

High School Graduation Speech June 6, 2008

J. André de Barros Teixeira
Chairman of the Board of Trustees
International School of Brussels

Ladies and gentlemen of the Class of 2008,

In this moment of pride for yourselves, your friends, your parents, your beloved ones, I bring to you a message of humility.

In a time of disintegration, of broken down values, of fragmented principles, I dare to call your attention to the holistic beauty of this moment.

It was only twelve years ago when you crossed the gates of this or another school, fearing the forsaken solitude of the interminable hours between that grudgingly uttered good bye and the sight of your mum or dad at the patio again at the end of the day.

It was probably just seven years ago when home work began to build up as a chore to be performed on a daily and grinding basis.

Three years have passed since you felt that the peak of achievement waited for you in the High School classrooms.

And here you are today, wondering what next.

There is pride in your eyes, there is hope in your hearts and there are plans for glory in your minds.

Pride, hope and glory are well deserved, and you must savor the moment, as the diver who jumps from the highest cliff.

However, neither pride or hope or glory is a good strategy. Being humble, focused and not seeking the credit will do a lot more to move you to the next level. The thrill of the jump and the coolness of the water are simple preludes to climbing the whole cliff back again, reaching the new peak with sweat and tears.

In a world of interminable wars, of terrorism-laden territories, of famine amidst incomparable wealth, you have been privileged to be exposed to the greatest of all diversities: That of cultures, habits, languages, attitudes and patterns of behavior. Very few schools in the world can boast the enormous diversity of nationalities to be found at ISB. Moreover, you are now a strong generation of multinational, and dare I say, transnational individuals, whose ability to cope with and celebrate diversity is second to none.

Tolerance and understanding are the most effective antidote to prejudice. Like a parachute, your mind functions better because it is open. Like an iPod, you carry in your heads a baggage of sounds and images that will shape the choices you will be making in the very near future.

However, nothing will replace your focus on your principles, your values, the ethical and moral ground where all great ideas flourish. Nothing will take away the need to look after your family, your friends, your health. Nothing will replace your need to be fair and just, understanding and courageous in the face of adversity.

Race to the Bottom LaFleur Stephens-Dougan, 2020-07-31 African American voters are a key demographic to the modern Democratic base and conventional wisdom has it that there is political cost to racialized dog whistles especially for Democratic candidates However politicians from both parties and from all racial backgrounds continually appeal to negative racial attitudes for political gain Challenging what we think we know about race and politics LaFleur Stephens Dougan argues that candidates across the racial and political spectrum engage in racial distancing or using negative racial appeals to communicate to racially moderate and conservative whites the overwhelming majority of whites that they will not disrupt the racial status quo Race to the Bottom closely examines empirical data on racialized partisan stereotypes to show that engaging in racial distancing through political platforms that do not address the needs of nonwhite communities and charged rhetoric that targets African Americans immigrants and others can be politically advantageous Racialized communication persists as a well worn campaign strategy because it has real electoral value for both white and black politicians seeking to broaden their coalitions Stephens Dougan reveals that claims of racial progress have been overstated as our politicians are incentivized to employ racial prejudices at the expense of the most marginalized in our society Work and Education in America Antje Barabasch, Felix Rauner, 2011-09-24 This the first comprehensive academic volume on vocational education and training VET or career and technical education in the United States features insights into a variety of issues in this field of research The international reader will find an up to date synthesis as well as a critical analysis of the relevant history philosophy governance legislation and organizational structures The coverage is structured according to the benchmarks applied to as well as the theoretical discussions around VET The topics covered all have a strong contemporary relevance and include education versus qualification the American community college the issue of localization versus globalization in governance vocationalism in higher education career guidance and career counselling and apprenticeships in the U S This book supports the assertion of the relevance of career and technical education both for the individual and the labour market Scholars policy makers and practitioners interested in issues of vocational education and training technical education and career education will find this collection of critical and reflective discussions very useful in any analysis of the features of VET approaches taken in America Inquiry by Design John Zeisel, 1984-05-25 Illustrating his points with many references to actual projects John Zeisel explains in non technical language the integration of social science research and design The

Mixed Messages Stefanie Mollborn, 2017 Sex is bad Unprotected sex is a problem Having a baby would be a disaster Abortion is a sin Teenagers in the United States hear conflicting messages about sex from everyone around them How do teens understand these messages In Mixed Messages Stefanie Mollborn examines how social norms and social control work through in depth interviews with college students and teen mothers and fathers revealing the tough conversations teenagers just can't have with adults Delving into teenagers' complicated social worlds Mollborn argues that by creating informal social sanctions like gossip and exclusion and formal communication such as sex education families peers schools and communities strategize to gain control over teens' behaviors However while teens strategize to keep control they resist the constraints of the norms revealing the variety of outcomes that occur beyond compliance or deviance By showing that the norms existing today around teen sex are ineffective failing to regulate sexual behavior and instead punishing teens that violate them Mollborn calls for a more thoughtful and consistent dialogue between teens and adults emphasizing messages that will lead to more positive health outcomes
