

Writing the First Draft

Now that we've finished the pre-writing process, it is time to move on to writing our stories. We use our graphic organizers to write out first drafts since we have already written out all of our topic, the main ideas and the details. All we need to do is transform our graphic organizer into paragraph form.

Introduction-TOPIC

- Introduce your topic from your graphic organizer.
- Example: "My birthday is my favorite day of the year, this year on my birthday, I did something REALLY special".

Body

- Take each of your main ideas or events and write them each as a paragraph with their supporting details.
- Your paragraphs should look something like this:

Main Idea. Supporting Detail #1. Supporting Detail #2. Supporting Detail #3.

Conclusion (talk about why the main idea is so special or important).

Conclusion

- Your conclusion is the end of your story. Write a few sentences that end your story, or ask the reader a question.

For example,

I wish everyday could be my birthday because I have so much fun.

Or

My birthday is my favorite day of the year because I get to do all of these fun activities. What do you like to do on your birthday?
