des pratiques locales des entreprises. L'analyse des images et des discours qu'elles diffusent sur Internet. En décrivant la variété des relations aux végétaux, aux animaux, aux paysages ou aux matières premières, les contributeurs présentent une Afrique moderne observable sur le terrain et donnée voir sur la Toile. Métaphorise, fantasmatisée, consommée, instrumentalisée ou quantifiée, la nature apparaît comme un objet d'étude particulièrement fécond pour interroger les branchements entre mondes réels et mondes virtuels.

Perspectives économiques en Afrique 2008 OECD, African Development Bank, 2008-06-06. Valuation et projections annuelles de la Banque africaine de développement et de l'OCDE concernant près de 35 économies africaines. Lignes directrices pour de meilleures pratiques en matière de tourisme de vision des grands singes Elizabeth J. Macfie, 2010. Executive summary. Tourism is often proposed 1 as a strategy to fund conservation efforts to protect great apes and their habitats 2 as a way for local communities to participate in and benefit from conservation activities on behalf of great apes or 3 as a business. A few very successful sites point to the considerable potential of conservation based great ape tourism but it will not be possible to replicate this success everywhere. The number of significant risks to great apes that can arise from tourism require a cautious approach. If great ape tourism is not based on sound conservation principles right from the start, the odds are that economic objectives will take precedence the consequences of which in all likelihood would be damaging to the well being and eventual survival of the apes and detrimental to the continued preservation of their habitat All great ape species and subspecies are classified as Endangered or Critically Endangered on the IUCN Red List of Threatened Species IUCN 2010 therefore it is imperative that great ape tourism adhere to the best practice guidelines in this document The guiding principles of best practice in great ape tourism are Tourism is not a panacea for great ape conservation or revenue generation Tourism can enhance long term support for the conservation of great apes and their habitat Conservation comes first it must be the primary goal at any great ape site and tourism can be a tool to help fund it Great ape tourism should only be developed if the anticipated conservation benefits as identified in impact studies significantly outweigh the risks Enhanced conservation investment and action at great ape tourism sites must be sustained in perpetuity Great ape tourism management must be based on sound and objective science Benefits and profit for communities adjacent to great ape habitat should be maximised Profit to private sector partners and others who earn income associated with tourism is also important but should not be the driving force for great ape tourism development or expansion Comprehensive understanding of potential impacts must guide tourism development positive impacts from tourism must be maximised and negative impacts must be avoided or if inevitable better understood and mitigated The ultimate success or failure of great ape tourism can lie in variables that may not be obvious to policymakers who base their decisions primarily on earning revenue for struggling conservation programmes However a number of biological geographical economic and global factors can affect a site so as to render ape tourism ill advised or unsustainable This can be due for example to the failure of the tourism market for a particular site to provide revenue sufficient to cover the development and operating costs or it can result from failure to protect the target great apes from the large number of significant negative aspects inherent in tourism Either of these failures will have serious consequences for the great ape population Once apes are habituated to human observers they are at increased risk from poaching and other forms of conflict with humans They must be protected in perpetuity even if tourism fails or ceases for any reason Great ape tourism should not be developed without conducting critical feasibility analyses to ensure there is sufficient potential for success Strict attention must be paid to the design of the enterprise its implementation and continual management capacity in a manner that avoids or at least minimises the negative impacts of tourism on local communities and on the apes themselves Monitoring programmes to track costs and impacts as well as benefits is essential to inform management on how to optimise tourism for conservation benefits These guidelines have been developed for both existing and potential great ape tourism sites that wish to improve the degree to which their programme contributes to the conservation rather than the exploitation of great apes
